Quad countries discuss Russia's role in Ukraine crisis

NEW YORK: The Quad on Friday called for the elimination of terrorist safe havens and for bringing to justice the perpetrators of cross-border terrorism. "We call on all countries to ensure that territory under their control is not used to launch terror attacks and to expeditiously bring to justice the perpetrators of such attacks," the Foreign Ministers of the Quad nations said in a joint statement after their meeting in Australia's Melbourne.

Reiterating the condemnation of the 26/11 Mumbai and Pathankot terrorist attacks, the statement said: "We denounce the use of terrorist proxies for cross-border terrorism and urge countries to work together to eliminate terrorist safe havens; disrupt terrorist networks and the infrastructure and financial channels which sustain them, and halt cross-border movement of terrorists."

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken and Foreign Ministers Marise Payne of Australia and Hayashi Yoshimasa of Japan who participated in the meeting focused on joint action, said in their statement: "The Quad is exchanging information on ever-evolving threats and working with Indo-Pacific countries, and in multilateral fora, to counter all forms of terrorism and violent extremism. "They warned that "ungoverned spaces" are "a direct threat to the safety and security of the Indo-Pacific" and said, "Afghan territory should not be used to threaten or attack any country, shelter or train terrorists, or plan or finance terrorist acts."

The statement said they were committed to the "Indo-Pacific countries' efforts to advance a free and open Indo-Pacific - a region which is inclusive and resilient, and in which states strive to protect the interests of their people, free from coercion". Without mentioning China which poses a common threat to the four countries, the ministers said: "Quad partners champion the free, open, and inclusive rules-based order, rooted in international law, that protects the sovereignty and territorial integrity of regional countries."

Their statement made a pointed reference to the South and East China Seas where Beijing has posed a direct threat to countries in the area. "We reiterate the importance of adherence to international law, particularly as reflected in the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), to meet challenges to the maritime rules-based order, including in South and East China Seas,"

In joint statement

□ We call on all countries to ensure that territory under their control is not used to launch terror attacks and to expeditiously bring to justice the perpetrators of such attacks the statement said. "The Quad recognises that international law, peace, and security in the maritime domain underpins the development and prosperity of the Indo-Pacific," it added.

The ministers said they would "deepen engagement with regional partners, including through capacity-building and technical assistance, to strengthen maritime domain awareness, protect their ability to develop offshore resources, consistent with UNCLOS, ensure freedom of navigation and overflight, combat challenges, such as illegal, unreported, and unregulated fishing, and promote the safety and security of sea lines of communication". Their statement highlighted their initiative to provide 1.3 billion vaccines around the region with India being the manufacturer of the vaccine."

We are pleased with the Quad Vaccine Partnership's rapid progress in expanding vaccine production at the Biological E Ltd facility in India, which aims to deliver at least 1 billion vaccines by the end of 2022," it said. The first batch of Quad-supported vaccines would become available in the first half of this year, it said. As another element of Quad's humanitarian assistance and disaster response programmes, the statement said that it was helping recovery efforts in Tonga which was hit by volcano eruption and tsunami last month. The Quad ministers who met under the shadow of tensions in Europe because of the confrontation between Russia and Ukraine, did not broach the topic in their statement.

BJP, alliance partners want to build 'New Punjab', says Modi

FW BUREAU Chandigarh

PM Modi's first address to the people of Punjab after his last month return without addressing a rally in Ferozepur due to security breach. In a virtual rally for poll-bound Punjab, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said the upcoming Assembly elections are for taking the state out of uncertainty as he stressed that the BJP and its alliance partners want to build a New Punjab. While addressing a virtual rally for Assembly segments of Ludhiana and Fatehgarh Sahib parliamentary constituencies, Modi said the BJP and its alliance partners in the NDA always stood with Sikh traditions. PM Modi greeted people in Punjab by saying "Sat Sri Akal" and "Waheguru ji ka Khalsa, Waheguru ji ki fategh". He recalled sacrifices of Sahibzadas Zorawar Singh and Fateh Singh, sons of the 10th Sikh Guru Gobind Singh. Prime Minister Modi said the BJP and its allies are committed for the development of Punjab as he referred to 11 "sankalps" (commitments) recently brought out for the state. He said it is only the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) that has a vision of "Nawan" (new) Punjab and a track record of delivering on the ground. Modi asked whether these elections are meant only for just forming a new government. "Are these elections only for making a chief minister? Are these elections for electing new ministers and new MLAs? No. These elections are to speed up the state's development and bring Punjab out of the situation of uncertainty," he said. "Punjab needs modernisation at every level, which is beyond the capability of the Congress and least of those who want to convert Delhi into jhuggi jhopdi" (slum)," he said in a veiled attack on the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP). In a scathing attack, Modi alleged that the Congress indulged in the massacre of Sikhs. "But we got the guilty of genocide punished," said Modi. "The Congress could not even keep Kartarpur in India. But we opened the way to Kartarpur," he said, adding that there were many such examples which reflect his government's true intentions and dedication for the honour of the Sikh Gurus. Without naming AAP, Modi urged voters to be cautious of those "who made lofty speeches on the menace of drug addiction during last elections". After the elections, they were gone, he said, adding "but instead of helping the people, they took the disease to Delhi". The remarks appear to be in reference to the opening of more liquor shops in the national capital as being alleged by BJP leaders in Punjab. "Those people have again reached here, are holding sweet talks and again demanding votes from you. Punjab has to be cautious of such people," said Modi. "Today Punjab does not need hollow promises. It needs the intentions and honest attempts of the NDA and double engine government," he said. He said for some people "Punjab has only been a tool for power".

To rule Punjab, they hatched many conspiracies and these people pushed Punjab, the land of Gurus, into the fire of terror, he said. Modi said a border area development authority will be constituted to develop the areas near the frontiers and Rs 1 lakh crore will be spent on infrastructure in the state in next five years. He also spoke about setting up a commission for helping victims of terrorism. Modi said the supply of drugs, arms and ammunition coming from across the border will also be stopped. History is witness that a strong Punjab has always lent strength to the nation, he added. He also promised a drug-free state. Taking on the Congress, Modi said, "During Covid times, you have seen how the Congress spent its energy on humiliating Capt Sahab (Amarinder Singh)". "This work is not within capability of those who are not able to take care of Delhi," Modi said in an apparent reference to AAP. In this scenario, if there is a strong alternative before Punjab, that is the BJP and the NDA, he said. "We are building an India of the 21st century, an Atmanirbhar Bharat. Punjab is a very important part of this vision. The double engine will help give development a fillip here," he said. Those people who want to destabilise Punjab, you have to be wary of those, the PM said. He appealed to the youth to make the right decision. "This time, I am addressing you virtually, but now that the Election Commission has allowed some relaxation, keeping that in view, I will be visiting Punjab in the coming days," he said. At the beginning of his speech, Modi invoked the teachings of Sikh Gurus and sacrifices for the welfare and well-being of each and every Punjabi. He said it was his good fortune that he and his government got a chance to honour the sacrifices of Sahibzadas as he was apparently referring to his government's decision of observing December 26 as "Veer Baal Diwas" as a tribute to the 10th Sikh Guru Gobind Singh's four sons, who were executed by the Mughals. The BJP is contesting the elections in alliance with Amarinder Singh-led Punjab Lok Congress and Sukhdev Singh Dhindsa-led Shiromani Akali Dal (Sanyukt).

Karnataka HC requests state govt to reopen schools, says no to hijab and saffron shawls in classrooms

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court, which is hearing the petitions against the Hijab ban, has requested the state government to reopen educational institutions and also restrained the students from wearing saffron shawls, scarves, Hijab and any religious flag within the classroom. In its interim order issued by the three-judge full bench led by Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi, the court also made it clear that the order was confined to such of the institutions wherein the College Development Committees have prescribed the student dress code or uniform. "We request the State Government and all other stakeholders to reopen the educational institutions and allow the students to return to the classes at the earliest. Pending consideration of all these petitions, we restrain all the students regardless of their religion or faith from wearing saffron shawls (Bhagwa), scarves, hijab, religious flags or the like within the classroom, until further orders," the full bench comprising CJ Awasthi, Justice Krishna S Dixit and Justice J M Khazi said in their order on Thursday, which was made public on Friday.

As crude races toward $100/b it will undermine fragile economic recovery in Asia

NEW DELHI: The dramatic sprint of crude oil toward $100/b is prompting Asian importers to rethink supply strategy as well as their fiscal roadmap, which could result in an aggressive recourse to strategic reserves, changes to fuel subsidies and taxes, and a much bigger push toward new energy alternatives, S&P Global Platts Analytics said.

Although the oil demand outlook for top consumers China and India looks resilient following a lengthy period of pandemic-hit uneven growth, keeping the oil import bill in check is one of the biggest priorities in Asia at a time when governments are desperate to allocate funds for economic revival, analysts said.

"High oil prices will dampen demand and will undermine the fragile economic recovery if they continue to rise," said Lim Jit Yang, advisor for oil markets at S&P Global Platts Analytics. Platts Analytics expects Asian oil demand to grow by 1.5 million b/d year on year in 2022, up from 1.2 million b/d in 2021, as the impact of the omicron coronavirus variant on Asian oil demand is expected to be relatively less severe than the delta strain, and with many countries moving toward re-opening economies due to higher vaccination rates.

Asian refiners have continued to call for OPEC plus to raise supply by at least 800,000 b/d. The group's decision to increase output by 400,000 b/d for March may not ease tight supplies and cool overheated prices in the region, according to a S&P Global Platts survey of analysts. Following the White House announcement in November that the US would release 50 million barrels from its SPR in early 2022, India, China, South Korea and Japan followed suit and announced plans to release SPRs in an effort to boost supplies and battle rising prices. But Asian countries have so far been reluctant to release huge volumes from SPRs just as a cushion for high prices."

□ High oil prices will dampen demand and will undermine the fragile economic recovery if they continue to rise"

In addition to SPR releases earlier, a few Asian countries have taken various measures to ease the impact of high prices on consumers, including introducing fuel subsidies in Japan and a reduction of fuel taxes in South Korea and India," Lim said.

Reliance Industries to acquires stake in electric vehicle technology firm Altgreen

FW BUREAU New Delhi

Reliance Industries Ltd on Thursday announced the acquisition of a stake in electric vehicle technology and solutions company Altgreen Propulsion Labs Pvt Ltd for Rs 50.16 crore.

"Reliance New Energy Ltd (RNEL), a wholly-owned subsidiary of the company, has entered into an agreement with Altgreen for the subscription of 34,000 Series-A Compulsorily Convertible Preference Shares of face value Rs 100 each for an aggregate consideration of Rs 50.16 crore," Reliance said in a stock exchange filing. The company did not say how much equity shareholding will it get against the investment. The transaction is proposed to be completed before March 2022.

Based out of Bengaluru, Altgreen is an electric vehicle technology and solutions company for commercial last-mile transportation through 2/3/4 wheeled vehicles. It has developed an E3W vehicle, and its vehicles are built in-house in Bangalore on a mobility platform that is 100 per cent indigenous. Its current patent portfolio spans 60 countries with 26 global patents, the firm said, adding some of Altgreen's current technologies include electric motors and generators, vehicle controls, motor controls, EV transmissions, telematics & IoT and battery management. "The investment is part of our company's strategic intent of collaborating with innovative companies in new energy and new mobility ecosystems," it said. Altgreen is a private limited company incorporated in India on February 8, 2013. It had a turnover of Rs 103.82 lakh in 2020-21. The transaction will not require any government or regulatory approval, the firm added.

Delhi HC grants two weeks to Centre to state stand on criminalising marital rape

NEW DELHI: The Delhi High Court on Monday granted two weeks to the Centre to state its stand on petitions seeking criminalisation of marital rape following Solicitor General Tushar Mehta's submission that the government is neither in favour nor against striking down the immunity granted to husbands under the Indian Penal Code. Mehta emphasised that a "holistic view" has to be considered on criminalising marital rape which is a sensitive socio-legal issue and a request for deferring further hearing was not unjustifiable.

He also clarified that the Centre's stand on the petitions was reflected in its last affidavit seeking time to undertake a consultative process for a decision. "It is not the central government's stand that it (the exception) should either go or it should remain," he said. "I am saying neither... The central government's stand is reflected in the last affidavit which we have filed. Let it not be said that we are in favour of retaining (or) we are deleting it," he added. "We worship women. It is possibly the only country where we worship women but while dealing with a sensitive socio-legal statutory provision, a little more holistic view is called for without which is not possible for central government to render assistance," Mehta submitted. A bench headed by Justice Rajiv Shakti, which is dealing with the petitions seeking to strike down the exception granted to husbands under the Indian rape law, observed that the issue has to be decided either by the court or the legislature and granted two weeks to the Centre to formulate its stand. "We don't claim to be a repository of all wisdom but it is our job as a Constitutional court to decide a lis which comes before us... We don't even know what call we are going to take at the moment (on the issue)," said the bench, also comprising Justice C Hari Shankar.

