Delhi HC dismisses plea opposing permission to Sikhs carrying kirpans on flights

NEW DELHI: The Delhi High Court on Thursday dismissed a plea opposing the permission given to Sikhs to carry kirpans while travelling on civilian flights in India.

The plea, filed in a form of public interest litigation (PIL) by lawyer Harsh Vibhore Singh, challenged the Centre's notification issued on March 4 allowing Sikh passengers to carry kirpans having blade length of no more than six inches and total length of no more than nine inches while travelling anywhere in India. On December 15, the HC reserved its order on the plea. A division bench of Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Subramonium Prasad had said: "How can we interfere with such a policy decision? We can't interfere. It is a policy decision of the Government of India."

The petitioner had claimed that a committee of stakeholders should be constituted to apply its mind to the issue.

At this, the court had said: "Your mind might not be the government's mind. Therefore when the government has applied its mind and has come with a policy, we ought not to interfere unless it is so arbitrary." The court had also refused to entertain submissions by certain parties as their applications were not on record. The plaintiff had said that he was not questioning the rights of Sikhs but only wanted the stakeholders to examine the issue.

He had said: "I admit that Article 25 allows the carriage of a kirpan. But when you are flying, the regulator must apply its mind. I want a constitution of a committee of stakeholders to examine the issue. If the committee feels that the notification is good, so be it. Not a problem."

China woefully underprepared for Covid chaos: Report

BEIJING: China is woefully underprepared for the chaos that is inevitably unfolding since the Covid controls were lifted, as seen in other countries, the media reported on Friday.

According to South China Morning Post, Since Beijing's sudden U-turn on ending the zero-Covid policy more than two weeks ago, "Chinese officials and state media have struggled to put a positive spin on the decision".

Hospitals in China are overwhelmed with patients after Covid controls were eased for the first time last month, and then earlier this month.

"The reality could not be more starkly different - fever medicine in short supply, hospitals and emergency services swamped, an acute blood shortage in many cities, the death toll soaring among the elderly, and morgues and funeral parlours overwhelmed with bodies," the report mentioned.

Meanwhile, the country has sent hundreds of healthcare workers, some specialising in critical care, to Beijing to ease the burden. "However, the fact that outside help is needed in Beijing, which has the top medical resources in the country, highlights how fragile the healthcare system is as it faces an unprecedented Covid-19 wave following the government's change in pandemic response," the report added. Officially, the Beijing government has announced seven deaths since opening up.

However, according to the report, the health authorities say only coronavirus patients who die from respiratory failure, not other chronic illnesses, are counted as Covid-19 deaths.

According to reports 800 million people may get infected in China in months to come, and more than one million people may die.

Kashmir's harshest winter period 'Chilla-i-Kalan' begins

FW DESK

December 21 marks the beginning of Chilla Kalan, the 40 day period of the harshest cold. The night temperature in the Valley has plunged below freezing point at over minus 6 degree celsius and now it is likely to plunge further.

The Valley is currently in the grip of severe cold wave, aggravated by the lack precipitation. According to the meteorological department dry weather in Jammu and Kashmir will likely continue till December 24.

The department has predicted the possibility of rains or light snowfall in some parts of Kashmir around Christmas.

The region's Power Distribution Corporation announced a 31-hour to 56-hour per week power curtailment schedule. This has further reduced the electric supply. People across the Valley are complaining of longer and unscheduled power cuts. The power department has already hiked monthly power bills by 8 to 22 percent.

The demand right now in Kashmir is over 1900 MW and it is expected to peak beyond 2000 MW in January. But the supply is only 1600-1700 MW, a majority of which is brought from the central pool.

The local production has dwindled to just 150 MW due to the reduction in the water level in river Jhelum.

British-Sikh MP seeks probe into 'bullying culture' at UK hospital

LONDON: British Sikh MP Preet Kaur Gill has called on the Health Secretary to initiate an independent inquiry into the alleged bullying culture at University Hospitals Birmingham (UHB), which is seriously impacting the staff and patient care.

In a letter to Steve Barclay, Gill said she has been inundated by messages from the UHB staff, who have shared their experiences of what has been repeatedly described as a «toxic culture». «Staff have been bullied and demeaned for raising concerns about policies and practices that they believe have compromised patient care, and in some cases even led to deaths, «the MP for Birmingham and Edgbaston wrote in her letter.

Gill said that whistle-blowers have told her about a «put up or shut up» culture, which has often veered into outright bullying. Staff and former staff members have described to Gill as being harassed over several years, leading to counselling, depression and extended periods off work. «Some staff described a culture of fear so draconian that staff were afraid to go to the toilet, «the Shadow International Development Secretary said.

