Rahul slams govt over GST hike on scientific equipment

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday attacked the government over the increase in GST rate on scientific equipment, saying "don't let science suffer because of Gabbar Singh Tax".

In a Facebook post, Gandhi said scientific advancement is the cornerstone for the development of any nation. The pattern of reduction in the allocation of funds for scientific research by the BJP government is a "worrisome" sign for the research ecosystem in India, he said.

"Now, by increasing the GST rates from 5% to 18% on scientific instruments, the government is displaying its thoughtless approach and further reducing funds and resources available for labs involved in scientific work across the country," he said. Remember, this government has already cut 3.9% of Union Ministry of Science and Technology's budget this year, Gandhi said. "Don't let science suffer because of your 'Gabbar Singh Tax', Prime Minister. Roll back the GST on scientific equipment," he demanded.

Kashmiri separatist leader Yasin Malik hospitalised

NEW DELHI: Convicted Kashmiri Separatist leader Yasin Malik was hospitalised by the Tihar prison authorities after his health deteriorated following his ongoing hunger strike.

"He was referred to Ram Manohar Lohia hospital on Tuesday due to some fluctuation in his blood pressure," a senior prison official told media. The official informed that for further examination Malik was admitted to the hospital and is currently hospitalised there.

Malik was convicted in connection with a 2017 terror funding case and sentenced to life imprisonment on May 25 by an National Investigation Agency special court.

The jailed separatist leader, who is currently lodged at Jail No. 7 of the Tihar Prison, went on hunger strike on July 22. When asked the reason behind his hunger strike, the official refrained from divulging any details further, however, prison sources said that Malik is protesting against the agencies that are investigating his cases.

"Malik is alleging that his case is not being investigated properly, hence he went on an indefinite hunger strike," sources said.

Notably, Malik is not just separated from the outside world, he is even kept alone inside the prison, away from nearly 13, 000 prisoners there.

The Tihar prison's Jail Number 7, where Malik is lodged, has been always in the limelight as it has housed several high-profile prisoners, including former Finance Minister P. Chidambaram, former Union Minister A. Raja, Sahara head Subrata Roy, Christian Michel among several others.

The Court in its order had awarded two life sentences and five punishments of 10 years of 'Rigorous Imprisonment' each to the convict. Rigorous imprisonment means confinement of the offender in a manner that increases the hardship of the jail term based upon the nature of the offence by subjecting the offender to special arrangements in the jail.

However, despite the court orders, Malik was not given any work inside the prison. "He won't be assigned work at all due to security reasons," a top prison official told IANS, adding the work is assigned subject to security concerns and the decision is taken as per jail rules.

AAP takes fight to Parliament over liquor policy issue

FW DESK

After the Delhi LG ordered a CBI probe in the liquor policy, the AAP has taken the fight to the Parliament, giving a notice to suspend business in the Rajya Sabha. The party is upset that after Satyendar Jain was arrested by ED, this is the second case against the Delhi government minister.

AAP's Rajya Sabha MP, Sanjay Singh has given Suspension of Business Notice under Rule 267 over the misuse of CBI and ED against the Delhi Government.

Delhi Lt. Governor V.K. Saxena recommended a CBI probe into the AAP government's Excise Policy 2021-22, and the Chief Secretary has been asked to submit a detailed report on the roles of officials involved in amendment and implementation of the policy.

According to a source, taking the serious note of the 'gross violations and deliberate lapses' in the formulation, amendment and implementation of the Delhi Excise Policy 2021-22, that came to the fore in the Chief Secretary's report to the Lt Governor and the Chief Minister, the Lt. Governor has sought the report from the Chief Secretary.

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Monday carried out raids at the institutions of the Church of South India (CSI) over corruption allegations at its Karakonam medical college. The ED raided the headquarters of the CSI South Kerala diocese which houses the office of Bishop, A Dharmaraj Rasalam, here.

The raid was in connection with a case registered for allegedly collecting huge amounts of money from students, promising them a medical seat at the Dr Somervell Memorial CSI Medical College in Karakonam, which is run by the church.

Meanwhile, Fr. C.R. Godwin, the Director of the Christian Education Board told the media that the Crime Branch had already conducted an enquiry in the matter.

"As I said earlier, 25 people have filed cases against the medical college regarding capitation and the case was in the court. ED wants to know more about the case. We are happy to clarify, they are questioning the Bishop and he is happy to give answers to their questions. They reached at 6.30 AM and started the raid. They did not inform us earlier," Godwin said. Earlier, in February, the High Court had quashed a report of the Crime Branch giving the church authorities a clean chit in the Karakonam case.

Opposition obstructs development works: PM Modi

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday accused the Opposition of obstructing development works, saying they keep their political interests above that of society and the country.

"Many times, the opposition parties put some obstacles in the government's work as they could not implement the decisions taken by them when they were in power," Modi said addressing virtually a programme on the 10th death anniversary of former Samajwadi Party Rajya Sabha member Harmohan Singh Yadav.

"Now, if they (decisions) are implemented, they oppose it. People of the country don't like it," he added, stressing in recent times, a trend of keeping "ideology or political interests above the interests of society and the country" is being witnessed.

Gold-plated roof of Sabarimala Temple found leaking

The gold-plated roof of the famed Lord Ayyappa Temple here, thronged by lakhs of pilgrims during its annual pilgrimage season, has been found leaking, following which the shrine authorities decided to repair it at the earliest.

The Travancore Devaswom Board, the apex temple body which manages the shrine, on Tuesday said a portion of the gold plated roof would be opened on August 3 to take stock of the leak. However, a TDB official said the leak, found on the front left corner of the sanctum sanctorum, was not a major one. Water was found dripping on the statues of the "dwarapalakas" (door guard) recently, he said adding that temple "tantri" (head priest) Kandarraraj Rajeevaru has been informed about the leak following which he gave permission for the repair.

Gujarat hooch tragedy: Death toll rises to 21

The death toll due to the consumption of spurious liquor in Gujarat's Botad district has gone up to 21, officials said on Tuesday.

The police control room in Botad confirmed that 16 people from the district have died so far.

Five people from Dhandhuka taluka of neighbouring Ahmedabad district have also died during treatment since Monday.

Around 30 people are still undergoing treatment at various government hospitals in Bhavnagar, Botad, Barvala and Dhandhuka, officials said.

Gujarat Director General of Police Ashish Bhatia earlier said the police have detained three persons from Botad district who were allegedly involved in manufacturing and selling the spurious country-made liquor. The matter came to light early Monday morning when some people living in Rojid village of Barvala taluka and other surrounding villages were referred to government hospitals in Barvala and Botad towns after their condition started deteriorating.

Inspector General of Police (Bhavnagar range) Ashok Kumar Yadav had said a Special Investigation Team (SIT) under a deputy superintendent of police-rank officer will be formed for a probe into the incident and to nab bootleggers who sold the spurious liquor.

The Gujarat Anti-Terrorist Squad (ATS) and the Ahmedabad crime branch have also joined the investigation.

India commemorates Kargil Vijay Diwas

President Droupadi Murmu and Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday led the nation in paying tributes to the armed forces personnel who fought valiantly in extremely harsh conditions to defend the country's territory during the Kargil conflict.