"We will give you two weeks. You come back. As a court, it does not gel with us that we keep the matter pending," remarked the court which listed the case for hearing on February 21. "The central government has to take a decision. The legislature is the third wing this is a matter where we want to hear you," said Justice Shakti.

The court was hearing PILs filed by NGOs RIT Foundation, All India Democratic Women's Association, a man and a woman seeking striking down of the exception granted to husbands under the Indian rape law. Mehta asserted that the protection of the fundamental rights of women was a matter of priority and the present petitions should not be treated as merely concerning the validity of a constitutional provision. "We are dealing with a larger issue... The subject matter has very far-reaching socio-legal implications in the country. None of us can take it as a mere validity challenge," he submitted. AGENCIES

Delhi Court lets off Navy officer accused in rape case on benefit of doubt

NEW DELHI: A court here has acquitted a person, serving as Lt. Commander in the Indian Navy, who had been accused of raping a woman based on a promise of marriage, on the benefit of the doubt after noting discrepancies and different versions on the rape incident by the alleged victim. In the recent judgment, Additional Sessions Judge Ankur Jain of Tis Hazari court observed several discrepancies. It is quite unnatural that the victim did not tell anything to her mother just after the incident or even thereafter and waited for about two days till the time marriage was called off by the mother of the accused, the court noted. The court took note of the different versions of the incident by the woman. As per the woman, she got engaged to the accused in 2015 and with the permission of family members and they used to talk on the mobile phone regularly. In the complaint, the woman alleged that she was raped by the accused at a family gathering at her uncle's house and thereafter the FIR was lodged at the Janakpuri police station under section 376 IPC. The court said it appears that the present complaint was made to pressurise the accused to enter into a matrimonial alliance, succumbing to the pressure at the time of hearing of the bail application, accused had married the prosecutrix which is reflected from the bail order and the photographs so placed on record. The alliance did not survive and ultimately both of them took divorce, the court added.

The accused's counsel argued that the relationship between the two parties was consensual in nature and no alleged crime was committed by his client. AGENCIES

Delhi HC reserves order on bail plea of Avantha Group promoter

NEW DELHI: The Delhi High Court on Friday reserved the order on the bail plea of Avantha Group promoter Gautam Thapar in a money laundering case linked to an alleged bank loan fraud of Rs 515 crore. A bench of Justice Manoj Kumar Ohri has reserved the order on the bail application. The matter was listed for rejoinder arguments on behalf of Thapar, who was represented by Mukul Rohatgi, Senior Advocate, briefed by a team from Karanjawala & Co. led by Sandeep Kapur, Senior Partner and comprising Vir Sandhu, Vivek Suri, Niharika Karanjawala, Mridul Yadav, Abhimanshu Dhyani, Sahil Modi, and Kajal, Advocates. Rohatgi during rebuttal arguments submitted that the applicant is in jail for the last six months and there has been no arrest made and no charge sheet has been filed in the predicate offence by the Central Bureau of Investigation. Thapar was arrested on August 3, 2021, in connection to the allegations of misappropriation of funds granted by Yes Bank in the form of a Loan. Rohatgi submitted that there is no case of money laundering, misappropriation, cheating, or for the matter of fact it does not attract any offence under the Indian Penal Code and at the worst violation of Reserve Bank of India (RBI) guidelines could be committed from the end of the applicant. AGENCIES

Delhi: Ex-Bureaucrat's son held in hit-and-run case

NEW DELHI: Delhi Police has arrested a 27-year-old man, son of a retired Joint Secretary in the Petroleum Ministry, in the south Delhi hit-and-run case in which a man was injured and hospitalised after being hit by a car, an official said here on Friday. The accused, identified as Raj Sunderam, 27, a law student, was arrested from Gurugram. Deputy Commissioner of Police (South Delhi) Benita Mary Jaiker said on February 8, Wednesday, an information regarding a hit-and-run incident near Greater Kailash was received.

The DCP said that a legal action was also taken against the father of the accused, a former Joint Secretary in the Petroleum Ministry. "He was bound down under Section 212 of the IPC and later released as per law," the police officer said. The accused, driving a mustard colour Volkswagen car at a high speed, hit a man named Anand Vijay Mandelia, 37, and dragged him on the bonnet of the car for a while after which the accused fled the spot. The injured was immediately rushed to Max Hospital for treatment. His condition is now said to be stable. According to the FIR accessed by IANS, the victim was dragged for almost 100 metres while he was atop the bonnet of the car.

"After driving for at least 100 metres, the driver forcefully applied brakes and the victim Mandelia fell down," the FIR read. The man had suffered grievous injuries on his head, hands and had lost consciousness. During the course of investigation, the police found and seized the vehicle involved in the accident and conducted raids at all possible hideouts of the accused. A crime team also visited the spot of the incident and took all crucial evidence from the spot. During one such raid on Friday, the accused was arrested outside Le Meridien Hotel, Gurugram.

Earlier before the arrest of Sunderam, the police had booked him under sections 279 (Rash driving or riding on a public way), 338 (Causing grievous hurt by act endangering life or personal safety of others) of the Indian Penal Code at the Greater Kailash police station. However, later, sections 308 (attempt to commit culpable homicide), 307 (attempt to murder) and 212 (harbouring offender) were added to the FIR. AGENCIES

9-year-old girl among 4 dead as building collapses in north Delhi

NEW DELHI: A building collapsed in north Delhi's Bawana area on Friday afternoon, killing four people, including a woman and a nine-year-old girl, police said. Two women were pulled out of the debris of the building and rushed to a hospital. They are out of danger, police said. The deceased have been identified as Rukaiya Khatun, Shahzad, Afrina (9) and Danish, police said.

The rescue operation is almost over now, police officials said. The fire department officials received information about the incident at 2.48 pm, following which three to four fire tenders rushed to the spot. The police were informed that the building near the Delhi Jal Board had collapsed and four to five people are reportedly buried under debris. The police rushed to the spot and found that the collapsed building was the part of Rajiv Ratan Aawas in which there were about 300 to 400 flats, a senior police officer said. Three JCB, one hydra machine and two ambulances reached the spot and rescue operation was started, they said. "Two women Fatima and Shahnaz—both residents of JJ Colony, Bawana were taken out of the debris and sent to MV hospital Pooth Khurd," Deputy Commissioner of Police (outer north) Brijender Kumar Yadav said. AGENCIES

Juvenile stabs school fellow to take revenge, apprehended

NEW DELHI: The Delhi Police on Wednesday apprehended a juvenile for allegedly stabbing his school fellow to take revenge of an old scuffle in which he was stabbed by the victim. According to source, the victim had reportedly stabbed the juvenile in Jagatpuri based restaurant during a party. Since then the juvenile had been planning to take revenge. DCP of South Delhi, Benita Mary Jaiker said that an attempt to murder case was registered against the accused. The juvenile was apprehended by a team of Tigri Police Station. The knife used in the crime was recovered from the juvenile.

Cops received a PCR call regarding stabbing in Tigri area. Subsequently, information was received from Manjiv Hospital regarding admission of a minor who was stabbed. Immediately, a police team reached at the Hospital and spoke to the victim family. The doctors told the cops that the victim had stab wounds. A case of attempt to murder was lodged and investigation was taken up. During the course of investigation, the team collected CCTV footage of the crime spot and of nearby places.

They scanned the footage to get clue about the suspect. The team got a tip off about the juvenile who allegedly stabbed the victim, following which the juvenile was apprehended. During the questioning he confessed that he stabbed the victim. "He disclosed that he was in animosity with the victim since his school days and when he found him alone, he attacked him with a knife," said the police. The juvenile has been sent to child observation house by the juvenile justice board. AGENCIES

NEW DELHI: The Delhi High Court has observed that the consequences of pre-trial detention are grave in nature and keeping an undertrial in custody would impact his right to defend himself during the trial and that he will be clearly denied the right to a fair trial which is guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. Justice Chandra Dhari Singh made the observation while granting bail to Vikas Chawla, who is accused of cheating HDFC Bank as well as BMW Financial Services to the tune of several crores of rupees by using forged and fabricated documents and emails. The bail application for accused, arrested on August 5, 2021 and in custody since then, was filed by advocate Sumer Singh Boparai.

Senior advocate Vikas Pahwa, appearing for Chawla, submitted that the investigation of the case was completed and the charge sheet was also filed. He also argued that all the evidences and materials against the petitioner were documentary in nature and that there was no chances of his tampering with them. It was also submitted that arrangement of availing credit facilities from the complainant bank continued from January 9, 2014 till February, 2020, for which re-payments along with interest of Rs 13.27 crore were made by the accused company to BMW India Financial Services Private Ltd from time to time. It was also submitted that repayments of Rs 600 crore approximately were made to the complainant bank over the course of their business relations.

Pahwa also argued that the investigating officer had issued notices under Section 91 of the CrPC on March 16 and 22, 2021, and June 7, 2021, to which the accused company had filed a reply dated July 3, 2021. As counterblast to order dated June 22, 2021, passed by the court below whereby the investigating officer was directed to withdraw the notice under Section 91, the investigating officer arrested Chawla on August 5, 2021 and was since then, he was languishing in judicial custody. On the other hand, it was argued by the state that the petitioner was previously also involved in a case of UPPCL Employees' Provident Fund scam and that if he is released on bail, he may commit similar offences. The court perused an affidavit filed by the petitioner's wife disclosing the mode of repayment to the financial institutions and also about the proposal of the mode of repayment of the liability of the HDFC Bank. AGENCIES

The bench had earlier constituted a three-member committee to look into Batra's allegation of a match-fixing attempt by the national coach. The court had expressed concern over the serious nature of the allegations, in which the country's top-ranked player contended that the national coach "pressurised" her to "throw away" an Olympic qualifier match in favour of one of his trainees. AGENCIES

BJP not only 'distorted' history but 'destroyed' Hinduism too: Mamata

KOLKATA: West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Thursday held the BJP responsible for not only "distorting" history but also "destroying" Hinduism. She also alleged that Prime Minister Narendra Modi poses as 'Saint' only to garner votes.

Addressing a freehold rights distribution programme at Netaji Indoor Stadium, the Chief Minister said: "They (BJP) are destroying everything. They have changed history. Dalits, Adivasis are being tortured. Original Hindu religion is being forgotten, but when election comes, he (PM Modi) becomes 'saadhu'. He poses as 'sant'. Terming Ram Krishna Paramhans and Swami Vivekananda as 'real saints', she said: "One cannot become saints like them".

The Chief Minister, indirectly hinting at the misappropriation of the 'PM CARES' fund, said: "What was done with the crores of rupees received as donations to the PM CARES fund? You don't have any shame after so many people died due to Covid. People are suffering, they are crying. Where is the fund of PM CARES? Lakhs and crores of rupees". Accusing the Central government of selling everything, she said: "They are selling everything including Rail, Sail, Air India. They are destroying the heritage. While they only tell lies, the Trinamool government in Bengal keeps its promises made not only to the citizens but to refugees as well."

She also raked up the issue of PM Modi's photo on the Covid-19 vaccinations certificate issued to people, saying: "Displaying Modi's picture on injection. Whose money is that?" On the statue of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose at India Gate, she said: "They removed Amar Jawan Jyoti in Delhi first and put Netaji's hologram. Now the hologram is also missing. They remember icons' names only before the elections." Prime Minister Modi had unveiled a hologram statue of Subhas Chandra Bose at the India Gate on the occasion of the freedom fighter's birth anniversary. AGENCIES

Nehru was indecisive, delayed Goa's liberation: Amit Shah

NEW DELHI: Lack of decisive leadership by former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had led to the delay in the liberation of Goa from the colonial Portuguese regime, Union Home Minister Amit Shah said on Wednesday. Shah, who was addressing an election rally in the Bicholim assembly constituency in North Goa, also said that voters in Goa had two clear choices ahead of the February 14 elections either vote for a Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led Bharatiya Janata Party or cast ballot in favour of dynasty-ridden party like the Congress.