Highlighting the case of Queen Elizabeth Hospital doctor Vaishnavi Kumar, who took her own life after feeling «belittled» at work, Gill said that «this must be a turning point for the Trust». An inquest found last month that the 35-year-old Indian-origin doctor ended her life after she struggled to cope up with «bullying and condemnation at work», and often returned home crying. Gill reacted after seeing reports first aired on BBC Newsnight in the first week of December about the bullying culture at University Hospitals Birmingham NHS Foundation Trust.

JAGMOHAN SINGH Amritsar

Non-Government Aided Colleges' Management Federation (NGACMF) expressed strong resentment over recent notification of Punjab Government regarding proposed fixing of retirement age of aided Colleges' teachers at 58 years. They announced to wage a war against the government for the draconian decision and constituted a Joint Action Committee (JAC) to chart out the next course of action.

According to a statement issued to media, the decision was taken during the Executive Body meeting of the NGACMF held at Guru Nanak Khalsa College for Women, Ludhiana. The Federation, along with the teachers and principals' association, would jointly fight for the rights of the teachers, said NGACMF President, Rajinder Mohan Singh Chhina.

The Federation also demanded from the government to roll back the arbitrary centralized admission portal being imposed on the aided colleges which is a direct attack on the autonomy of the colleges. They also sought that the Grant-in-Aid Scheme must be implemented fully and not in the diluted form and demanded the pending dues of the grants from the state government be released immediately.

"We will soon shoot off a letter to the Secretary, Higher Education to clarify regarding the retirement age of the teachers and their salary grants. As the government is issuing misleading and vague verbal orders on the issue, we have been left with no option but to chalk out a major agitation which might include strikes and closure of institutions of higher learning in the days to come", said Chhina.

The Executive Members held extensive deliberations on the notification issued by Government of Punjab regarding Pay revision of College teachers as per 7th pay commission. "Regarding the clause 13 (ii) of the notification, the government must seriously think of the central services rules and raise the retirement age of teachers to 65 years, instead of retiring them at the age of 58," said the office bearers.

"Instead of doing this, the transport department is throwing out trained employees who have put in ten to fifteen years of service and is hiring new untrained employees through a security agency. This smacks of corruption", he added. He said even though chief minister Bhagwant Mann had announced in the State assembly that all contractual employees would be regularized, his government was following an insidious agenda by terminating the services of contractual drivers and conductors receiving a salary of Rs 17,000 to Rs 18,000 per month and hiring new recruits at Rs 9,000 per month.

PM calls for focus on wealth generation, peace for development of Northeast

Prime Minister Narendra Modi underscored the need to focus on eight pillars of Lakshmi (wealth), peace, power, tourism, 5G connectivity, culture, natural farming, sports and potential, for further development of the eight Northeastern states. Addressing a meeting of North Eastern Council (NEC) in Shillong, Modi said that the Government has gone beyond conversion of 'Look East' policy to 'Act East', and now its policy is 'Act Fast for Northeast' and 'Act First for Northeast'. The meeting marks the golden jubilee celebration of the NEC. It was formally inaugurated in 1972.

Hailing the contribution of NEC in the development of the Northeastern region, the Prime Minister said that the region is the gateway to South-east Asia and can become a centre for development of the entire region.

"And to realise this potential of the region, work is going on the projects like Indian-Myanmar-Thailand trilateral highway and Agartala-Akhauri ra rail project," the Prime Minister said. Highlighting the success of peace initiatives in the region, he said that many peace agreements have been signed, inter-state boundary agreements have been done and there has been a marked reduction in instances of extremism. Discussing India's commitment towards net zero, the Prime Minister said that the Northeast can become a powerhouse of hydropower. This it said, will make the states of the region power surplus, help in expansion of industries and generate a large number of jobs. Discussing the tourism potential of the region, the Prime Minister said that both culture and nature of the region are attracting tourists from across the world.

He added that tourism circuits are being identified and developed in the region also.

Talking about boosting connectivity in the region, the Prime Minister said that iconic bridge projects which were pending since several decades have now been completed.

In the last eight years, number of airports in the region has jumped from nine to 16, and the number of flights have increased from about 900 before 2014 to around 1,900.