On July 26, 1999, the Indian

Army announced the successful culmination of "Operation Vijay", declaring victory after a nearly three-month-long battle on the icy heights of Kargil in Ladakh.

The day is observed as 'Kargil Vijay Diwas' to commemorate India's victory over Pakistan in the war.

"Kargil Vijay Diwas is a symbol of extraordinary bravery, valour and determination of our armed forces. I bow to all the brave soldiers who laid down their lives to protect Mother India. The country will always be indebted to them and their family members. Jai Hind," Murmu said in a tweet in Hindi.

The President is the supreme commander of the armed forces. In a tweet, Prime Minister Modi said Kargil Vijay Diwas is a symbol of pride and glory for the country.

"Kargil Vijay Diwas is a symbol of pride and glory of 'Maa Bharati'. On this occasion, I salute all the brave sons of the country who achieved the height of valour in the defence of the motherland. Jai Hind," he said.

Former Congress president Rahul Gandhi and several party MPs were detained by police at Vijay Chowk on Tuesday after they staged a protest against the ED questioning of Sonia Gandhi.

Rahul Gandhi and the other Congress MPs had gathered at Vijay Chowk to march towards the Rashtrapati Bhavan to draw the President's attention to the alleged misuse of agencies by the government, but were stopped by the police.

Gandhi was put in a police bus but officials did not disclose where he was being taken. Other Congress MPs at the Vijay Chowk protest site were detained and taken away in separate police buses.

"India is a police state, Modi is a king," Rahul Gandhi alleged. He said discussions were not being allowed in Parliament.

"I am not going anywhere. We wanted to go towards the President's house. But the police are not allowing us," Gandhi said.

Honey-trapped Army jawan sends confidential documents to Pak agent, arrested JAIPUR: An Indian Army jawan, Shantimoy Rana (24), resident of West Bengal, was arrested for sharing confidential videos and documents after being honey-trapped by a female agent, confirmed officials here on Wednesday. The CID Intelligence team arrested the accused and confirmed that documents of Army's strategic importance have been shared with a Pakistan female agent through social media by him.

Director General Intelligence Umesh Mishra said the espionage activities being carried out in Rajasthan by the Pakistani intelligence agencies are continuously monitored by CID Intelligence under Operation Sarhad. During this surveillance, it came to the notice that Army jawan Shantimoy Rana was in constant touch with the Pakistani intelligence handlers through social media. When the activities of the jawan were monitored by the team of Intelligence Jaipur, he was found sharing information of military's strategic significance with the Pak female agent via social media after being honey-trapped and in greed of money. On July 25, Shanti Moy Rana was taken into custody.

Mishra said that the accused jawan was interrogated by various intelligence agencies at the Joint Inquiry Center, Jaipur. During interrogation, he said that he is in the Indian Army since 2018 and was in touch with female Pak agents via WhatsApp chat and What'sApp audio and video calling for a long time. Mishra further said that one Gurnur Kaur alias Anika identified herself as a resident of Shahjahanpur, Uttar Pradesh and said that she was working in the Military Engineering Service there.

Article 370 was a cultural, psychological barrier in country's integration: Tejasvi Surya

Article 370 was not only a constitutional barrier in the way of Jammu and Kashmir's full integration with India, but also posed as a cultural and psychological hurdle, BJP's Tejasvi Surya said here on Monday.

Article 370, that granted the erstwhile state of J&K special status, was abrogated by the Centre in August 2019.

Surya, the president of the party's youth wing, was here to flag off the first-ever Tiranga bikers rally from Lal Chowk to Kargil War Memorial.

Speaking at the historic Ghanta Ghar (clock tower), Surya said after the abrogation of Article 370, development came to Kashmir and the valley is now done with terror.

Kashmir is done with terrorism and is on the path of development. We used to hear and read every day about terrorist attacks, stone-pelting, Hurriyat-issued calendars, but today, the same Kashmir is known for its hydro-electric power projects, new expressway, IITs, AIIMS, IIMs, new central universities and new initiatives of development. This is happening because Prime Minister Narendra Modi abrogated 370, he said.

The BJP leader said Article 370 was a cultural and psychological barrier which did not allow us to complete the constitutional vision of Ek Bharat, Shreshth Bharat.

Govt, biotech firms must act to fight monkeypox

The World Health Organization, for the second time in two years, has declared a viral outbreak to be a Public Health Emergency of International Concern (PHEIC). With four cases confirmed in India and around 14,500 cases globally, monkeypox outbreaks have triggered international consternation in a world that is yet to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic. After a split verdict at the International Health Regulations Emergency Committee meeting — on whether monkeypox deserves to be termed a PHEIC — it fell on WHO's Director-General, Dr. Tedros Ghebreyesus, to take a call. A PHEIC is just one step short of a 'pandemic' classification. Following the declaration of COVID-19 as a pandemic on March 11, 2020, WHO had come under criticism for not responding with alacrity on the public health threat that the coronavirus pandemic portended. It had termed the COVID-19 crisis as a PHEIC on January 30, 2020 when global cases were around 7,500, or about half the levels now reported for monkeypox. WHO has recommended that countries step up surveillance, amplify public awareness campaigns, governments work towards not stigmatising the disease, and health infrastructure be primed towards producing diagnostic kits. The experience from the COVID-19 pandemic has shown that governments implement measures to avoid 'panic' but are often opaque and vague with the information necessary to quell it. While it is unclear how the monkeypox outbreak will play out, the government must begin coordinated action with the States to summarise and disseminate the extent of the threat. Related to the eradicated smallpox virus, monkeypox is suspected to have amplified due to reduced immunity against the smallpox virus. Indian labs and biotech companies must step up research and mine their arsenal to prepare adequate defences if the need arises.

The Brunt of Minimum Support Price

80 crore people are given food security for months and now after the end of long agitation of farmers the central govt. is silent about making a law on MSP (Minimum Support Price) and a central minister says that it is not possible to pay MSP. Farmers will be panelized to pay the cost of overproduction and ultimately they are thrown amid free market forces as the market price of food grains is less than MSP. Moreover, they give an argument that if govt. purchases all production on MSP it would cost 17 lakh crore which is half the amount of the union budget. Someone is playing with data. Food production is not a waste which will be thrown or dumped. The government would compensate the farmer only the difference between the market price and MSP, not the whole MSP. Wrong interpretation of the data as according to the whole MSP of the crop creates confusion among common men. Moreover, the farmer is producing to feed the population of the nation. The question arises that if you have enough to eat then why GHI is going down and even ranked below Bangladesh and Pakistan. Indian people know hunger well. A food grain surplus nation cannot rank as low as India in the Global Hunger Index. The common myth that we are the huge producers of food grains and export a big amount of food grains may be because we are exporting more and consuming less. The per-capita consumption of grains started declining in 1990 and this trend continued in later two decades and a recovery in 2011-2020 unfortunately, this decline was not taken seriously as academicians interpret it according to the Lorence curve that with increasing income a consumer diversifies his consumption and spends a lesser amount on the consumption of food grains and more on fruits, nuts and animal products. But in the case of India, this doesn't happen as proven by GHI and malnutrition among children. If demand disappeared or declined for food grains, where did the grain go? For the last ten years, India has emerged as a big cereal exporter and we are not a food surplus state but consume fewer food grains. There is no authentic surplus food grain in the country. Any surplus visible in the forms of large exports and overflowing FCI stocks can be attributed to the fact that the average Indian was not able to maintain her already low level of grain consumption over the last thirty years. Needless to say, this 'average Indian' is located far away from the glittering lives of the metropolitan cities and invisible from the world of policy-makers. 196 million people are undernourished and malnutrition is the top cause of death and disability. It is clear that food security remains a serious challenge.