"Goa got independence after a lot of sacrifice and struggle. It took a lot of time for Goa to be independent. Yesterday, our Prime Minister Narendra Modi, while speaking in Parliament, raised this issue. Who is responsible for the delay in Goa's independence?" Shah said at the rally in Bicholim where outgoing Speaker of the state legislative assembly Rajesh Patnekar is contesting the polls on the ruling BJP's ticket. "History is witness that if Jawaharlal Nehru's leadership was decisive, then right after India got independence on August 15, 1947, Goa should have been liberated soon after," the Union Home Minister said. Goa was eventually liberated from Portuguese yoke in 1961. Shah further said that the people of Goa had sampled BJP and Congress rules and knew what the two administrations represented.

"The people of Goa have witnessed both governments. The Congress rule was marked by instability and anarchy. BJP's government was about stability and development. This time all BJP workers are working for a hat trick in Goa," the Union Home Minister said. "People of Goa have to decide whether they want a BJP government or a government led by a dynastic party where there is no democracy," he added. "Shah also said that under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, India's borders had been secured as never before. "There were attacks at Uri and Pulwama, our soldiers were burnt to death. In 10 days, the country's Prime Minister responded by ordering surgical and airstrikes on Pakistan soil and killed the terrorists. Modi has made India safer and sent a message to the world, that you cannot dare to threaten India's borders or Indian soldiers or you will be penalised," Shah said. AGENCIES

'Arrest is prior, riot is later': Sharjeel Imam's lawyer argues for bail

NEW DELHI: Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) student and activist Sharjeel Imam's lawyer on Thursday told a Delhi court that no allegation of conspiracy can be attributed to Imam after his arrest in another riots case, days before the actual riots that happened, adding 'arrest is prior and riot is later'. The bench of Additional Sessions Judge Amitabh Rawat was hearing Imam's counsel Tanveer Ahmed Mir's arguments for bail in a north-east Delhi riots UAPA case. Imam, who was arrested in January 2019, cannot be held for the consequences of the riots which broke out in February 2020, the lawyer argued.

"We cannot afford to have a system where conspiracies become endless and are rendered in perpetuity," he submitted. Opposing Mir, Special Public Prosecutor Amit Prasad said the "arrest of Imam is not for conspiracy in the case but for seditious speech that happened prior to arrest". "To say that he was arrested as part of the conspiracy is kind of a misdirected argument." As per the FIR, Imam was charged under Sections 13, 16, 17, 18 of the UAPA, Sections 25 and 27 of the Arms Act, and Section 3 and 4 of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act, 1984. He is also charged with various offences mentioned under the Indian Penal Code, 1860. He was denied bail multiple times. On October 22, while dismissing the plea, Saker Court Additional Sessions Judge Anuj Aggarwal had stated that the tone and tenor of incendiary speech tend to have a debilitating effect upon public tranquility, peace, and harmony. Various FIRs have been registered against Imam, including alleged inflammatory speeches at Jamia Millia Islamia on December 13, 2019, and at Aligarh Muslim University on December 16, 2019. AGENCIES

ED attaches journalist Rana Ayyub's funds worth over Rs 1.77 crore in money-laundering case

NEW DELHI: The Enforcement Directorate has attached over Rs 1.77 crore worth bank deposits of journalist Rana Ayyub in connection with a money laundering probe against her linked to alleged irregularities in charitable funds raised from public donors, agency sources said on Thursday. The federal investigation agency had issued a provisional order under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) to attach a Rs 50 lakh worth fixed deposit and the rest amount kept as bank deposits and held in two accounts of a private bank in Navi Mumbai. Ayyub is the account holder and deposits totalling Rs 1,77,27,704 have been attached by the ED.

The money laundering case against Ayyub was filed after taking cognisance of a September, 2021 FIR of Ghaziabad Police (Uttar Pradesh) related to alleged irregularities in donor funds of over Rs 2.69 crore raised by her through an online crowd funding platform called 'Ketto'. The police lodged the case on a complaint made by Vikas Sankrityayan, founder of an NGO called "Hindu IT Cell" and a resident of Indrapuram in Ghaziabad. Ayyub had then stated that the "entire donation received through Ketto is accounted for and not a single paisa has been misused". According to the FIR, the funds were raised as part of three campaigns: funds for slum dwellers and farmers during April-May 2020; relief work for Assam, Bihar and Maharashtra during June-September 2020; and help for Covid-19 impacted people in India during May-June 2021. "Funds totalling Rs 2,69,44,680 were raised on Ketto by Rana Ayyub. These funds were withdrawn in the bank accounts of her sister and father," the agency said. Out of this amount, Rs 72,01,786 was withdrawn in her own bank account, Rs 37,15,072 withdrawn in her sister Iffat Shaikh's account, and Rs 1,60,27,822 was withdrawn in her father Mohd Ayyub Waquif's bank account, it said. All these funds, the ED found, were subsequently "transferred" in Ayyub's own account. AGENCIES

Bombay HC reduces sentence of farmer who killed wife over 'impotent' slur

MUMBAI: The Bombay High Court on Thursday reduced the life sentence of a farmer convicted for killing his estranged wife after she screamed "impotent" at him and humiliated him in a public place, on the grounds that it was "not a premeditated act". A division bench of Justice Sadhana S. Jadhav and Justice Prithviraj K. Chavan also ordered his immediate release from jail if he was not required in any other cases and disposed of the 12-year-old case appealing against the life sentence. The judges noted that the incident occurred on a busy road near a bus stop when the woman grabbed her husband by the neck, pulled his shirt and hurled abuses, including that he was "impotent", which was heard by many.

"It was quite natural for the man (convict) to feel ashamed upon being referred as impotent... the incident of assault is the outcome of a grave and sudden provocation. The man was deprived of his self-control and hence, he could not have any restraint upon himself while mounting assault. It was not a premeditated act," the bench noted in its verdict.

The court also quashed the order of the Additional Sessions Judge, Pandharpur, handing down a life sentence for murder under Indian Penal Code's Section 302, in July 2012, and said only the offence of "culpable homicide likely to cause death" under IPC Section 304(I) could be maintained. While commuting Nandu Dada Survase's sentence to the 12 years he has already spent in jail and ordering his release forthwith, the judges appreciated his lawyer Shradha Sawant for assisting the court to the best of her capacity. AGENCIES

The Changing face of Supply Chain

IRENDRA CHHABRA
New Delhi

Supply Chain has evidently taken a huge shift in the last 10 years. It has witnessed multiple challenges like changes to rules and regulations by national, regional and local authorities at different stages, lack of integration in transport networks and changing industrial policies. These have been bothering the industry since long but soon this will be a thing of the past. Digitalization will bring a paradigm shift in how supply chain operates and this change will be much faster in the next 3 years. It is expected to be one of the largest job providers in the subsequent years.

Supply chain is complex and sensitive because of its dependence on swift change of customer needs. Seamless supply chain is all about being customer focused. This can be achieved by having a framework of people who are subject matter experts, creating unified processes and customizing technology to have end to end visibility. To make this a reality, there still needs to be an uninterrupted and undeniable effort towards an integrated supply chain. This goal can be attained through the 3 key principles:

- Cost effective customer commerce
 - Flexible manufacturing to accommodate the change in demand and supply disruptions
 - Smart fulfilment to personal needs of specific customers
- Logistics is one of the most crucial aspects of the entire supply chain. Logistics today has identified means of an undeniable scope of overcoming the challenges which otherwise were insurmountable. The focus has been on establishing a matured logistic system through transport infrastructure network, digitalisation and IoT. This should mature by FY 2022-23 creating a seamless supply chain on the technology front, backed by a full-grown infrastructure. The major factors influencing futuristic logistics are: Technology has helped steer upgrade and optimization of all processes. Advanced data analytics and cloud computing for logistics were the tasks evolving in 2021. There is much more expected from 2022. We are to witness blockchain, gamification, elastic logistics, metaverse and IOT to be adopted by all major players which will bring about much more stability and reliability.

We have shipment tracking systems which are cost savers for companies and a great customer service tool allowing customers to get regular updates on their shipment. Usage of drones, enhanced GPS accuracy, and big data are some of the technological advancements that have given wings to the industry.

CBI arrests Traffic Police SI for taking bribe

NEW DELHI: The CBI has arrested a Traffic Sub Inspector (SI) of Delhi Police for allegedly demanding and accepting a bribe of Rs 22,000 from a man. SI Jagmal Singh Deshwal, posted with Mundka zone, was placed under arrest under Prevention of Corruption Act, a Central Bureau of Investigation official said on Thursday.

The SI allegedly demanded an illegal gratification of Rs 24,000 from the complainant to facilitate his vehicles to ply on road.

The amount was negotiated to 22,000. Based on a complaint, the investigative agency lodged an FIR and formed a team to catch the accused red-handed.

The CBI team laid a trap and caught the accused red-handed while demanding and accepting bribe of Rs 22,000 from the complainant. A senior CBI official said that they conducted search operation at the office and residential premises of the SI which led to the recovery of incriminating documents. AGENCIES

SC gives final opportunity to Vijay Mallya to appear before it in contempt case

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Thursday gave a final opportunity to fugitive businessman Vijay Mallya, accused in bank loan default case of over Rs 9,000 crore involving his defunct Kingfisher Airlines, to appear before it personally or through his lawyer in a contempt case where he has been found guilty. The top court said it has given multiple opportunities to Mallya to appear either personally or through a lawyer and had even given specific directions in its last order dated November 30, 2021.

A bench of justices U U Lalit, S Ravindra Bhat and P S Narasimha posted the contempt case for further hearing after two weeks, saying that respondent contemnor (Mallya) is at liberty to act as per direction given in order dated November 30 last year, failing which the matter shall be taken to its "logical conclusion". AGENCIES

Goa's Fishing in troubled waters amidst election politics

DOMINICK RODRIGUES
Panjim

Fishing in troubled waters is not just a saying but has become literally a fishy political issue in the 2022 Goa Legislative Assembly elections alongside the seafarers issues with their livelihoods also being at stake amidst the three year-long ongoing pandemic.

Goan fisherfolk are complaining about the State Government Fisheries Department not being proactive enough in preventing fishing boats from neighbouring states from encroaching illegally in Goa's territorial waters. Fishermen allege that these encroachers use illegal fishing equipment in trapping even small fish, which is against the law. Such illegal boats that were caught by the law were found to be later still fishing illegally without fear of the law, Agnelo Rodrigues, President, Goconcha Ramponkaranchi Ekvott (GRE), said while also highlighting the illegal use of bull trawling, LED lights and other illegal fishing gear. "Such unchecked activities will witness Goa soon ending up like Norway, Denmark, Oman, Australia and New Zealand where their fishing has come to a standstill," he said. Noting that such illegal fishing equipment have been banned in the territorial waters and Indian Exclusive Zone since 2016—but still continued in use, members of the GRE and National Fishworkers Forum (NFF) said that fish breeding is being destroyed by such activities as catching small fish meant that the species would not be allowed to grow and thus lead to lack of fish in the sea.

The fishing community also urged for higher diesel subsidy, timely reimbursement of VAT at also trip-wise rates—especially for trawler owners. They also highlighted better infrastructure for the fishing community including improved fish cold storage facilities, holistic welfare support to staff etc.

The fisherfolk also urged for compensation to small boat owners, whose vessels were destroyed in rough sea conditions and suffered losses amounting to lakhs of rupees and their source of livelihood. The fishers also highlighted the need for "better control of the main fishing market which was being dominated by non Goan traders and non-Goan vendors taking away the business of traditional Goan fisherfolk." The fishing community also urged for protection of their dwellings from being demolished in any Coastal Regulation Zone (CRZ) issue since they have been working and living there for generations. Velim the fishing hub of South Goa is home to the largest fishing jetty of Cutbana and is seeking better and sustainable development without affecting the area's natural heritage. Its polluted river Sal—which is the lifeline of also two other villages is being highlighted in the wake of untreated sewage being discharged into its waters.

Meanwhile, on land, Goa's

taxi-drivers are lamenting their problems that include: mandatory fitting of digital fare taximeters, demands for scrapping the App-based Goa Miles and other issues. "We want government policies to be amended in favour of local taxi business," the president of the South Goa Tourist Taxi Association Vincent Carvalho said. The tiny state of the erstwhile Portuguese territory of Goa is facing another disaster erosion of its 140-kms-coastline that feature beautiful beaches, which have been attracting crowds of tourists since the hippies arrival in the 1950s/60s.

A 28-year satellite study by the National Centre for Coastal Research (NCCR) revealed that 28% of the coastline has vanished since 1990, and another 20% is accreting, while the remaining 60% is normal.

Meanwhile, electoral political campaigning continued on a high note in Goa during the last week before the election

Goa, she criticized the BJP for the rising unemployment in the State despite Goa being rich in resources, natural beauty and skills.