Many Northeastern states have come to railway map for the first time and efforts are being made to expand the waterways also. The length of national highways has increased by 50 per cent since 2014 in the region. He said that with the launch of the PM-DevINE scheme, the infrastructure projects in the Northeast have gained more momentum. Cold wave grips North India, dense fog engulfs several areas

NEW DELHI: Cold wave continued to grip northern parts of the country and dense fog engulfed the Indo-Gangetic plains, including Delhi, for the fifth consecutive day on Friday. According to officials, in Delhi a minimum temperature of 7.9 degrees Celsius was recorded at Palam; Lodhi Road had 7.3, Aya Nagar - 5.6; Ridge (Civil lines) - 5.3, Najafgarh - 9.1 while Pitampura, Akshardham's Sports Complex, Mayapuri Vihar recorded a minimum temperature of 10, 10 and 8.7 degrees Celsius.

"Dense to Very Dense Fog conditions are likely to continue over Punjab, Haryana, Chandigarh and Uttar Pradesh during next 48 hours and decrease in intensity & spread thereafter," tweeted the India Meteorological Department (IMD). Around 20 trains were delayed due to the fog and low visibility. According to an IMD official, due to moisture and light winds at lower tropospheric levels over Indo-Gangetic plains, very dense fog in many/most pockets is very likely over Punjab and Himachal Pradesh in night/morning hours during the next 48 hours. "Dense fog in isolated pockets is also very likely over Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, north Rajasthan, Bihar, Sub Himalayan West Bengal, Sikkim and Tirpura for the next 2-3 days," said the official.

A drop in temperature has also been recorded in states of North India, including Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Punjab and Bihar. "Due to dry north/northwesterly winds from Himalayas over plains of northwest India, cold wave conditions are very likely in isolated pockets over Punjab, Haryana and north Rajasthan during December 24 to 26," said the official.

"Cold day to severe cold day conditions are also very likely over Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh in the next two days," predicted the IMD. Intense cold wave swept Ladakh and Kashmir as the 40-day long period of harsh winter cold known as 'Chillai Kalan' entered its third day. In the J&K union territory, Srinagar had minus 4.8, Jammu had 6.3 degree Celsius.

In Ladakh region, Kargil had minus 13.1 and Leh minus 13.8 as the minimum temperature.

Cancel case against Sikh youth registered due to photo of Sant Bhindranwale in Madhya Pradesh : SGPC

AMRITSAR: Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee (SGPC) President Harjinder Singh Dhami has strongly condemned the arrest of a Sikh youth after registration of a case against him for placing a photo of Sant Jarnail Singh Khalsa Bhindranwale on a tractor during Nagar Kirtan (religious procession) at Jabalpur in Madhya Pradesh (MP).

SGPC President said that this action taken by the MP police is a big injustice and excess on the minority Sikhs, which has hurt Sikh sentiments. He said that India is a multi-religious country, in which everyone has religious freedom as per the Constitution.

Harjinder Singh Dhami said that Sant Jarnail Singh Khalsa Bhindranwale is a martyr of the Sikh community, who attained martyrdom in June 1984 while struggling against the desecration of Sachkhand Sri Harmandir Sahib.

"Placing the photo of Sant Jarnail Singh Bhindranwala is not a crime, so the case against the Sikh youth in Jabalpur should be canceled immediately", said SGPC President. SGPC President appealed to Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Home Minister Narottam Mishra to intervene in this matter and issue instructions to cancel the case registered against the innocent Sikh youth.

He also appealed to the representative Sikhs of MP, Kendri Sri Guru Singh Sabha, MP and other Gurdwara committees to raise this issue vigorously at the local level so that the Sikh youth can get justice.

Terror incidents in Jammu and Kashmir down by 168 per cent: Anurag Thakur

FW DESK

Union Minister Anurag Thakur Monday said that "terror incidents in Jammu and Kashmir decreased by 168 per cent" since the Modi government came to power.

"The government undertook decisive actions which yielded definitive results," Thakur said adding that Modi government has a "zero tolerance policy towards terrorism."

"Surgical strikes in 2016 were in response to the Uri attack. Balakot Air strikes in 2019 were in response to the Pulwama bombing, so all these decisive actions yielded definitive results," he told reporters here.

Giving details of the decline in violence since Modi government came to power in 2014, Thakur said terror incidents has come down by 80 percent, and civilian deaths have decreased by 89 percent.

Disallowing debate on China disrespect to democracy, says Sonia Gandhi

NEW DELHI: In a meeting of party MPs, Congress Parliamentary Party (CPP) Chairperson Sonia Gandhi on Wednesday accused the Centre for disrespecting democracy by not allowing a debate in Parliament on the recent China transgressions.