India now ranks 101 out of 116 countries in terms of hunger and continues to be in the 'severe' hunger category according to the GHI of 2022. These situations clearly prove that food is not accessible in India. South Asia has the highest child wasting rate of any region, and India is the worst performer. At 17.3%, India's child wasting rate is only slightly better than it was last year, at 20.8%.
MSP is a crucial and key issue for food security and the survival of agriculture as it works as a social safety net for farmers. The unpredictability of agricultural yields and products often results in windfall losses making the lives of farmers debt-ridden and pathetic. The economic decisions involved in agriculture are massive and need to be recognized as such. The demand for Minimum Support Prices (MSP) is directly linked to food security in India. Hence, farmers have a rationale and urgency in seeking govt attention towards their economic well-being as made or marred by new agricultural legislations of the central govt. For instance, students of economics are familiar with the COBWEB theorem. A farmer has to take the decision to produce a particular crop minimum of six months before marketing so then an assurance of minimum support price is a must in agriculture. Every industry can increase or decrease its production according to the demand in the market but a farmer can not as he has sown the crop six months before, it reaches to market and the standard law of demand and supply of Dr Marshall does not work in food production. A farmer never knows what will be market and weather conditions in the coming next 5 to six months. Cobweb theorem describes this dilemma of a farmer. How the market forces and nature play a major role in deciding the price of agriculture products as two third of total land has no irrigation facilities in our country. A farmer can be ruined because of a lack of demand and low prices. Even plenty of production can also ruin him when the price falls because more production when supply surpasses demand and equilibrium price falls. This is called poverty in prosperity in economics. Even the developed capitalist economies, where the free market supposedly rules, highly subsidize their farming communities. So the assurance of MSP is a must for the crops. Govt gives MSP only for 23 crops and only 6% of the total crop is sold on MSP because of loopholes in govt. marketing policies. The boom and bust of agriculture will be solved when we shift from state domination to individual freedom

V SRIVIDHAR EXPLAINS WHY INTEGRATING TERRESTRIAL 5G NETWORKS WITH LEO SATELLITE NETWORKS IS CRUCIAL

A path to global connectivity

As terrestrial 5G mobile networks are being rolled out across countries, there is a renewed interest in integrating Non-Terrestrial Networks, the primary one being the low latency Low Earth Orbit (LEO) satellite networks (SatNets), as a complement to terrestrial networks. Towards this, Starlink, operated by the Elon Musk-owned SpaceX, and OneWeb, promoted by Bharti Global, have launched about 2,500 and 648 LEO satellites respectively at an altitude of about 1,200 km with the objective of promoting global broadband connectivity. There are other players such as Reliance Jio in a joint venture with Luxembourg-based SES and Amazon's Project Kuiper. There are primarily three main use cases for integrating LEO SatNets with terrestrial 5G networks: (i) service continuity to provide seamless transition between terrestrial networks and SatNets in case of public safety, disaster management and emergency situations; (ii) service ubiquity to provide 5G services in unserved and underserved areas of the world, thereby bridging the digital divide; (iii) service scalability that utilises the unique capabilities of SatNets in multicasting and broadcasting similar content over a large geographical area. The LEO SatNets can provide service not only to stationary but also to in-motion users.

Integration process
Satellites and terrestrial networks have always been considered two independent ecosystems, and their standardisation efforts have proceeded independent of each other. In view of the above advantages, standard-setting organisations such as the Third Generation Partnership project (3GPP), comprising telcos and equipment manufacturers around the world, started integrating SatNets in the standardisation process. As an extension to terrestrial networks, satellites were first mentioned in a deployment scenario of 5G in 3GPP Release 14. This was to provide 5G communication services for areas where terrestrial coverage was not available and also to support services that could be accessed more efficiently through satellite systems, such as broadcasting services and delay-tolerant services. Interestingly, wireless communications through LEO satellites over long distances is proven to be 1.47 times faster than communication over the same distance through terrestrial optic fibre. It is this advantage along with global coverage that provide a strong use case for LEO

SatNets to complement terrestrial optic fibre networks.
Issues to be addressed
This would necessitate addressing issues around frequencies to be allocated for satellite broadband, the methodology of allocation, the relatively higher cost of consumer equipment and the placement and interconnections of SatNets with terrestrial public landline/mobile networks at the ground stations. The other major challenge in LEO SatNets is the cost of user terminal and access charges to the end users. A recent research analysing both Starlink and OneWeb concludes that the standalone LEO SatNets have a distinct cost advantage only if the density is less than 0.1 person per square km compared to terrestrial broadband networks. Hence it is to the advantage of LEO SatNet providers to integrate their networks with terrestrial 5G networks to improve the cost economies. Realising the advantages, the Government, in its National Digital Communications Policy 2018, has indicated a number of areas including the development of an ecosystem for local manufacturing of satellite communication systems and promoting participation of private players for the strengthening of satellite communication infrastructure in the country. Accordingly, the New Space India Limited (NSIL), a public sector enterprise, was established in 2019 under the administrative control of the Department of Space, to re-orient space activities from a 'supply driven' model to a 'demand driven' model, thereby ensuring optimum utilisation of the space assets. The Department of Space also established in 2020 a new regulatory body named the Indian National Space Promotion and Authorisation Centre (IN-SPACe). IN-SPACe is intended to provide a level playing field for private companies to use Indian space infrastructure and to promote and guide the private industries in space activities through encouraging policies and a friendly regulatory environment. All these, along with the proposed revisions to the Satellite Communications Policy of the Government, will provide the required fillip to LEO SatNets to become an integral part of the communication infrastructure of the country.

'I'm chuffed at stimulating aspect of mentoring'

Cool as a cucumber: that's five-times World Chess Champion Viswanathan Anand. Cooped up in Germany due to the Coronavirus pandemic, he returned home via a Vande Bharat repatriation flight, coped with the loss of his father, learnt Hindi, had the satisfaction of launching the WestBridge Anand Chess Academy (WACA) to nurture India's chess prodigies — and is chuffed at the stimulating aspect of mentoring. "My approach towards the pandemic was not to fight the outlandish situation kicking and screaming, but to flow with the current without overthinking and making myself miserable. None of us could have been better or worse prepared for what we were up against," Anand writes in the bonus chapter of his memoir,