Congress leader P. Chidambaram, who carried out door-to-door campaigning in Olaulim Aldona constituency, urged Goans to end BJP rule in Goa. GPCC president Girish Chodankar alleged that the Goa BJP government had sold jobs and were indulging in delay tactics where resuming mining was concerned. Former Congress Chief Minister Digambar Kamat highlighted his party's openness to post-election alliances with parties opposed to the BJP. Kamat also told local news media that he had been framed in the JICA scam in which he was not involved. Goa's political scenario is also witnessing a unique entrant in the electoral fray through the youngest advocate general in India named Carlos Alvares Ferreira who was appointed at age 33 and is now standing as a Congress candidate from Aldona constituency.

Ferreira is currently highlighting a petition opposing railway double tracking and destruction of Goa's huge forests and rivers besides the illegal structure at the Old Goa heritage site. AAP supreme and Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, who has been making numerous trips to Goa to boost the party's electoral chances with his charismatic presence, urged BJP and Congress supporters to vote for AAP. Kejriwal alleged that "the Congress ruled Goa for 25 years and the BJP for 15 years, but what both parties did was scam after scam without any agenda for the State's development or uplift of Goans." "Goa's ministers are tainted by allegations of scams in the power sector, jobs, labour, ventilators and even sex scandals. The Congress was allegedly involved in corruption in mining amounting to Rs 36,000 cores and was protected by the BJP for a decade," he added. Kejriwal said that the BJP had sent its people into the Congress to contest on a Congress ticket and then rejoin the BJP after the elections. "The BJP has outsourced their government formation to the Congress in many states and there is this fear in Goa too," he said.

Describing the Goa election as different and one of hope, Kejriwal said that all political parties had "corruption" charges including on their leaders who had "looted in previous years," but the AAP represented hope and a vote based on hope would not remain silent. Kejriwal lashed out at Union Home Minister Amit Shah for criticizing him in promising free electricity in Goa. "Amit Shah has no issues in using a government accommodation in Delhi with 4,000 units free electricity from people's money, but he has an issue if people get free electricity from their own money," he said, adding "They take the money to Swiss banks, but we will stop this money going to Swiss Banks and channel it towards the people."

Is RBI frozen into inaction due to uncertainties?

The Monetary Policy Committee's decision to leave interest rates unchanged and retain its "accommodative" policy stance, albeit with one member dissenting over the stance, shows a central bank frozen into inaction by the "Knightian" or unquantifiable uncertainty surrounding the pandemic-hit economy. In sticking with the status quo, the RBI's policymakers have underscored that they find themselves trapped in a no man's land. On the one hand, both the global and domestic economy have suffered a loss of momentum in the wake of the Omicron wave and prognosticating prospects for the recovery has become even more risky in the face of the uncertainty shrouding the pandemic. In India, private consumption, which is the mainstay of domestic demand, shows little signs of regaining traction. Add to the mix the persistent increase in international commodity prices, a surge in volatility in international financial markets and global supply bottlenecks, and the risks to the outlook are further heightened. The most telling manifestation of the RBI's prognosis for growth is its forecast for GDP expansion in 2022-23 — a markedly lower 7.8 per cent when compared with the 8.0 per cent-8.5 per cent projection made in the Economic Survey. With the contact-intensive components of the services sector and private investment also becalmed, the central bank in fact expects growth in the next fiscal to sharply tail off over the course of the year: slowing from a 17.2 per cent expansion in Q1, to 4.5 per cent in Q4. Nor is there any respite on the price stability front, the RBI's brave attempts at downplaying the risks notwithstanding. At a time when inflation is at multi-decadal highs in a number of countries, prompting several major central banks including the Federal Reserve in the U.S. to start normalising policy, there is a real danger of the RBI falling behind the curve.

HARISH S. WANKHEDE DOUBTS IF THE STATE'S REGIME LACKS ROAD MAP TO EMPOWER MARGINALISED

The politics of social justice in UP

The astonishing rise of Hindutva politics, especially in the Hindi belt, has almost relegated the politics of social justice to the back burner. Till recently, it was the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) that emphatically raised the agenda of social justice and also mobilised the lower castes as influential participants in the electoral democracy of Uttar Pradesh. However, in the last Assembly elections in Uttar Pradesh, it must be noted that the BSP has witnessed a considerable drop in its vote percentage (from 30.43% in 2007 to 22.24% in 2017). And instead, it has been the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) that has emerged as a new 'inclusive' party, with a whopping 39% of the vote share. In the current phase of politics and elections, it is the BJP that appears to be inactive and irrelevant.

The right-wing party has been quite successful in engaging and bringing the socially marginalised sections into its fold by executing creative cultural strategies. However, the Yogi Adityanath government has not provided substantive welfare policies to satisfy the quest for social justice or to enable rapid economic development as far as the backward communities are concerned. The recent examples of Other Backward Castes (OBCs) leaders moving away from the BJP is a hint that the socially deprived communities could be disillusioned with the BJP and might lend their support to the Samajwadi Party (SP) that appears to be promising in political terms. Such a shift could reinvent the politics of social justice in the State.

B.R. Ambedkar held the view that social justice is not merely a welfare policy framework. Rather, it is a dynamic tool to generate revolutionary political consciousness among socially marginalised groups. In the post-Ambedkar period, it was Kanshi Ram, the founder of the BSP, who reintroduced the agenda of social justice as a transformative political ideology.

Kanshi Ram utilised the ideas of social justice to highlight oppressive caste hierarchies and also inspired marginalised groups to build a robust political opposition. He argued that the national political parties retained their domination over legislative bodies by relegating the lower caste groups as a passive vote bank. He imagined that the socially marginalised communities could be united under a Dalit leadership (as Bahujan) and defeat the traditional ruling castes (often represented as Manuwadis). He proposed that the replacement of the conventional ruling elites by a Dalit-Bahujan collective would bring about a revolutionary change in governance and policy matters.

Imagining the Dalit-Bahujan mass as the ruling class was a radical vision. And forming social and political alliances are the foundational requirements to achieve such goals. However, the stiff social and cultural divisions between Dalits and Other Backward Classes disallowed the possibility to organise a unified political front. The current vanguards of social justice politics have been criticised for a deep attachment to specific communitarian identities (like the BSP and the SP are often belittled as being the parties of the Jatavs and Yadavs, respectively) and alleged that the worst-off social groups (such as the Maha-Dalits and most backward castes) are not being given their legitimate space in electoral politics. Ironically, the lower caste parties often hesitate to join hands when it comes to pushing for an agenda of social justice (there is the well-known rivalry between the BSP and the SP) but find comfort in fighting independently or by forming alliances with the parties led by social elites. The right wing exploits the trust deficit between the Dalit-Bahujan groups and mobilises them on distinct cultural fronts.

Right-wing cultural politics

Since 2014, the BJP has launched a powerful rhetoric of development, anti-corruption politics and tapped the euphoria of nationalism that often bewitches aspirational groups and motivates them to support right-wing politics. Most importantly, the maverick top leadership in the BJP effectively controls the ship of propaganda and makes this party a dynamic force among the vulnerable social groups.

The right wing's understanding of social justice is curated under a neo-liberal ideological prescription. It looks down on popular institutional practices to ensure social justice (mainly the reservation policy) as the state's philanthropic distributive mechanism for lending some material doles to the deprived sections. Instead, the right wing underplays lower caste identities as being socially deprived classes and reprimands their assertion for social justice as being a disruptive force against Hinduism. The BJP crafts creative cultural strategies that perpetuate the domination of caste and class elites and motivates Dalit-Bahujan sections to find solace in the assertive communal Hindu identity. The domination of the social elites over political and public institutions is thus legitimised under the rubric of Hindu social harmony. Importantly, the right wing engages with lower caste groups as a cultural and religious subject and exploits their association with Hindu rituals and traditions. The divisionary caste segments are celebrated as ruminants of Hindu civilisation; a new iconography and social history for each fragment are invented (like the evocation of Suheldev as the legend of the 'Pas' caste). Such inventions are not only utilised to institutionalise the social ruptures between lower caste groups but also becomes a potent tool to propagate communal hatred against Muslims.

Parties such as the BSP and the SP have aspired to elevate the Dalit-Bahujan masses as the new political elites. Instead, the BJP's Machiavellian cultural politics in Uttar Pradesh have been exploiting caste divisions and relegating the lower caste groups as militant participants in a Hindu 'renaissance' under the aegis of social elites. The Yogi Adityanath regime has no road map to empower the vast majority of impoverished communities from poverty, social discrimination and political powerlessness. In the past, the rhetoric of inclusive growth or of Hindu unity may have impressed socially marginalised groups but such ideas have no power to liberate the poor and the vulnerable sections from their precarious social and class conditions.

Hindutva's hegemonic cultural politics can be defeated by reinventing the ideology of social justice. The proponents of social justice have to demonstrate substantive accountability towards the vulnerable worst-off groups; and they also have to ensure their dignified presence in the mainstream political process. It is required that Dalit-Bahujan politics craft creative strategies to inspire the most vulnerable sections by building a prudent engagement with the cultural diversities and social identities. A dynamic interplay of social justice and socialism would be a lethal ideological weapon to defeat the communal politics of Uttar Pradesh.

PRIYADARSHINI SINGH ON THE NEED TO DELVE INTO IMPACT OF TAX INCENTIVES ON CHARITABLE DONATIONS

Tax incentives for philanthropy

Do people donate money to charity to get a tax rebate? The answer for most donors is 'no'. They donate because they believe in the causes they support, or the quality of work that some NGOs are doing, or because they are committed citizens. Why then are tax incentives needed for the charity sector? Why should the government forgo revenue it can generate from taxing charitable donations? Do tax incentives have any impact on charitable donations? We don't know the answer to the last question, as a study on tax incentives across 12 countries, including India, by the Centre for Social Impact and Philanthropy (CSIP) at Ashoka University, in research partnership with the Centre for Budget and Governance Accountability, highlights. This is because the impact of tax incentives on charitable donations has not been systematically studied in the Indian context. The only publicly accessible study uses data from the 1970s-80s, when tax incentives for philanthropy were more appealing than they are now because the overall tax rates were much higher.

A poorly studied area

Raising taxes is a core attribute of statehood. But remarkably, tax incentives for charity also have a long history. They go all the way back to the 19th century in some of the countries studied, and are also provided in countries such as Brazil which have a restrictive tax incentives regime for civil society. Despite this, the role of tax incentives in supporting civil society is poorly studied in most countries. The best studies are from the U.S. and the U.K. These are primarily econometric studies which measure the increase (or decrease) in charitable donations due to changes in the tax incentives provisions. These studies depend on the availability of tax and donor data to researchers. But in these countries too, the non-monetary impact of tax incentives is not deeply examined. For example, does the legal relationship that tax incentives create between the state and the civil society as a sector impact its financial health and stability? It does appear that in India, financial flows coming through tax incentives are not the mainstay of civil society (CSIP, 2021). However, given the overall nature of the sector, they may still be very critical. Many NGOs in India are small and operate with budgets of less than Rs 15 lakh a year (CSIP, 2019). The distribution of NGOs is also skewed: they are concentrated in States like Uttar Pradesh (MOSPI, 2012).

Most NGOs work in the areas of health and education. For small NGOs in remote areas or those working on areas that are less recognised, the tax incentives status may still be important for establishing legal recognition with the community, government entities and donors.

When examined from the perspective of the government, civil society organisations have historically played an irreplaceable role in social development. Many government programmes have emerged due to a harmonious relationship with NGOs that have implemented an innovative idea. Governments have provided the scale and state support while the NGOs have provided the ideational energy and community experience. The activity-based learning approach developed by Rishi Valley in Tamil Nadu during the early 2000s is an example.

The signalling effect

The most important role of tax incentives as the regulatory and legal link between the state and the civil society is that of the 'signalling effect'. It denotes that the state supports philanthropic activity and through its revenue forgone, actively encourages private actors to engage with public problems.

A systematic study of the impact of tax incentives is the need of the hour, particularly one on the various provisions in supporting philanthropic activity which highlight the many ways in which India's tax incentives regime can be made more responsive. For example, countries like France have a credit-based system, which is more equitable than the deduction-based system followed by India which privileges high-income donors. Studies in the U.S. and the U.K. suggest that high-income donors are more sensitive to tax incentives, and a carefully crafted regime can be used to target this category of donors. We also need to take a re-look at reinstating other categories of taxes such as wealth and inheritance tax so that charity-focused tax incentives can benefit the non-profit sector.

Our new tax regime dilutes the state-civil society relationship by giving donors the option to opt out of incentives for lower tax rates. Saving the revenue forgone from tax incentives may not increase the government coffers significantly, but this will impact the perception of the NGO sector for an average donor. And if this gets done, here's hoping that it is supported by research and rationale.