'Mind Master: Winning Lessons from a Champion's Life' with Susan Ninan (Hachette), that has been reissued as a paperback edition to mark the 44th Chess Olympiad that opened in Chennai on Thursday. The Olympiad will see the participation of 343 teams from 187 countries, with 30 players from India matching their skills against the best in the world under Anand's mentorship. "When I look back at the worst days of the pandemic, I realise the learnings have been plenty. I've been forced to cope with the loss of a parent and that has drawn me closer to my family. When I peep into (son) Akhil's room I see a child trying harder than the rest of us to accept the reality of online classes and his friends being turned into tiny picture panels on the screen...I catch the proud smile on his face when my achievements appear as questions in his school assignments," Anand writes. Reminiscing about his father, who in his early years "doubled up as my manager and had to deal with a youngster who was trying to break free and discover himself," he writes that in his last years, the elder Anand's Sunday afternoons were spent in the bearing down on my chest," Anand writes. The pandemic, he writes, presented two options: mope about not knowing what lies ahead "or find an opportunity in the unexpected gift of time. We had all the time in the world, with no flights to catch and no office rush to beat. I asked myself what I always wanted to learn but had put off for later". "Turns out, the answer was Hindi. I had never found the time earlier to learn the language. In my years of living in Madrid, when I'd learnt Spanish by conversing with locals, I had never been embarrassed to make mistakes. With Hindi...well...it was different. My ignorance of the language meant I felt more lost in Delhi or Mumbai than I ever did perhaps even in Frankfurt (since I read, write and speak German reasonably fluently). I found it strange because I wasn't supposed to feel this way in my own country. It formed the premise of my motivation to take up Hindi lessons. I defined it as being able to survive an Indian airport," Anand writes.

Reliance expects gas price to rise in Oct, wants removal of ceiling prices

Reliance Industries Ltd expects prices of natural gas in India to rise again in October but wants government-dictated caps to go, in a bid to align domestic rates with global energy prices. The conglomerate, controlled by billionaire Mukesh Ambani, expects the price cap for its KG-D6 gas sales to rise over the current USD 9.92 per million British thermal units, Sanjay Roy, senior vice-president for exploration and production, said in an investor call following the announcement of the firm's quarterly earnings on Friday. After remaining a loss-making provision for several quarters, Reliance's gas exploration business has begun reaping rewards of a global surge in energy prices that have already pushed the rates to a record high. The government sets gas prices every six months based on international rates. The price of gas from old or regulated fields was more than doubled to a record USD 6.1

per mmBtu from April 1, and that for difficult fields like those lying in deepsea to USD 9.92 per mmBtu. Rates are due for a revision in October. It is anticipated that the price of gas from old fields of state-owned Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) will be hiked to about USD 9 per mmBtu and the cap for difficult fields will rise to double digits. Reliance produced about 19 million standard cubic meters per day of gas from its newer fields in the eastern offshore KG-D6 block in the April-June quarter. KG-D6 block lies in deepsea and so gets a price equivalent to that for difficult fields. "Price ceiling for KGD6 (R-Cluster/Sats) revised to USD 9.92 per mmBtu for H1FY23 (April-September 2022) which is expected to rise further for H2FY23 (October 2022 to March 2023)," Roy said. But this rate remains disconnected with global prices.

NARVIJAY YADAV

In the era of the Covid 19 pandemic, almost all companies in the world extended the facility of work from home (WFH) to their employees. In many companies, the WFH system continues to this day. Some companies have adopted a hybrid model, in which employees are asked to come to the office on some days, while on the rest days they can work from their homes. Many benefits of working from home were directly visible, such as the time spent commuting to the office being saved. Fuel consumption was drastically reduced. There was time for family. Everyone liked the flexibility in working hours. Microsoft recently conducted a survey, in which young people born after 1990 (Gen Z) were asked about their views on this matter. The report titled 'Work Trend Index Generation Z' revealed that sectors that do not have work-from-home facilities are not getting qualified workers. Construction, finance, hospital-ity, and manufacturing are sectors that are facing the problem of qualified manpower. Most of the youth now prefer to work from home only. That is why technology companies have no shortage of young and qualified employees. After the global recession in 2007, jobs in big banks were rapidly lost, so now graduate youth are more attracted to technology companies than big banks. Perhaps that is why, between 2011 and 2020, public transport. Looking at the current situation, it seems that in the next 5 to 7 years, most of the vehicles on the Indian roads will be electric models.

In Punjab, where the number of petrol and diesel vehicles is high, the state is lagging behind in the case of electric vehicles. There are hardly about 15,000 electric vehicles (EVs) in Punjab, while in Haryana their number is more than 78,000. It was informed in the Lok Sabha that Punjab has lagged behind in developing vehicle charging infrastructure also. There are only 41 electric charging stations in the state, that too in the private sector. No work has been done in this direction at the government level.

5G facility is going to start in India by the end of this year, for which telecom companies are gearing up rapidly. This will be a service with ten times more speed than the current 4G service. For this, initially, customers may have to pay up to a 20% higher tariff. Also, 5G handsets will also be expensive.

When any new technology comes into the market, it is generally expensive. When people start using it on a large scale, that is, the number of customers goes up, then gradually its cost starts decreasing. Telecom companies are assuming that the facility of 5G will be first taken by the customers of urban areas.

Some people may feel that our country lacks facilities and natural calamities are more frequent here. But the reality is that the situation is not good even in western nations. Due to global warming, this time most parts of the US and Europe are facing severe heat. For the first time in the history of Britain, the day temperature has reached 40 degrees. The temperature of 40 degrees may not matter much for us in India, but it is a big problem for the people of London because the temperature there was often only up to 20 degrees. You must have often seen that when British tourists used to come to India, especially in winters, they liked to sit in the sun whenever they got a chance.

Reserve Bank of India in favour of ban crypto currencies, claims to launch own digital currency on Blockchain technology

Union finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in the Lok Sabha in reply to a written question that the Reserve Bank of India is in favour of banning cryptocurrencies, it was clear that it is concerned about their destabilising effect on monetary and fiscal stability.

Money has three main attributes: it is used as a unit of account, as a medium of exchange, and as a store of value. In most countries, money is issued by a government backed authority (such as RBI in India) and carries sovereign guarantee. Entities authorised to hold money and enable payments (such as banks, credit cards and payment wallets) are licensed by a government agency. This means that there is a government-regulated centralised system of validating transactions and keeping track of money flow.

The Union Finance Minister said, "In view of the concerns expressed by RBI on the destabilising effect of cryptocurrencies on the monetary and fiscal stability of a country, RBI has recommended framing of legislation on this sector. RBI is of the view that cryptocurrencies should be prohibited."

had announced the launch of India's own digital currency by the RBI next year 2023 that will be based on Blockchain technology. With this, India will join certain countries that have their own central bank digital currency (CBDC) that refers to the virtual form of a fiat currency. "Digital rupee to be issued using Blockchain and other technologies by the RBI starting 2022-23," said Sitharaman in Parliament.

However, the much-expected Cryptocurrency Bill is yet to see the light of the day. One reason is that effective legislation on this matter is possible only through international collaboration. Cryptocurrencies are by definition borderless and require international collaboration to prevent regulatory arbitrage. Therefore, any legislation for regulation or for banning can be effective only after significant international collaboration on evaluation of the risks and benefits and evolution of common taxonomy and standards.

What is Cryptocurrency : Historically, currencies were devised as means to replace the barter system. Currencies that we use in our regular life are also known as «fiat currencies» since they are backed by a convertible or a commodity. In simple terms, the currency that we use is issued by the Government and is a promissory note issued by the Government promising to pay the bearer the amount specified on the currency.

The VCs are basically a collection of binary data, which is stored using cryptography to secure the transaction records. VCs are not fiat currencies and are not backed by the Government. VCs are based on the concept of decentralised control and have no single authority regulating its issuance. VCs do not exist physically. They are distributed over a vast network of computers. Unlike regular currencies, VCs have a limit. Every ASCII computer file specifies the quantity of a coin. Thus, as the demand for VCs increase, so does its value. It works on the principle of demand and supply.

FPIs return to Indian equities, invest Rs 1100 crore in July

The relentless selling by foreign investors appears to have taken a breather as they have turned net buyers so far this month with an investment of nearly Rs 1,100 crore in the Indian equity market.

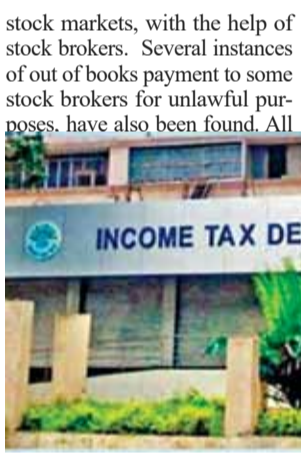

This comes following a net withdrawal of Rs 50,145 crore from equities in June. This was the highest net outflow since March 2020, when they had pulled out Rs 61,973 crore from equities, data with depositories showed. There has been an exodus of Foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) from Indian equity markets over the last nine months, since October 2021. "Given the headwinds in terms of rising inflation and tightening monetary policy, we expect FPI flows to remain volatile," Shrikant Chouhan, Head - Equity Research (Retail), Kotak Securities, said.

According to data with depositories, FPIs invested a net amount of Rs 1,099 crore in Indian equities during July 1-22. They have significantly slowed down their relentless selling and have even turned buyers for several days this month particularly during the last few days. The declining trend of net outflow over the last few weeks coupled with occasional buying does signify that the net outflow from FPIs have bottomed out. The net inflow was driven by better earnings and decline in commodity prices, Chouhan said.

Another factor that helped in net inflow was expectation of less aggressive rate hike by the US Federal Reserve in its upcoming policy meeting than what was anticipated earlier. This also softens the dollar index, which augurs well for emerging markets like India, Himanshu Srivastava, Associate Director - Manager Research, Morningstar India, said. There is also a reduced possibility of recession in the US or it would be less impactful. In addition to that, the recent corrections in the markets have also provided a good buying opportunity for FPIs, he added.

Income Tax Department conducts searches in Mumbai such irregularities have been admitted by both, the promoter and the stock brokers. The group is also supported by a professional person, who is primarily engaged in providing accommodation entries to several other groups, in exchange of cash.

These evidences also revealed that the group has generated huge amount of cash through claiming bogus purchases of various materials including packing material of more than Rs. 100 crore. Moreover, the group has also indulged in unaccounted sales of agro and textile items over Rs. 150 crore. Handwritten diaries containing cash transactions have also been found and seized, which have been duly corroborated by statements of some of the counterparties/beneficiaries covered under the search action.

Searches were also conducted in case of another group which is involved in providing accommodation entry. This group is found to be operating and controlling various concerns including LLPs, companies and proprietorship concerns through which accommodation entry of sale and purchase of cut and polished diamond as well as shares are given in the guise of genuine business. The main persons of the group have admitted in their statement under oath, about arranging accommodation entries pertaining to expenses and unsecured loans for various beneficiaries, against cash. A preliminary analysis of few years of such transactions shows that accommodation entries in the nature of bogus loans and expenses exceeding few hundred crore have been provided through these entities.

Unaccounted cash of Rs. 1.4 crore has been seized during the search operation. Further investigations are in progress.

SEBI notifies social stock exchange framework

Capital markets regulator Sebi has notified a framework for the social stock exchange to provide social enterprises with an additional avenue to raise funds.

activities, professional or trade associations, infrastructure and housing companies, except affordable housing, will not be eligible to be identified as a social enterprise. Concerning fund raising, Sebi said eligible NPOs can raise funds through zero-coupon zero principal bonds and mutual funds, while for-profit social enterprises can mobilise capital through the issuance of equity shares on the main board, SME platform or equity shares issued to an alternative investment fund, including social impact fund. NPOs desirous of raising funds on the SSE will be required to be registered with the exchange.

The framework for the Social Stock Exchange (SSE) has been developed on the basis of the recommendations of a working group and technical group constituted by the regulator.

The social stock exchange is a novel concept in India and such a bourse is meant to serve the private and non-profit sectors by channelling greater capital to them. The idea of SSE was first floated by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in her Budget Speech 2019-20.

Under the new rules, SSE will be a separate segment of the existing stock exchanges, according to the three separate notifications issued by the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) on Monday. Social enterprises (SEs) eligible to participate in the SSE will be entities -- non-profit organisations (NPOs) and for-profit social enterprises -- having social intent and impact as their primary goal. Also, such an intent should be demonstrated through its focus on eligible social objectives for the underserved or less privileged populations or regions.

In respect of disclosures, a social enterprise, raising funds or registered on SSE, will be required to submit an "annual impact report" to such a bourse. The annual impact report will be audited by a social audit firm employing a social auditor.

Also, social venture funds under Sebi's alternative investment funds norms have been rechristened as social impact funds in a bid to make such funds an attractive means for investment in NPOs. Further, the corpus requirements for such funds have been reduced from Rs 20 crore to Rs 5 crore and the minimum value of the investment by an individual investor in such funds will be Rs 2 lakh.

The scheme is operational for a period of five years from 2020-21 to 2024-25 with an outlay of Rs. 10,000 Crore. Scheme primarily adopts One District One Product (ODOP) approach to reap the benefit of scale in terms of procurement of inputs, availing common services and marketing of products. It provides the framework for value chain development and alignment of support infrastructure. As per the Annual Survey of Industries, 2015-16 and 73rd Round Survey of National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO), there are about 25 lakh unregistered/unincorporated food processing enterprises in the country.

The PMFME scheme is designed to address the challenges faced by the micro enterprises and to tap the potential of groups and cooperatives in supporting the upgradation and formalization of these enterprises. The scheme aims to enhance the competitiveness of new and existing individual micro-enterprises in the unorganized segment of the food processing industry and promote formalization of the sector.

Capacity building and training is a critical component of the scheme in technical upgradation and formalization of micro food processing enterprises. The focus areas for capacity building are entrepreneurship development, compliance of Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) standards and general hygiene and other statutory compliances. District Resource Persons (DRPs) have been entrusted to provide hand-holding support to micro food processing enterprises for the compliance of FSSAI and other statutory requirements.

Rishi Sunak, Liz Truss neck and neck after first TV debate clash

There was no clear winner between former Chancellor Rishi Sunak and Foreign Secretary Liz Truss on Tuesday after the UK's prime ministerial candidates went head-to-head in their first television debate as finalists and clashed fiercely on their economic policies and tax plans.

A snap Opinim poll of who performed best in the BBC debate on Monday night found Sunak just slightly ahead at 39 per cent, compared to Truss at 38 per cent. However, 47 per cent of Conservative Party voters quizzed thought it was the Foreign Secretary who was the better performer, with 38 per cent preferring Sunak.

Overall, the survey of 1,032 British adults held that voters could not decide between Sunak and Truss, with just one point dividing the pair.