FIVE OBSERVATIONS

A SIMPLE GUIDE TO THE UKRAINE-RUSSIA CRISIS

- WHY IS THERE A CONFLICT?
Russia responded by annexing Ukraine's Crimean Peninsula and throwing its weight behind a separatist rebellion that broke out in Ukraine's east.
- WHAT DOES RUSSIA WANT?
It is more about what Russia doesn't want. Russia does not want Ukraine in NATO and has said as much in its list of security demands which were sent to the US last December.
- WILL UKRAINE JOIN NATO?
Ukraine is not a NATO member, but it wants to be. It is considered a partner of the alliance.
- WILL THERE BE ALL-OUT WAR?
The West is accusing Russia, which has massed 100,000 troops on the Ukrainian border, of preparing to invade its pro-Western neighbour.
- WHAT HAPPENS IF RUSSIA INVADES UKRAINE?
Western nations have thrown their support behind Ukraine, but some responses have been tougher than others.

BOOKS: REVIEW

10-year-old turns author with book on world history

"World History in 3 points", written by 10-year-old Zac Sangeeth, promises to give its readers — whether students or curious history buffs — a bird's view of history by presenting every topic in three crisp bite-sized capsules.

The book, published by Hachette India, claims to cover 101 topics "from ancient Egypt and imperial China to the Dark Ages and the Industrial Revolution, from Chanakya and Max Weber to Alexander the Ashoka, and from the Crusades and the Iranian Revolution to Socrates and Hegel".

"In this era of fleeting attention spans and our addiction to micro messaging platforms like Twitter and Instagram, history is still that odd subject that makes readers search information haystacks for a needle of insight. This is because normal history books take a worm's eye view — delving into minute historical details.

"My book 'World History in 3 Points' takes a bird's eye view of history — a broad, to-the-point approach. I try cutting through details, simplifying complexities, distilling them into summaries," debutant author Sangeeth told PTI. Sangeeth, touted to be among the world's youngest commissioned non-fiction series authors, is currently a fifth-grade student at Head Start Educational Academy, Bengaluru.

According to the publishers, focusing on fundamental facts, vital events, important personalities, major milestones and significant turning points, every topic in the book is encapsulated in three bite-sized paragraphs. "Clear, concise and comprehensive, 'World History in 3 Points' is guaranteed to help you discover that the more you know, the more you want to!" they added.

1. Here's a unique book that makes history exciting for those who believe less is more. Focusing on fundamental and interesting facts, every topic is presented in three crisp, bite-sized capsules, each with a key sentence highlighted for easy recall.

Covering 101 topics from ancient Egypt to imperial China, from Chanakya to Max Weber, from the Dark Ages to the Industrial Revolution, from Alexander to Ashoka, and from the Crusades to the Iranian Revolution, it serves up major events, personalities, milestones and turning points spanning the history of the world.

Whether you are a student or a curious history buff, researching for an exam or a quiz, or simply refreshing your knowledge, you can turn to any chapter and get a complete picture. Clear, concise and comprehensive, World History in 3 Points is guaranteed to help you discover that the more you know, the more you want to!

The book includes Ancient Civilizations and Events, Warriors, Generals, Dynasties and Rulers, Revolutions and Wars, Peacemakers and Warmongers, Economists, Sociologists and Political Scientists, Philosophers and Thinkers and Modern Periods and Events.

World History in 3 Points takes a bird's eye view of history - a broad, to-the-point approach - cutting through details, simplifying complexities, distilling them into summaries - unlike normal books that take a worm's eye view - delving into minute historical details.

Novartis signs exclusive sales and distribution agreement with Dr. Reddy's Laboratories

NEW DELHI: Novartis India Ltd (NIL) on Friday announced an exclusive sales and distribution agreement with Dr. Reddy's Laboratories for a few of its established Medicines which includes the Voveran range, the Calcium range and Methergine. This arrangement aims to further broaden access of these medicines beyond the current geographies to benefit many more patients, more efficiently, by significantly extending the reach of healthcare professionals through an expanded field force. This brings together the manufacturing and development synergies of NIL with the sales and distribution strengths of Dr. Reddy's. Barring unforeseen circumstances, this has the potential to drive value for shareholders of NIL. Novartis AG will retain trademark ownership of these medicines. AGENCIES

JM Financial gives 'buy' call for Hindalco, M&M, Zomato, 3 others

NEW DELHI: Brokerage and financial firm JM Financial Institutional Securities has given a 'buy' call for Hindalco Industries, Mahindra & Mahindra, Zomato, Bharat Forge, Prestige Estates, and Gujarat State Petronet. Outlook for Hindalco Industries remains buoyant as Indian aluminium continues to benefit from high realisations coupled with strong recovery in copper volumes driven by recovery in segmental profits, the firm said in a report. Target price for the company is set at Rs 650, as against current price of Rs 540.5. For Mahindra & Mahindra, target price is kept at Rs 1,060, as against Rs 850 currently. Robust demand and with a strong product pipeline are expected to drive growth for the automotive manufacturer, the report said. AGENCIES

TATA group to upgrade ITIs, polytechnics in Assam

GUWAHATI: The TATA group would upgrade the Industrial Training Institute (ITIs) and polytechnics in Assam as 'Centres of Excellence' in Assam, officials said on Thursday. Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Thursday held a meeting with senior executive of TATA group P.J. Nath on upgradation of the state's ITIs and polytechnics to Centres of Excellence. Sarma thanked the TATA group for coming forward to transform technical institutes of Assam to technology hubs with their innovative project 'Transforming Engineering Academia to Industry 4.0'. An official of the Chief Minister's Office said that after the detailed presentation from the TATA group, Sarma asked them for certain changes and to add a few more components to their project.

The Chief Minister assured that the state government would provide required space and all other support to introduce state of the art curriculum in all 75 technical institutes of the state where more than 9,000 students would get trained simultaneously while equipping themselves with latest engineering skills. Sarma also called on the TATA group to take steps for providing scholarships to trainees, employing experienced teachers and instructors from the TATA group in the institutions for 5 years, and training the local instructors.

The Chief Minister assured of providing all logistical support to TATA group for suc-

Adani Transmission sees strong growth through its last mile connectivity reform is the last mile. And that's where the company's presence is going to really help multiply and grow in the days ahead." The company, which generates more than two-third of its revenue from the distribution business, recognizes distribution as one of its key and core strengths.

NEW DELHI: Adani Transmission expects strong growth opportunities through its acquisitions and improvement in the last mile connectivity. Adani Transmission is the transmission and distribution arm of the Adani Group.

"Acquisition has been our very formidable growth paradigm in the transmission side and, we of course acquired the distribution business in Mumbai... (and)... the distribution business in Mundra. So, we will continue to look at various holdings of the private sector in the distribution as possible growth opportunities," Anil Sardana, the Chief Executive Officer of the company said. "We all know that in the power sector, as a country, we are doing well with the generation side... the transmission side... the transmission side. What we have to actually

Karan Adani meets Mamata Banerjee, discusses investments

KOLKATA: In a significant development, industrialist Karan Adani, the son of Adani Group chief Gautam Adani, met West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee at the state Secretariat on Thursday evening to discuss investment plans in the state. The meet comes soon after Gautam Adani had met Banerjee. Senior state government officers, including Chief Secretary H.K. Dwivedi were present at Thursday's meeting. The meeting, prior to the state government's annual global business meet, is significant because sources in the CMO said that the duo had discussions regarding the construction of the proposed deep-sea port at Tajpur. Karan Adani, who is also the CEO of Adani Ports and SEZ Ltd (APSEZ) showed keenness, the source said.

The West Bengal government has already floated the tender for Tajpur deep sea port and the last date of submission is February 15. "Tenders will be opened 48 hours after the submission. So far 10 companies have shown interest in constructing the deep-sea port in Tajpur," another senior official said. Discussions were also held on possible investments in the Deocha-Pachami coal mining project, a source said. In December last year, Gautam Adani had Banerjee and expressed his interest in the state. After the meeting, Adani had tweeted: "Delighted to meet @MamataOfficial, Hon'ble Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee. AGENCIES

Centre selects 20 Cos under auto PLI scheme

NEW DELHI: The Central government on Friday selected 20 companies such as Tata Motors, Suzuki Motor Gujarat, Hyundai Motor India, Mahindra & Mahindra amongst others to become a part of 'Production Linked Incentive' (PLI) scheme for automobile and auto components. Last year, the Centre had approved the PLI scheme for enhancing the country's manufacturing capabilities for 'Advanced Automotive Technology' (AAT) products with a budgetary outlay of Rs 25,938 crore. The AATs based vehicles include types that are capable of running on hydrogen and electricity. Accordingly, the scheme proposes financial incentives to boost domestic manufacturing of AAT products and attract investments in the automotive manufacturing value chain.

Its prime objectives include overcoming cost disabilities, creating economies of scale and building a robust supply chain in areas of AAT products. "A total of 115 companies had filed their application under the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme for Automobile and Auto Component Industry in India which was notified on 23 September 2021," said the Ministry of Heavy Industries in a statement.

"Incentives are applicable under the scheme for determined sales of Advanced Automotive Technology (AAT) products (vehicles and components) manufactured in India from 1 April 2022 onwards for a period of 5 consecutive years." According to the statement, the ministry processed the applications received under 'Champion OEM Incentive' scheme and 20 applicants have been approved under this category of the scheme. "Applications for Component Champion Incentive scheme are being processed separately."

The scheme was open to existing automotive companies as well as new investors who are currently not in the automobile or auto component manufacturing business. It has two components viz 'Champion OEM Incentive Scheme' and 'Component Champion Incentive Scheme'. The Champion OEM Incentive scheme is a 'sales value linked' scheme, applicable on 'Battery Electric Vehicles' and 'Hydrogen Fuel Cell Vehicles' of all segments. The PLI scheme for 'Automobile and Auto Component Industry' has been a huge success in terms of the applications received from local as well as globally headquartered groups engaged in or proposing to manufacture 'Advanced Automotive Technology' vehicles or products," the ministry said. "Apart from Indian business groups, approved applicants for 'Champion OEM' Incentive scheme include groups from countries such as Republic of Korea, USA, Japan, France, Italy, UK and Netherlands." AGENCIES

Covid's third wave, supply side constraints subdue Jan auto sales

NEW DELHI: Covid's third wave as well as supply side constraints impacted India's domestic auto sector sales in January 2022 on a year-on-year basis. Similarly, the sectors' current off-take of passenger cars, two-and-three wheelers were far behind even the 2020 sales levels. In terms of PVs, challenges pertaining to electronic components' availability pulled sales lower on a YoY basis in January. The shortage has extended waiting periods and escalated prices.

Consequently, sales of passenger vehicles fell to 254,287 units in January as compared to 276,554 units sold during the corresponding month of 2021. The data furnished by

Coal shortage crisis in non-power sector escalates; Trade bodies move from appeals to agitation

NEW DELHI: At a time when the Indian economy is striving to emerge from the setbacks inflicted by the Covid pandemic, the short supply of coal to non-power industries including steel, cement and paper since August 2021 is steadily turning fears of massive economic losses and unemployment into an ugly reality.

After repeated appeals by trade and worker bodies, such as the Indian Captive Power Producers Association (ICPPA), the Federation of Indian Mineral Industries (FIMI), among many others, the distressed stakeholders in the non-power sector have now resorted to agitation against the production and supply anomalies, and Coal India Limited's (CIL) continued prioritization of the power sector.

On Monday, over 500 Indian Youth Congress workers organized a protest in Bilsapur, Chhattisgarh against the continued coal shortage in the state's non-power sector. Submitting a representation to the CMD, South Eastern Coalfields Limited (SECL), pleading for more coal allocation within the state, the workers vowed to escalate their stir if the situation did not improve. SECL, a subsidiary of CIL, is contractually obligated to supply 65 million tonnes of coal to the state's non-power sector annually. While the last contract expired in October 2021, the execution of the new Tranche-5 contract has not taken place yet. The non-power sector of Chhattisgarh was given an assurance by SECL that in the intervening period of Tranche-5, coal would be supplied through auctions. However, in the last four months, only 30 lakh tonnes of coal per month have been auctioned.

Earlier, Sandeep Goel, Chairman, CII Chhattisgarh, in a separate representation to Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel, highlighted the coal shortage's likely impact on the continued growth prospects of the state. The CPP-based non-power sector in Chhattisgarh generates about 4000 MW of power for which it requires a stable supply of 88,000 tonnes of coal daily. In his letter to the Prime Minister's Office, Indian National Trade Union Congress (INTUC) President in Chhattisgarh, Sanjay Kumar Singh disclosed that more than 250 CPP-based industries in the state require 32 million tonnes of coal per year, which is only 19 per cent of the total SECL production (165 million tonnes). AGENCIES

Lower manufacturing eases India's Dec 2021 industrial production sequentially, YoY

NEW DELHI: Subdued manufacturing growth as well as unfavourable base eased India's industrial output sequentially as well as on a year-on-year basis in December 2021, official data showed on Friday. The Index of Industrial Production (IIP) for December 2021 rose by only 0.4 per cent from a rise of 1.34 per cent reported for November 2021.