In a reflection of what a general election might throw up, data showed that 41 per cent of Opposition Labour Party voters in the survey thought 42-year-old Sunak did better while 30 per cent preferred Truss.

Of those surveyed, 43 per cent also said the Conservatives should elect Sunak while 41 per cent said they should elect 47-year-old Truss, with 12 per cent either choosing "do not know" or abstaining.

You've promised over 40 billion pounds of unfunded tax cuts 40 billion pounds more borrowing, said Sunak, repeatedly confronting his opponent on her pledge to cut taxes from day one as a new Prime Minister.

ter. "That is the country's credit card, and it's our children and grandchildren, everyone here's kids will pick up the tab for that. There's nothing Conservative about it," he said.

The former Chancellor insists the UK's tax burden is the result of the unprecedented levels of government spending needed to keep the economy afloat during the COVID pandemic and that getting a grip on inflation is a priority before any tax cuts.

He warned that Truss' tax cut plan would "tip millions of people into misery" and cost the Tories the next general election, expected around 2024.

The Foreign Secretary, meanwhile, insisted that no other country was putting up taxes and accused Sunak of having no plan for growth. "This Chancellor has raised taxes to the highest rate in 70 years, and we're now predicting a recession. The truth is in the figures," she said.

The debate got heated at several points as the economic policy remained the key dividing line during the fiery programme entitled Our Next Prime Minister, which also saw the pair grilled on their tough stance on China and even their dress sense after jibes on social media over Sunak's expensive tastes.

Sunak was defiant and said he was "not going to apologise" for his background, adding that his parents had worked hard and saved for him and his siblings to get a good, if expensive, education.

"Such aspirational values are Conservative," he declared, attracting a round of applause from the audience in Stoke-on-Trent in central England.

Truss sought to downplay her camp's jibes at the British Indian ex-minister's choice of attire, saying she did not have "any issue with how expensive anybody else's clothes are" and is "not going to give Rishi fashion advice", adding that she is a "great admirer of his dress sense".

During the more mellow moments of the debate, Sunak said he admired Truss and that they were ultimately on the same team. Asked if he would work in a government headed by her, he answered in the affirmative. Truss also said she would "love" to have Sunak on her team if she becomes Prime Minister.

The pair will continue their intense campaigning up and down the country as they appear at a series of hustings organised by the Conservative Campaign Headquarters.

Thai PM sails through last no-confidence vote ahead of polls

Thai Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha sailed through his fourth and final no-confidence vote in Parliament on Saturday with no surprises, ahead of a general election next year.

The vote came after four days of debate targeting Prayuth and 10 of his Cabinet members for economic mismanagement and their failure to prevent corruption.

All 10 ministers also survived the vote, thanks to the ruling coalition government's majority in Parliament.

Prayuth won 256 confidence votes, with 206 against and nine abstaining.

Cholanan Srikaew, head of the main opposition Pheu Thai Party, said the vote result was disappointing as it didn't reflect public sentiment.

We know we cannot win in the Parliament but we will not lose in the general election, he said.

A retired general, Prayuth has weathered three earlier censure motions since 2020. No targeted Cabinet ministers have ever been ousted by no-confidence voting in Thailand's parliamentary history.

Prayuth, 68, came to power during a 2014 coup and was later elected in 2019 general elections.

Over the past four days of censure debate, Prayuth was the key target of the opposition parties.

Opposition chief whip Sutin Klungsang said that Prayuth's key failure was economic management.

Prayuth, who is also Defence Minister, was also accused of spying on political dissidents with Pegasus spyware, and of misusing the country's budget.

The opposition also accused Deputy Prime Minister and Health Minister Anutin Charnvirakul of legalising cannabis without proper controls.

Prayuth has defended his government's record, noting that Thailand's economy is stable despite rising energy prices and high inflation.

For the remaining 250 days of the government, I insist that I will do everything to take the country out of the crisis as soon as possible, he said. The government has forecast the economy to expand between 2.5 per cent and 3.5 per cent this year, up from 1.6 per cent last year.

Ukraine pushes to try alleged war crimes as fighting rages

The appeal of Ukraine's first war crimes conviction was adjourned on Monday, as prosecutors keep pushing to hold Russia legally accountable for atrocities even as fighting rages in the south and east of the country.

Thin and subdued, Vadim Shishimarin, a 21-year-old captured Russian soldier who pleaded guilty to killing a civilian and was sentenced in May by a Ukrainian court to life in prison, sat in a glass box in the courtroom as he faced news cameras. The hearing was postponed until July 29 due to his lawyer's ill health.

Around Ukraine's capital region, where Russian forces pulled out four months ago, much of the work of documenting crime scenes and interviewing witnesses has been done.

Now a more difficult phase in the search for accountability is underway: Finding those responsible. While conducting searches in the previously occupied region, we regularly find documents, passports and lists with names of participants of the units, with their complete data, including sites of birth and dates of births, Andrii Nebytov, head of the Kyiv regional police, told The Associated Press.

All of this information is being transferred to the relevant law enforcement. The investigators are working with the victims, trying to identify the people who committed crimes against them.

US judge OKs online publication of New Mexico voter records

A conservative-backed initiative to publish voter registration records from across the country online for public consumption can move forward over the objections of New Mexico election regulators, a federal judge has ordered in a preliminary opinion. Albuquerque-based US District Court Judge James Browning issued an order last Friday preventing New Mexico state prosecutors from pursuing allegations of possible election code violations against the creators of VoteRef.com. The VoteRef.com website provides searchable access to voter registration records by name and street addresses, often indicating when people voted in past elections. The online records do not say for which candidates the people voted or how they voted on initiatives. Party affiliation is listed for voters in some states but not all.

Trump returning to Washington to deliver policy speech

Former President Donald Trump will return to Washington on Tuesday for the first time since leaving office, delivering a policy speech before an allied think tank that has been crafting an agenda for a possible second term.

Trump will address the America First Policy Institute's two-day America First Agenda Summit as some advisers urge him to spend more time talking about his vision for the future and less time relitigating the 2020 election as he prepares to announce an expected 2024 White House campaign.

I believe it will be a very policy-focused, forward-leaning speech, very much like a State of the Union 5.0," said Brooke Rollins, AFPI's president. Composed of former Trump administration officials and allies, the nonprofit is widely seen as an administration in waiting that could quickly move to the West Wing if Trump were to run again and win.

Trump's appearance in Washington his first trip back since Jan. 20, 2021, when President Joe Biden was sworn into office comes as his potential 2024 rivals have been taking increasingly overt steps to challenge his status as the party's standard-bearer. They include former Vice President Mike Pence, who has been touting his own Freedom Agenda in speeches that serve as an implicit contrast with Trump.

Some people may choose to focus on the past, but I believe conservatives must focus on the future. If we do, we won't just win the next election, we will change the course of American history for generations. Pence had planned to say in a speech at the Heritage Foundation in Washington on the eve of Trump's visit.

Pence's appearance was postponed because of bad weather, but he will be delivering his own speech Tuesday morning before the Young America's Foundation not far from the AFPI meeting.

Trump has spent much of his time since leaving office fixated on the 2020 election and spreading lies about his loss to sow doubt about Biden's victory. Indeed, even as the Jan. 6 committee was laying bare his desperate and potentially illegal attempts to remain in power and his refusal to call off a violent mob of his supporters as they tried to halt the peaceful transition of power, Trump continued to try to pressure officials to overturn Biden's win, despite there being no legal means to decertify the past election.

PM Modi congratulates Kuwait's new PM

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday extended his best wishes to Sheikh Ahmad Nawaf Al Ahmed Al-Sabah on his appointment as the prime minister of Kuwait. The country's ruler has appointed Sheikh Ahmad as prime minister. Iraq submits complaint to UN against Turkey after attack

Iraq has filed a complaint to the UN Security Council, requesting an urgent session to discuss a deadly artillery attack this week that Baghdad blames on Turkey, the Foreign Ministry said.

Wednesday's attack on the district of Zakho in Iraq's northern, semi-autonomous Kurdish region killed nine Iraqi tourists, including a child, and wounded 20. Foreign Ministry spokesman Ahmad al-Sahaf said the ministry also recalled Iraq's charge d'affaires from Ankara. Iraq's parliament held a session Saturday on the attack, with lawmakers deciding to form a committee to investigate further. Turkey, which has several bases in northern Iraq and often conducts cross-border military operations there, says it's targeting militants from the outlawed Kurdistan Workers Party, or PKK.

The group, declared a terrorist organisation by Turkey and the West, has for decades waged an insurgency against the government in Ankara and maintains hideouts in Iraq's mountainous north.

Tokyo Olympic board member under investigation

Prosecutors searched the home of former Tokyo Olympic organizing committee executive board member Haruyuki Takahashi on Tuesday in connection with payments made to him by an Olympic sponsor of the Tokyo Games, the Japanese news agency Kyodo reported.

Kyodo said Takahashi is thought to have received around 45 million yen (330,000) from clothing retailer Aoki Holdings Inc. Kyodo said Aoki's Olympic sponsorship was announced about a year after the reported payments. Takahashi was a member of the Tokyo Olympic executive board, and Kyodo said that as a quasi-civil servant, accepting money or gifts could be constitute bribery.

The Tokyo Olympic organizing committee was dissolved on June 30. The Tokyo Olympics, delayed for a year, opened on July 23, 2021. The Tokyo Metropolitan Government held a ceremony at the 1.4 billion National Stadium to mark the anniversary.

Aoki is reported to have supplied uniforms for the Olympics and sold licensed products carrying the Olympic logo.

Takahashi was closely tied to the Tokyo Games. He is reported to have received millions of dollars from the Tokyo bid committee for his work lobbying International Olympic Committee members when Tokyo was chosen in 2013 in Buenos Aires, Argentina, ahead of Madrid and Istanbul.

He has said there was nothing improper about the payments and has denied any wrongdoing.

Takahashi is a former employee of the giant Japanese advertising agency Dentsu, Inc., which is credited with helping Tokyo land the Olympics. Dentsu was the exclusive marketing agency for the Tokyo Olympics and was pivotal in lining up a record of more than 3 billion in domestic sponsorship deals.

The Tokyo Games, which officially cost 13 billion, were littered with problems before the pandemic hit.

Biden's Covid symptoms improve, WH says he's staying busy COVID-19 symptoms left President Joe Biden with a raspy voice and cough as he met Friday via videoconference with his top economic team. But the president tried to strike a reassuring tone, declaring, I feel much better than I sound.

Biden took off a mask and sipped water as he opened the meeting to discuss the decline in gas prices in recent weeks. Reporters were allowed into a White House auditorium to view a few minutes of the proceedings, and when they asked how Biden was feeling, he flashed a thumbs-up.

The president's doctors said his mild Covid symptoms were improving and he was responding well to treatment, as the White House worked to portray the image of a president still on the job despite his illness. He received his presidential daily security briefing via video call while, separately, Chinese President Xi Jinping wished Biden a speedy recovery.

India condemns recent killings in northern Iraq's Dohuk

India on Monday strongly condemned last week's attack on a mountain resort in Dohuk region of northern Iraq in which eight tourists were reportedly killed and 20 others wounded.

Following the killings last Wednesday, some Iraqi officials claimed that Turkey was behind the attack, but the Turkish foreign ministry rejected the allegations.

"India strongly condemns the recent killings in the Zakho district of Dohuk governorate, Kurdistan region of Iraq, which is a clear violation of the country's sovereignty and a blatant disregard for international humanitarian law," the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) said in a statement.

"India expresses its deepest condolences to the families who lost their loved ones in the dastardly attack, and wishes the injured a speedy recovery," it said.

The MEA said India also conveyed its stand and condolences in messages inscribed on Monday in condolence books opened by the government of Iraq in Baghdad and the Embassy of Iraq in New Delhi.

Sri Lanka to restrict fuel imports for one year amid worst economic crisis

Sri Lanka will restrict fuel imports for the next 12 months as it is facing a severe shortage of foreign exchange, Minister of Power and Energy Kanachana Wijesekera has said while announcing a rationing system for the distribution of fuel across the crisis-hit island nation.

Sri Lanka, a country of 22 million people, is under the grip of an unprecedented economic turmoil, leaving millions struggling to buy food, medicine, fuel and other essentials.

The severe foreign exchange shortage has hampered the import of fuel and other essentials in the country reeling under the worst economic crisis in seven decades. Taking to Twitter on Monday, Wijesekera said a QR system has been introduced as the daily fuel demand cannot be fulfilled.

QR system was introduced since the daily fuel demand cannot be fulfilled. Due to Forex issues, Fuel imports have to be restricted in the next 12 months, he said. Ceylon Petroleum Corporation (CPC) has never distributed Fuel daily to Every single Fuel Station. Practically not possible even when stocks are unlimited, he said.

With the government hard pressed to pay for fuel imports due to the severe forex crisis, it introduced a fuel pass scheme on Saturday where the issues would be rationed under a limited weekly quantity.

Since June 27 the government has stopped fuel supplies and restricted essential services. In a series of tweets, the minister explained the implementation of the National Fuel Pass.

The National Fuel License (NQL) will be implemented from July 26 at several CEYPTCO and the Lankan Indian Oil Company (LIOC) petrol stations across the country. This system will be in effect until August 1 with the last digits of the number plate, he said.

Filling stations not equipped or having technical difficulties will follow the last digit system and fuel quota allocation until the technical issues are rectified, he said, adding that 60 per cent of the locations had already been equipped and tested and will be given a priority in fuel distribution.

All petrol station owners of CEYPTCO and LIOC are requested to adopt QR system immediately and distribution will be strictly enforced to fuel stations with the QR facilities by 1st of August. We request the public to register with National Fuel Pass and support the initiative, he said.

Options will be given to users to register multiple vehicles with their business registration by the end of the week and to Government institutes to register. Divisional secretaries will be given access to the platform to register generators, gardening equipment and other equipment, he said.

Wijesekera said the police department and divisional secretaries will be given access to register three-wheelers, allocating each three-wheeler to one specific fuel station.

Plane crashes near lifeguard competition, pilot rescued

A small plane towing a banner crashed in the ocean July 22 during a lifeguard competition that turned into a real-life rescue along Southern California's popular Huntington Beach.