Similarly, the production rate was lower on a year-on-year basis. In December 2020, the IIP had risen by 2.2 per cent. "For the month of December 2021, the Quick Estimates of Index of Industrial Production (IIP) with base 2011-12 stands at 138," said the Ministry of Statistics and Programme

Implementation. "The Indices of Industrial Production for the Mining, Manufacturing and Electricity sectors for the month of December 2021 stand at 120.3, 138.8 and 162.5, respectively."

On a YoY basis, the mining excavation output grew by 2.6 per cent from (-) 3 per cent in December 2021. However, manufacturing production slipped by 0.1 per cent from a rise of 2.7 per cent and electricity generation rose at a slower rate of 2.8 per cent from 5.1 per cent. Among the major use-based segments, the December data, on a YoY basis, showed that manufacturing of primary goods grew by 2.8 per cent from 0.4 per cent, whereas capital goods production fell by 4.6 per cent from a rise of 2.2 per cent, and intermediate goods increased at a slower rate of 0.3 per cent from 2.3 per cent.

Similarly, the production of infrastructure or construction goods rose at a slower rate of 1.7 per cent from 3.1 per cent. However, consumer durables' production degrew by 2.7 per cent from a rise of 6.5 per cent and the sub-segment of consumer non-durables slipped by 0.6 per cent from 1.9 per cent. AGENCIES

MUMBAI: The Reserve Bank of India's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) on Thursday retained key short-term lending rates during the sixth and final monetary policy review of FY22. Besides, the growth-oriented accommodative stance was also retained to give a push to economic activity. The MPC of the central bank maintained the repo rate, or short-term lending rate, for commercial banks, at 4 per cent.

Likewise, the reverse repo rate was kept unchanged at 3.35 per cent, and the marginal standing facility (MSF) rate and the 'Bank Rate' at 4.25 per cent. In his

RBI projects India's FY23 retail inflation at 4.5 pc

MUMBAI: India's FY23 retail inflation is projected at 4.5 per cent, Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Shaktikanta Das said on Thursday. Besides, inflation projection for 2021-22 is retained at 5.3 per cent, with Q4FY22 at 5.7 per cent on account of unfavourable base effects that are expected to ease subsequently.

In his policy statement post the Monetary Policy Committee's bi-monthly meeting, Das said: "The CPI reading for January 2022 is expected to move closer to the upper tolerance band, largely due to adverse base effects. "Taking all these factors into consideration and on the assumption of a normal monsoon, CPI inflation for 2022-23 is projected at 4.5 per cent with Q1:2022-23 at 4.9 per cent; Q2 at 5.0 per cent; Q3 at 4.0 per cent; and Q4 at 4.2 per cent, with risks broadly balanced.

"The Governor said that the CPI inflation trajectory has moved in close alignment with the RBI's projections. "In particular, the softening of food prices is providing welcome relief. The improving prospects for foodgrains production and the expected easing of vegetable prices on fresh winter crop arrivals are adding further optimism. "Moreover, the softening of pulses and edible oil prices is likely to continue in response to strong supply side interventions by the Government and increase in domestic production."

However, Das pointed out that hardening of crude oil prices presents a major upside risk to the inflation outlook. "Core inflation remains elevated at tolerance testing levels, although the continuing pass through of tax cuts relating to petrol and diesel last November would help to moderate input cost pressures to some extent. AGENCIES

India's FY23 GDP growth projected at 7.8 pc: RBI Guv

Internet connectivity in rural India growing at fast pace: Sitharaman

MUMBAI: Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Friday said that internet connectivity in rural India is increasing at a fast pace and will soon surpass urban connectivity. Responding to the debate on the General Budget 2022-23 in the Rajya Sabha, she said that as per the report of Internet and Mobile Association, the rural internet user base is growing three times faster and is likely to surpass the urban user numbers soon. "Data consumption through Bharatnet optical fibre surpassed 13,000 terabytes in June 2021 while the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India's (TRAI) report in August 2021 said that the total number of internet subscribers has gone up to 82.5 crore," she said.

Sitharaman also said that, in the Budget she announced, the contracts for laying optical fibre connections in rural and remote areas will be awarded this year and will be completed by 2025. Replying to the Opposition's comments on Bangladesh growing faster than India, she informed the House that India's economy is 10 times bigger than Bangladesh, so if Bangladesh grew at 10 per cent and India grew just at 1 per cent, the absolute number in terms of growth will be the same.

"To say Bangladesh is growing at 5.5 per cent and we are growing at 4.1 per cent is not a completely correct picture in terms of the growth rate," she said. Responding to Congress MP Kapil Sibal's "India in Rahu Kaal since 2014" comment, she said: "Rahu Kaal is when a sitting PM was about to meet the US President and a Bill he cleared was torn up." Rahu Kaal is what produces what is called G23, it is where the Congress party is.

Ours is Amrit Kaal, senior leaders from the party are leaving their own party and getting out. That is Rahu Kaal. Half of India's FDI since 2000 in last 7 years: Govt

NEW DELHI: India, in the last seven financial years (2014-21), has received FDI inflow worth $440.27 billion which is nearly 58 per cent of the total FDI reported in the last 21 years ($763.83 billion) the Parliament was told on Friday. India registered its highest ever annual FDI inflow of $81.97 billion (provisional figures) in 2020-21 despite the Covid-related disruptions, Minister of State for Commerce and Industry Anupriya Patel told the Rajya Sabha in a written reply. This indicates increasing inclination of global companies to set up their business in India, she added.

India jumped to 63rd place in World Bank's Ease of Doing Business ranking as per World Bank's Doing Business Report (DBR) 2020 from a rank of 142 in 2014. Keeping in view India's vision of becoming 'Atmanirbhar' and to enhance its manufacturing capabilities and exports, an outlay of Rs 1.97 lakh crore (over $26 billion) has been announced in Union Budget 2021-22 for Production Linked Incentives (PLI) schemes for 14 key sectors of manufacturing, Patel said. An Empowered Group of Secretaries has been constituted to fast track investments in the country. Similarly, Project Development Cells (PDCs) have been set up across Central Ministries/Departments to handhold investors and spur sectoral and economic growth.

Further, a GIS-enabled India Industrial Land Bank has been launched to help investors identify their preferred location for investment. A National Single Window System (NSWS) has also been soft launched in September 2021 to facilitate clearances for investors, the Minister said. AGENCIES

Aus central bank holds interest rates to target unemployment

CANBERRA: The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) Governor, Philip Lowe said on Friday that the bank would refrain from increasing interest rates in order to maintain the nation's record low unemployment rate. In December 2021, Australia's unemployment rate hit a multi-decade low of 4.2 per cent, reports Xinhua news agency. Lowe predicted that the rate could drop below 4 per cent by the end of the year, the lowest rate since the early 1970s. To maintain this trend, Lowe said the bank was prepared to maintain the current record low interest rate of 0.1 per cent.

"I recognise that there is a risk to waiting but there is also a risk to moving too early," said

Lowe addressing before a parliamentary hearing on Friday. "Over the period ahead we have the opportunity to secure a lower rate of unemployment than was thought possible just a short while ago.

"He said the bank is committed to "low and stable inflation", and would not consider raising interest rates until inflation is sustainably in the 2-3 per cent range. The central bank boss flagged some concerns surrounding future outbreaks of Covid-19 adding to the uncertainty in the Australian economy's outlook. "The pandemic is not yet behind us and it is entirely possible that there will be more outbreaks," he said. AGENCIES

'Position of trust': Bank employee's retirement can't absolve misconduct charge: SC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Friday said bank employees hold a position of trust and superannuation will not absolve the employee of the charges of misappropriation of funds committed while on duty.

A bench of Justices Ajay Rastogi and Abhay S. Oka said: "Merely because the employee stood superannuated in the meanwhile, will not absolve him from the misconduct which he had committed in discharge of his duties and looking into the nature of misconduct which he had committed, he was not entitled for any indulgence. "The bank employee always holds the position of trust where honesty and integrity are the sine qua non but it would never be advisable to deal with such matters leniently," it added.

The judgment came on an appeal filed by the United Bank of India.

The bench said looking into seriousness of the nature of allegations levelled against the respondent employee, the punishment of dismissal inflicted upon him in no manner could be said to be shockingly disproportionate which would have required to be interfered with by the tribunal in exercise of its powers. "After such nature of allegations stood proved, the disciplinary authority, after taking into consideration the record of inquiry and the post held by the respondent employee, punished him with the penalty of dismissal from service," noted the bench.

The bench set aside the orders passed by the high court and a tribunal under the Industrial Disputes Act, which declared that dismissal of Bachan Prasad Lall for misappropriation of funds was disproportionate and directed his reinstatement. The high court had declined to interfere with the tribunal's order on the ground that the employee had superannuated. AGENCIES

ED arrests PCH director Balvinder Singh for Rs 370 Cr bank fraud

NEW DELHI: The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has arrested Balvinder Singh the Promoter - Director of the PCH Corporation Ltd and other PCH group companies under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) in a case relating to defrauding banks to the tune of Rs 370 crore. Balvinder Singh was arrested on Tuesday. He was produced before a Special Court in Hyderabad on Wednesday, which remanded him to judicial custody till February 23.

Earlier the CBI in Chennai had lodged a case against him and others under various sections of the IPC. The federal probe agency had also submitted a charge sheet in this connection before a Special Court. The ED also initiated a money laundering probe on the basis of the CBI's FIR and charge sheet.

In the CBI charge sheet it had been alleged that PCH Agencies Pvt Ltd, PCH Lifestyle Pvt Ltd, and Balvinder Singh and others had caused wrongful loss to Punjab and Sind Bank, George Town branch, Chennai, by fraudulently availing credit facilities by submitting fabricated documents to show higher turnover. The accused after availing the loan diverted it to other entities. "Subsequently, two more FIRs were registered by the CBI, BS&FB, Bengaluru and CBI Chennai against the PCH Group companies," said an ED official. The ED has learnt in its investigation that the PCH group companies had availed loans from various public sector and private banks and failed to repay the said loans.

The amounts received as loan was diverted through shell companies with the help of Chartered Accounts (CAs) and Entry-operators in Hyderabad and Mumbai and the amount received in the PCH group companies for the purpose of showing a false rosy picture about the financial health of PCH Group, for the purpose of availing more loans and also for the purpose of an intended IPO. Part of these diverted amounts was also received in the personal account of Balvinder Singh and his family members and relatives. "Investigation conducted so far has revealed that Balvinder Singh had received amounts totaling to Rs 53.97 crore from various shell entities which had no genuine business activity, but were used only for the purpose of rotation of the funds and these amounts were projected by Balvinder Singh as 'unsecured' loans," said the ED official. The ED said that the source of these funds was nothing but the siphoned off loan. AGENCIES

India, Australia plan to finalise 'interim' Trade Agreement: Goyal

NEW DELHI: India and Australia have reached an understanding on the 'interim' trade agreement and plan to finalise it in the next 30 days, India Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said on Friday. The India-Australia Comprehensive Economic Co-operation Agreement (CECA) is expected to be concluded in 12 months thereafter, he announced at a joint press conference with Australian Trade, Tourism and Investment Minister Dan Tehan.

The two nations are expected to sign the interim agreement in March. The proposed areas covered under the interim agreement include goods, services, rules of origin, sanitary and phytosanitary measures, customs procedure, and legal and institutional issues. Goyal also said significant progress has been made in advancing the FTA between the two nations.

CAIT urges Centre to withdraw 12 per cent GST rate on textiles

NEW DELHI: The Confederation of All India Traders on Thursday urged Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to withdraw the proposed GST tax on textiles. In the GST Council meeting in late 2021, it was unanimously decided to defer the hike in tax rate on textiles from 5 per cent to 12 per cent and the matter was sent to the tax rate rationalisation committee which will submit its report by February. Currently, the textiles sector is being taxed at 5 per cent tax rate, the traders' body said. In a joint statement, CAIT National President B.C. Bhartiya and Secretary General Praveen Khandelwal said: "In communication to Mrs Sitharaman, we said that the proposed hike, which is in abeyance stage, should be withdrawn in the larger interest of consumers of the country as such hike will load an extra burden of 7 per cent tax rate on general consumers and will also hit the traders by blocking their capital with the department in the shape of refunds." There was no tax on textile or fabrics for a number of years, the joint statement added. The increase in GST rates on textile will not only add to the financial burden on end users but will also affect small businessmen badly and will encourage evasion of tax and various malpractices being undertaken by habitual offenders of law, the trade body said.

"Bringing the textile Industry back under the tax net itself was a big blow to the entire textile industry. The trade associations across India led by CAIT had made representations immediately after the last GST Council meeting wherein it was proposed to correct the inverted duty structure on textile." It was requested by the trade and industry that the status quo be maintained at 5 per cent and the rate be reduced from 12 per cent to 5 per cent, wherever applicable, it said.

Rs 800 crore booking for 'M3M Capital' in first 3-days, a luxury golf residential project near Aerocity

NEW DELHI: M3M India's new high-end luxury golf residential project, 'M3M Capital', in Sector 113 Gurugram, clocked Rs 800 crore booking on the first 3-days of its launch. The project has close proximity to Aerocity and Delhi International Airport, and is part of larger vision for Smart City Delhi Airport. In the first phase, M3M India has launched only 5 residential towers of M3M Capital that has in total 644 apartments consisting 294 apartments of 2.5 bedrooms with 1,300 square feet area, and 350 apartments of 3.5 bedrooms with 1,700 square feet area. The 2.5 bedroom apartment is priced at Rs 1.50 crore and 3 bedroom at Rs 1.90 crore upwards.

The 'M3M Capital' has unique features like exclusive golf-courses, private foyers, green landscape, and separate yoga and meditation area. It also has a 60,000 square feet Clubhouse which is one of the largest on the Dwarka Expressway. At present, 5-towers are being built in the project area of about 16 acres. To be located on the 200 metre wide road on Dwarka Expressway, M3M Capital would also have good connectivity with India International Convention Centre and Diplomatic Enclave. "Our M3M Capital luxury golf residential project is a state-of-the-art project in northern India with a topline of Rs 4,000 crore with development cost of about Rs 1,200 to Rs 1,500 crore, to be invested in the next 24 to 30 months. It is right in the middle of Delhi and Gurugram and the residential apartments are being built with the thought of giving most luxurious lifestyle to the residents. For the first time we are developing golf courses in M3M Capital project to give a unique rich experience to our residents. We are also providing our residents that .5 accommodation extra with 2 and 3 bedroom apartments that can be used as study-room, pooja room or for any other purpose. Highly approachable location with wide roads, quality of construction, most modern facilities and timely possession has always been our priority. Once Dwarka Expressway becomes operational, which we are expecting by 2023, the connectivity between Gurugram and Delhi is all set to substantially reduce travel time for all the commuters," says Pankaj Bansal, Director M3M India, who is being recognised as a young visionary in the real-estate sector. "M3M India has been known for its quality of construction, corporate governance and timely delivery of all the projects," added Pankaj Bansal.

There has been many large land parcels lying either underdeveloped or completely undeveloped between Gurugram and Delhi. The Finance Minister in the Budget speech had indicated that urban planning will be in utmost focus since nearly half of the country's population will be living in cities by 2047, when India will celebrate 100 years of independence.

Textile demand momentum to continue in FY23: Ind-Ra

NEW DELHI: Reduction in impact of Covid-19's third wave, as well as accelerated re-opening activities, will boost textile demand in FY23, said India Ratings and Research (Ind-Ra). The ratings agency cited that reduction in logistics issues for export demand will aid in keeping healthy demand.

"Domestic demand for all the textile sub-sectors has continued to improve from 2QFY22, after a slight dip in 1QFY22. The increased demand momentum along with the supply chain issues has increased the realisations," it said. Demand for cotton remained all-time high in 2HFY21, leading to reduced opening stock for the new cotton season. The rise in prices of cotton has led spinners to accumulate the stock. "Furthermore, it said that demand for MMF (man-made fibre) has continued to increase, mainly due to the rise in cotton prices, leading to a shift of demand from cotton to MMF, to an extent. "The demand momentum sustained for home textiles in the domestic market because of improved consumer spending." In addition, the agency cited that textile exporters in the cotton yarn segment continued to witness an improvement during 7MFY22 with volumes exceeding 47 per cent YoY over FY21. "Ind-Ra expects export volumes to remain higher for FY22 over FY20 and FY21, on back of an increasing demand for Indian yarn. "The export of fabric and apparel also recovered to the Pre-Covid levels during 8MFY22 and is likely to sustain with the opening up of economies and the adoption of 'China Plus One' strategy by importing countries."

Govt plans to open FDI in space sector: Jitendra Singh

NEW DELHI: Around 75 start-ups have registered under space technology category in the Startup India portal, Union Minister of Space Science & Technology Jitendra Singh said. Further the minister added that the government plans to allow FDI to boost the investment in the space sector by the foreign players. In a written reply to a question in the Lok Sabha, Singh said that there are many more startups registered under other categories are also involved in the space domain. The minister said that to facilitate private sector participation in Space activities, Department of Space (DOS) is revising the existing policies in Space domain and new policy framework is being drafted to address various space sectors such as SpaceCom, Remote Sensing, Technology Transfer, Navigation, Space Transportation, Space exploration and Space Situational Awareness. Provisions are being factored in the above policy framework for the development of private sector including MSMEs and startups in space sector.

In a reply to another question on the steps taken by the government to bring private players on board to get their participation in the Space activities of ISRO, Singh informed that the government has announced reforms in June, 2020, in the space sector towards enabling the private players to provide end-to-end services and the steps were taken -- national level autonomous Nodal Agency namely Indian National Space Promotion and Authorization Centre (IN-SPACe) under DOS has been created for promoting, handholding, authorizing and licensing private players to carry out Space Activities. Access to ISRO facilities and expertise are extended to private entities to support their space activities.

Immediate cash support to tourism employees and enterprises, FAITH requests NITI Aayog

NEW DELHI: FAITH, the policy federation of all the ten national associations representing the complete tourism, travel and hospitality industry of India - ADTOI, ATOAI, FHRAI, HAI, IATO, ICPB, IHHA, ITTA, TAAI & TAFI has written to NITI Aayog for immediate support.

FAITH mentioned that the tourism industry is going through its worst period ever. Indian Tourism, pre-pandemic, had handled business of almost 11 mn international inbound tourists, almost 17 mn plus international visitors arrivals, almost 30 bn dollar in forex, 2.3 bn plus domestic tourism visits & almost 27 mn outbound travellers. All this business have been shut down since March 2020 creating severe financial distress over the past 23 months for the complete Indian Tourism Value Chain of travel agents, hotels, tour operators, tourist transporters, restaurants and other tourism service providers. For support to tourism enterprises across the country, FAITH has requested for two levels of measures: Urgent Support Measures and Other Critical Structural Measures. FAITH has asked for the following Urgent Support Meaasures. Extend an immediate Direct Wage support to the employees of all the pandemic affected tourism travel & hospitality companies till tourism businesses recover.

This will ensure a critical social employment cover to such affected employees. Offer an immediate one time grant to the tourism travel & hospitality companies whose businesses have been severely affected due to the pandemic to enable them to settle their statutory liabilities, rentals, levies and taxes. This will prevent such affected enterprises from going bankrupt. Under the new proposed foreign trade policy, create a provision for export credit similar to the earlier SEIS to be made available to tourism industry against their foreign exchange earnings.

Post COVID crisis tourism re-building is required and thus it would greatly help if export duty incentive is made available at 10 per cent for both tour operators and hotels category on gross foreign exchange earnings. To provide cash flow support and policy continuity it should be made applicable for the policy period of the FTP 2020-25 with a provision of an additional 500 basis points increase during lean tourism period to stimulate enhanced foreign exchange earnings. Abolish TCS with immediate effect on outbound trips which was introduced in Union Budget FY 2021-21. This is making Indian Travel Agents & Tour Operators uncompetitive with respect to their global competitors.

This additional levy is causing ticketing business from India to be shifted to Travel Agents & Tour Operators based out of the country and is also making Indian Tour Operators & Travel Agents lose vital business in the inter-region travel of South Asia.

Govt imposes storage limit of edible oils and oilseeds upto 30 June

NEW DELHI: Government of India has notified an order on 3rd February, 2022 specifying the stock limit quantities on edible oils and oilseeds upto 30th June, 2022 with a view to provide impetus to the various steps taken by the Government to cool the prices of edible oil in the country.

Stock Limit Order empowers the Union Government and all States & UTs to regulate storage and distribution of edible oils and oilseeds. This would also help the Government in checking hoarding of edible oils and oilseeds in the country. A Meeting was held by the Department of Food & Public Distribution on 08.02.2022 with all States and UTs for discussing the implementation plan of the above order dated 3rd February, 2022. During the meeting it was emphasized that States and UTs authorities may enforce Stock Limit Quantities Order without causing any disruption in the supply chain and also any undue hardship to bonafide trade.

Edible oils, the stock limit specified is 30 quintals for retailers, 500 quintals for wholesalers, 30 quintals for retail outlets of bulk consumers i.e. big chain retailers and shops and 1000 quintals for its depots. Processors of edible oils would be able to stock 90 days of their storage capacities. For edible oilseeds, the stock limit is 100 quintals for retailers, 2000 quintals for wholesalers. Processors of edible oilseeds would be able to stock 90 days production of edible oils as per daily input production capacity. Exporters and importers have been kept outside the purview of this Order with some caveats.

It was informed in the meeting that in case the stocks held by respective legal entities are higher than the prescribed limits then it has to be declared on the portal (<https://evegoids.nic.in/eosp/login>) of Department of Food & Public Distribution and bring it to the prescribed stock limits in this Control Order within 30 days of the issue of this notification.

Blockchain platform Binance invests $200 mn in Forbes

SAN FRANCISCO: Popular Blockchain-based crypto exchange Binance has invested $200 million in 104-year-old Forbes, as the published aims to be a publicly-traded company. San Francisco, Feb 11 (IANS) Crypto giant Binance has announced it is investing $200 million into 104-year-old publisher Forbes. The deal is part of a larger effort by Forbes to become a publicly traded company. The transaction will see Binance chief communications officer Patrick Hillmann and head of Binance labs, Bill Chin, join Forbes' Board of Directors.

Changpeng Zhao, Founder and CEO of Binance, said in a tweet that they are a Blockchain company and "our investment in Forbes is to help them build Web3 infrastructure in the coming years". "As Web3 and blockchain technologies move forward and the crypto market comes of age we know that media is an essential element to build widespread consumer understanding and education," Zhao said on Thursday. Forbes said that going public would enable it to "further capitalize on its successful digital transformation, using technology and data-driven insights to create more deeply engaged audiences, and associated high-quality and recurring revenue streams."

"Forbes is committed to demystifying the complexities and providing helpful information about blockchain technologies and all emerging digital assets," said Forbes CEO Mike Federle. "With Binance's investment in Forbes, we now have the experience, network and resources of the world's leading crypto exchange and one of the world's most successful blockchain innovators."

The investment from Binance will come through the blockchain platform's "assumption of subscription agreements representing $200 million of commitments in the $400 million private investment in public equity that was previously announced alongside the news about Forbes' deal with Magnum Opus." Forbes editorial independence is and will always be sacrosanct, said Zhao.

Jan's equity MFs' net inflows sequentially down; SIP accounts rise to 5 crore

MUMBAI: India's equity-linked mutual fund schemes saw a sequential decline in net inflows even as SIP accounts rose to 5 crore, showed the data furnished by the Association of Mutual Funds in India (AMFI) on Wednesday. Accordingly, the net inflows into equity and equity-linked schemes in India fell by 40 per cent over the previous month to Rs 14,887.7 crore in January. In December 2021, the net inflows had stood over Rs 25,000 crore.

Besides, in November 2021, it had stood over Rs 11,614 crore, while in October, the inflows had stood over Rs 5,214 crore.

According to the data, the net AUMs for India's MF industry stood at over Rs 38.01 lakh crore for January 2022. Furthermore, the data showed that contributions through systematic investment rose to Rs 11,516.62 crore, the highest monthly SIP contribution. In December, the SIP contributions stood at Rs 11,305.34 crore. Overall, the number of SIP accounts stood at a record high in January 2022 of 5.04 crore from 4.90 crore in December 2021.

"Retail Mutual Fund investor confidence in the India Growth story, as reflected through continued all time higher quantum of monthly SIP flows and with economy expected to rise at projected 9.2 per cent, has overshadowed the uncertainties arising out of external factors like Fed Rate hike or FII outflows," N.S. Venkatesh, Chief Executive, AMFI said. "Mutual Fund asset class has been established as the preferred investment avenue for long term goals-based savings."