Corinne Baginski was at the beach for her 17-year-old daughter's races in the junior lifeguarding division around 1:30 pm when she heard the sound of the aircraft slamming into the water. She instinctively turned to the tent where the teens were waiting for the next event to begin as part of the 2022 California Surf Lifesaving Association Junior Lifeguard Championship. I heard a thump and then I looked at the tent and I see all the kids turning and running, she said. Like well-trained lifesavers, they ran towards the crash. Professional lifeguards were also in the water immediately, paddling out to the single-engine Piper Cub that floated on its wings.

Ekta Kapoor wriggled out of answering a question on whether Mohit Suri's 'Ek Villain' was a Korean film's rip-off and said instead that 'Ek Villain Returns' wasn't. She was speaking at a media interaction in the national capital on Monday evening.

When a reporter asked about actor-turned-trade analyst Kamaal R. Khan's comment on the inspiration for the 2014 film starring Sidharth Malhotra and Shraddha Kapoor, Ekta chose instead to talk about 'Ek Villain Returns' and how it came about. (Kamaal R. Khan, who's better known for his stint on 'Bigg Boss' and his tweets, incidentally, made a guest appearance in 'Ek Villain'.)

"I will tell you the real story of this movie," Ekta said. "Mohit told me about the script and I said that the 'Ek Villain' franchise had to be bigger this time. Mohit worked on the script and Rohit Shetty liked it. I then went to Rohit, and I am his sister, so I requested him, and he, very sweetly, like good brothers do, gave me the script back and said that's yours."

She added: "Whoever is going to listen to this script will like it. It has not been made in any other language. I don't know what Korean Mr KKK is watching. But he seems to know more than I know, I think."

'Ek Villain Returns', which is scheduled for a July 29 release, has a star cast that includes John Abraham, Arjun Kapoor, Disha Patani and Tara Sutaria. John, Arjun and Disha were at the press conference along with Ekta and T-Series boss Bhushan Kumar.

John and Arjun talked about how challenging it was to play grey shades on screen. Arjun said: "I have played grey characters in earlier movies such as 'Ishaqzaade' or 'Gunday'. But the kind of role I am playing and the way my character wants to be dark and hated, is something I have never done before."

John pointed out that the four main characters, because they are so different from each other, would keep audiences riveted to the film till the end.

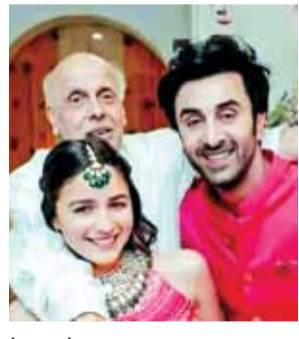

Mahesh Bhatt on becoming grandfather: My most challenging role

As Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor look forward to embracing parenthood, veteran filmmaker Mahesh Bhatt says his role as grandfather will be the "most challenging" part he has played as yet.

Alia Bhatt, who tied the knot with Ranbir Kapoor in April, announced her pregnancy last month and her father Mahesh Bhatt said he was overwhelmed after he heard the good news.

"It's the most challenging role I have to play as a grandfather. When I heard that she is going to have a baby, (I was like) 'Ah, my baby's going to have a baby'."

"I had hardly recovered from the phenomenal challenge that she displayed in recent years and kind of stunned the nation as well. And her magic was all in itself awesome. Then the magic that she is going to be a vehicle of life left me awestruck," the filmmaker told PTI in an email interview.

Mahesh Bhatt, who has lent his voice for an audiobook titled "A Taste of Life", based on his own 2009 book on philosopher U G Krishnamurti, said it is the perfect gift that he would want to leave behind for his grandchildren. The audiobook was released by Audible on July 8.

"By the time my grandchildren grow up, the written word may perhaps perish and at least I'm leaving my voice behind so they can say that, "This is my grandfather's voice". So that's what I feel is a gift. This is the best thing I could leave," he added.

The filmmaker, one of the most recognised storytellers of the Indian cinema, is known for directing acclaimed films such as "Arth", "Saaransh", "Hum Hain Rahi Pyar Ke", "Tamanna", "Aashiqui", "Dil Hai Ki Manta Nahin", "Sadak" and "Zakhm".

Mahesh Bhatt said "A Taste of Life" outweighs all his cinematic work and is closer to his heart primarily because it gave him the opportunity to go deeper into the bond that he shared with his mentor Krishnamurti.

"It has the defining love story of mine with my master, teacher, father, the love of my life, the breath of my life, U G Krishnamurti, and it chronicles my journey with him, particularly the last phase of life," he added.

Salman on south films doing well: Want to do best, but no formula to success

Superstar Salman Khan on Monday said films from the south are doing "really well" and though every artiste wants to make a good movie, there is no formula to guarantee box office success.

Khan recently came on board to present the Hindi version of Kichcha Sudeepa's upcoming Kannada fantasy action-adventure film "Vikrant Rona". At a special event of the film, Khan interacted with the cast when actor Neetha Ashok said she was taken aback after she saw that the Bollywood superstar had shared the movie's trailer on Twitter.

To this, Khan said, "I'm also presenting the film! I have to do this (promotions). I don't want to go into losses... South films are doing really well." The same time, the 56-year-old actor believes there is no formula to deliver a successful movie.

Star javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra has pulled out of the Commonwealth Games due to "fitness concerns", the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) announced on Tuesday.

Chopra had won a historic silver medal at the World Athletics Championship in Eugene on Sunday and suffered a strain in his groin during the competition.

IOA Secretary General Rajiv Mehta said the reigning Olympic champion has been advised rest for one month. "Team India javelin thrower Mr. Neeraj Chopra had called me earlier today from the US to convey his inability to take part in the Birmingham 2022 Commonwealth Games owing to fitness concern," Mehta said. "Following his participation in the 2022 World Athletics Championships in Eugene, Mr. Chopra had had an MRI scan done on Monday and, based on it, he has been advised a month's rest by his medical team," Mehta added.

The 24-year-old had become only the second Indian athlete to win a medal at World Championship, after Anju Bobby George, who won a bronze medal in long jump at the 2003 World Championship held in Paris.

Mumbai Police register FIR against actor Ranveer Singh over obscene pictures

Based on it, the police registered the FIR against Singh under various Indian Penal Code Sections like 292 (sale of obscene books, etc), 293 (sale of obscene objects to young people), 509 (word, gesture or act intended to insult the modesty of a woman) and provisions of the Information Technology Act, an official from the Chembur police station said. Film industry needs more ensemble films: Arjun Kapoor

Actor Arjun Kapoor on Monday said the Hindi film industry needs to make more ensemble films, a kind of cinema that he grew up watching.

In his appearance on "Coffee With Karan" last week, Bollywood superstar Akshay Kumar had said that he and host-filmmaker Karan Johar faced difficulty in casting a second male lead in their upcoming joint production.

Both Kumar and Johar had attributed the other actors' refusal to their "insecure" nature.

Arjun Kapoor, who shares the screen space with John Abraham in the upcoming action-thriller "Ek Villain Returns" directed by Mohit Suri, said he has always been a fan of ensemble films, even though it has become "tougher" to persuade actors to be a part of such projects.

"I have done 'Gunday' and 'Bhoot Police', I always believe that ensemble films are great fun because I've grown up watching Subhash Ghai's cinema and my uncle Anil Kapoor's movies.