India among top 5 economies for ease of starting new business: Global survey

LONDON: India is among the top five easiest places to start a new business, a global consortium of over 500 researchers said on Thursday in its latest report, putting the country on top amongst low-income economies on different entrepreneurial framework conditions.

The Global Entrepreneurship Monitor (GEM) 2021/2022 report, unveiled at the Dubai Expo, gathered data via a survey of at least 2,000 respondents across each of 47 high, medium and low-income economies. The survey of Indian respondents, who answered questions on their entrepreneurial activity, attitudes to enterprise and view of their local entrepreneurial ecosystem, found that 82 per cent think it is easy to start a business, placing India fourth globally. As many as 83 per cent believe that there are good opportunities to start a business in their area - second globally and 86 per cent believe they have the skills and knowledge to start a business fourth globally. Besides, 54 per cent cite fear of failure as a reason for not planning to start a new business in the next three years, placing India second out of 47 in this list.

The GEM report put India on the top amongst low-income economies (according to GDP per capita) on different Entrepreneurial Framework Conditions such as Entrepreneurial Finance, Ease of Access to Finance, Government Policy: Support and Relevance; and Government Support: Taxes and Bureaucracy; while Government Entrepreneurial Programmes was ranked second highest. However, the results indicated that entrepreneur sentiment of growth expectation was weak - with more than 80 per cent of Indian entrepreneurs reporting much lower growth expectations than last year. Dr Sreevas Sahasranamam, Senior Lecturer in Entrepreneurship and Innovation at the Hunter Centre for Entrepreneurship at the University of Strathclyde in Glasgow, and one of eight authors of the GEM report, said: "The fact that over 80 per cent of respondents in India agreed that it is easy to start a business in the country, placing India amongst the top five economies globally, reflects an entrepreneurial ecosystem that has improved, thanks to government initiatives such as 'Startup India' and 'Make in India'."

HUMA: I don't lie' is the biggest lie in itself

As her new web series 'Mithya' is releasing soon, actress Huma Qureshi explains how the story of the show goes beyond the general interpretation of the word 'lie' and explores the dangerous side of the truth that could alter reality.

In the series, she is playing a teacher and how an ugly truth becomes a haunting element of her life and she takes refuge in lying to deal with the situation but it only gets messed up.

Asked about her interpretation of the word 'Mithya' and Huma told IANS: "Look, everyone lies and that is the truth. If anyone is saying that I do not lie, that is the biggest lie in itself. But there are different shades of lie that we say in communication like a white lie, manipulation of the truth, helpful lie, harmless lie because we all are trying to achieve something by doing that.

"But of course, a lie is bad, it is hurtful and it creates distrust between people. But so can truth, truth at times could be more dangerous than lie and more destructive than one can imagine. Quite interestingly our story is actually blurring those lines and exploring beyond the regular interpretation of those two words, truth and lie."

In the show, Huma has worked with debutant actress Avantika Dassani, the daughter of 'Maine Pyar Kiya' fame actress Bhagyashree.

She shares how working with Avantika took her back to the memory lane of her debut film 'Gangs Of Wasseypur'. Huma said, "Back in the day, things were simple also because we did not have much money. All of us were staying in a small guesthouse and I remember how I, Richa (Chadha), Vineet (Kumar Singh) would go along with Nawaz sir for morning jogging at a nearby park. Manoj sir would sit with us and share his acting tips and inspirational words."

"One day I and Richa were going along with Manoj sir in the same car for radio promotion activities of our film and in the car, sir told us that this feeling of promoting the first film is very pure and special. He told us that this excitement will never come back! I was like 'what are you saying, film promotion is always exciting.' But no, now I understand how special those days were because we all were so innocent and all we had were big dreams!" AGENCIES

Hockey Pro League: Jugraj Singh stars in India's 10-2 win against hosts South Africa

POTCHEFSTROOM: Indian men's hockey team rode on a blistering attack to beat hosts South Africa 10-2 in their second match at the FIH Hockey Pro League 2021/2022, here on Wednesday.

New comer Jugraj Singh (4', 6", 23") starred in India's high-scoring victory as he contributed three brilliant goals to the scoreline with his impeccable drag flicks. His effort won him the Player of the Match award. Harmanpreet Singh (2'), Abhishek (12'), Gursahibjit Singh (24', 36'), Dilpreet Singh (25', 58'), Mandeep Singh (27') were the other goal scorers for India.

Earlier in the match, the Tokyo Olympics Bronze medalists began the proceedings with lethal attack that exposed the South African defence. They earned a penalty corner as early as the first minute of the game. While Harmanpreet's first attempt was blocked by South African rusher Keenan Horne, the Vice Skipper for India was perfect in his second attempt with a fiercely struck flick that beat the South African goalkeeper Estiaan Kriek.

The opening goal for India set the pace for their attack as they went on to score three more goals in the first quarter. India's second and third goal was courtesy Jugraj Singh who impressed with his ability to dragflick. While his first goal was struck powerfully on the top right of the goalkeeper, his next goal which was well-assisted with a good injection by Jarmanpreet Singh and accurate stopping by Vivek Sagar Prasad was struck low on the right of the South African goalkeeper.

An error by the South African defenders saw Abhishek intercept the ball inside the circle only to take a successful shot on goal in the 12th minute. With four goals on board, India ended the first quarter in a dominant fashion with eight shots on goal and 65 per cent ball possession.

Though the second quarter witnessed South Africa create some inroads into the striking circle with Horne taking a potential shot on goal in the 22nd minute, India's defence held sway to avoid conceding a goal. Meanwhile, the team's forwardline stitched together a good structure that resulted in back-to-back goals. While Jugraj Singh scored a hat-trick of goals when he converted a PC earned by Abhishek in the 23rd minute, Gursahibjit scored in the 24th minute, Dilpreet in the 25th and Mandeep struck in the 27th minute taking India's lead to a formidable 8-0 ahead of half-time.

With a strong lead, India seemed to drop the momentum a tad bit in the third quarter. After an initial burst in attack that saw Gursahibjit score his second goal of the match in the 36th minute, a sloppy Indian defence gave way for South African forwardline to create chances in the striking circle. India ended up conceding at least three PCs, out of which they converted one when Daniel Bell pushed the ball past Sreesh's left foot in the 44th minute.

The goal did good to the hosts' confidence as they struck another fine field goal via Richard Pautz in the 45th minute. Though India continued to enjoy a 9-2 lead, the two goals scored by the hosts made them more upbeat in the following minutes of the match as they hunted for a third goal. The final quarter saw both teams create enough opportunities to score.

While India's defence rallied together to avoid conceding a third goal, their forwardline worked together to help Dilpreet score in the 58th minute of the match. Though Indian attack earned a PC in the dying seconds of the match, South Africa defended well to end the match with 10-2 on the score board.

India will take on France on February 12. AGENCIES

I find it quite bizarre that Stuart Broad didn't make the trip: Mark Butcher

LONDON: Former England batter Mark Butcher said he understands the decision to leave out James Anderson from the Test squad to tour West Indies, but finds leaving out pacer Stuart Broad 'quite bizarre'. Broad and Anderson were notable exclusions from the 16-member squad traveling to West Indies for three Tests, starting March 8.

"I can't (see the logic). I can certainly see an argument for giving Jimmy the tour off. I think with Stuart, because his performances have been fantastic, unimpeachable for the last year, but probably longer than that, but also from the point of view of what he quite rightly said about trying to win what's right in front of you, or at least giving yourself the best chance of winning what's right in front of you. I find it quite bizarre that he didn't make the trip," said Butcher on the Wisden

Cricket Weekly Podcast. Sir Ander Strauss, the Interim director of England men's cricket, has emphasised that exclusion from the West Indies trip isn't an end to the duo's long-standing international careers. Butcher, too, feels the same. Broad and Anderson, at 39 and 35 respectively, have earned 321 Test caps and scalped 1,177 wickets between themselves.

"The door's been left open by the comments that Andrew Strauss has made. And I hesitate to have a go at Strauss's logic because he's been here before as a captain and as a director of cricket, and both times he's made big calls over senior players, and both times he's been vindicated, in the end."

"What I would say is, the position with James and Stuart is very different to any Strauss has made before, because Broad and Anderson are still the outstanding bowlers in England's line-up, if you take Mark Wood out of the equation, and Mark Wood will play."

Butcher, who played 71 Tests for England, is still unconvinced by the call to drop Broad. "As I said before, I can understand the logic of giving Jimmy the trip off. West Indies pitches, where you have to hit the pitch hard, he'd be able to cope with it no problem, but it seems like unnecessary mileage on his clock."

"Whereas for Stuart, the case for him being there, was compelling, to prove that he still has the desire, to prove to everybody else, 'listen, I'm a Test match cricketer, I'm one of the best there's ever been, and I damn well deserve to be wearing the shirt.'" AGENCIES

WHO chief, Taliban discuss Afghan health crisis

KABUL: Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, Director-General of the World Health Organization (WHO), said that he met Taliban Health Minister Qalander Ebad for talks on the "dire" health and humanitarian crisis in Afghanistan. Ghebreyesus revealed that the meeting took place in Geneva on Tuesday, Khaama Press reported. Ebad is part of a Taliban delegation visiting Geneva for a week of talks with institutions and non-governmental agencies on humanitarian access and human rights, as Afghanistan's new rulers expand their international engagement.

Since the Taliban took over Afghanistan last August, the country has plunged into financial chaos, with inflation and unemployment surging, while the halting of aid and US sanctions has triggered a humanitarian crisis in a country already devastated by decades of war. Tedros had already met Ebad during his visit to Kabul in September 2021 in the wake of the Taliban takeover. "Despite some improvements

since then, the health situation in Afghanistan is still dire and the acute humanitarian crisis is continuing to put lives at risk," Tedros said following his meeting with the Health Minister in Geneva.

He said they discussed health needs in the country, strengthening the system, emergency preparedness, and training the health workforce, in which women are central.

"The acute need in Afghanistan is to deliver diagnostics to detect the Covid-19 virus, and in particular Omicron, as the number of cases is on the rise," Tedros said. AGENCIES

Putin, Tokayev discuss situation in Kazakhstan, bilateral cooperation

President Tokayev's firm stance, Russia's support, and the assistance of the Collective Security Treaty Organisation (CSTO) made it possible to restore order and peace in Kazakhstan in the shortest time possible, Putin said on Thursday during a press conference following talks with the Kazakh leader.

The Russian President called January's unrest "an act of terrorist aggression committed with the direct participation of destructive internal and external forces".

Putin praised the joint efforts of the CSTO aimed at ending the unrest in Kazakhstan and restoring peace, as well as the work currently being done by the Kazakh President to normalise the situation, Xinhua news agency reported.

"The talks also focused on strengthening military and military-technical cooperation. Russia will continue to assist Kazakhstan in training military specialists," the Russian President said.

Turning to regional and international issues, Putin noted that the positions of both countries often coincide, including on international platforms such as the United Nations, and both nations respect the principles of national sovereignty and non-interference.

Tokayev in turn thanked the Russian President and the CSTO for repelling an "unprecedented terrorist attack" in Kazakhstan, and voiced support for Russia's position on the indivisibility of security in Eurasia. AGENCIES

UN experts urge Canada to repatriate seriously ill national from Syria

GENEVA: A group of UN human rights experts on Thursday called on Canada to urgently repatriate from Syria a woman who has life-threatening illnesses.

The woman, named Kimberly Polman and a Canadian national, has been detained at various camps since March 2019 absent any legal charges or legal process. She is currently held at Roj camp in Syria's northeast under conditions "meeting the threshold of torture, cruel, inhuman and degrading treatment," the experts said.

According to the experts, she traveled to Syria in 2015

at the behest of her future husband whom she met online, Xinhua news agency reported.

"Victims or potential victims of trafficking should not be placed in situations that expose them to multiple forms of abuses," the experts added in a statement.

"The failure of their home State to protect individuals in such situations perpetuates and contributes to further victimisation of those who have already experienced violence and trauma," the statement said.

The experts pointed out that the Canadian government has not heeded her family's requests for repatriation, for access to immediate medical health, or for assistance in replacing her Canadian passport, a prerequisite to any return to Canada.

"The Canadian authorities' outright refusal to assist her so that she has urgent access to health-care, or at the very least to facilitate the transfer of money from her family so that she is able to improve her health and living conditions, is a clear violation of her right to health and could amount to violations of the right to life and the prohibition of cruel and inhumane treatment," the experts said.

The experts, including the UN Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism, and the UN Special Rapporteur on trafficking in persons, especially women and children, said they have been in contact with the Canadian government since autumn 2021. AGENCIES