"This refusal to allow a parliamentary debate on such a matter of grave national concern shows disrespect for our democracy, and reflects poorly on the government's intentions. It demonstrates its inability to bring the nation together," she said.

"On the contrary, by following divisive policies, by spreading hatred and targeting some sections of our society, the government makes it harder for the country to stand up as one against foreign threats.

"Such divisions weaken us and make us more vulnerable. At times like this it must be the government's endeavour and responsibility to unite our people, not divide them as it has been doing these past several years," the senior leader added.

Sonia Gandhi said the country continues to face significant internal and external challenges like inflation, unemployment, social polarisation, weakening of democratic institutions and repeated border incursions.

"As the principal opposition party, we have a great responsibility and we must continue to strengthen and renew ourselves to fulfil it."

She alleged that the economic situation continues to be distressing, despite the government's repeated insistence that all is well.

"The price of daily commodities continue their intolerable rise, placing a heavy burden on crores of households. The inability to provide jobs, especially for the youth, has been a feature of this government's tenure.

"The unemployment situation is worse even though as the Prime Minister hands over appointment letters for a few thousand, crores more face an uncertain future with government vacancies unfilled, exams unreliable, and PSUs being privatised.

"Small businesses, which generate the bulk of employment in the country, are still struggling to survive after the repeated blows of demonetization, a poorly implemented GST, and a mismanaged response to the Covid-19 pandemic. Farmers face rising costs, especially of fertilizers, uncertain prices for their crops, all these made worse by increasingly erratic weather conditions," the Congress leader said.

She alleged that farmers also seem to be no longer the Centre's priority after its misguided attempt at forcing down the three farm laws.

"A troubling new development is the calculated attempt underway to delegitimise the judiciary. Ministers, and even a high constitutional authority, have been enlisted to making speeches attacking the judiciary on various grounds. It is quite clear that this is not an effort to provide reasonable suggestions for improvement. Rather, it is an effort to reduce the standing of the judiciary in the eyes of the public."

BSF thwarts infiltration by Pak drones at Punjab international border

NEW DELHI: The Border Security Force (BSF) foiled Pakistan's attempt of smuggling drugs and weapons across the border through drones. BSF apprised that the drone tried infiltration twice at different posts along the international border of Punjab.

BSF said that the drone was fired upon by the jawans at the border in Gurdaspur in Punjab, late on Sunday night.

According to the information, the drone's activity was detected at Chandu Batala outpost around 10:20 p.m., in response of which the security force fired 6 illumination bombs and 26 rounds of rapid fire.

BSF informed that the drone tried to infiltrate Indian territory again at 10:48

p.m. near the Kasowal post in the sector.

The force retaliated by firing around 72 rounds in cross fire and 4 illumination bombs. The drone was then seen going back towards Pakistan from above the fencing.

Senior officials were informed after the incident and search operations are underway in the area. Gurdaspur DIG Prabhakar Joshi inspected the spot and interacted with the locals including jawans. He said that the entire area was being intensively searched by the BSF and the police.

Joshi added that Pakistani drone activity has been observed three times in the last 2 days and claimed that a befitting reply to the attempts was given by the jawans.

Plan afoot for single window clearance for infra projects within 100 km from LAC

NEW DELHI: The Indian Army has identified 130 villages in border areas in Arunachal Pradesh and Sikkim for boosting infrastructure, Eastern Army Commander Lt Gen Rana Pratap Kalita said on Friday against the backdrop of increasing concerns over China's expansion of civilian settlements close to the Line of Actual Control (LAC).

Lt Gen Kalita, addressing an event, also said efforts are underway to have some sort of a "single window system" for according approvals for development of any infrastructure within 100 km from the LAC as time taken for obtaining various regulatory clearances results in delays in implementation of key projects.

The Commander said many areas along the LAC in Arunachal Pradesh and Sikkim fall under ecologically sensitive zones, wildlife protected regions and reserved forests and obtaining various approvals for projects become challenging at times.

Raghav Chadha seeks discussion in Parliament on COVID surge; demands ban on flights connecting India, China

Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) leader Raghav Chadha on Thursday gave a Suspension of Notice under Rule 267 of the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in the Rajya Sabha to hold a discussion on rising COVID-19 cases in China and its impact on India.

In his written notice, Raghav Chadha said, "I hereby give notice under Rule 267 of the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in the Council of States (Rajya Sabha) of my intention to move the following motion for suspension of Question Hour listed for 22nd December 2022: "That in pursuance of Rule 267 of the Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business in the Rajya Sabha, this House do suspend Rule 38 of the said Rule in its application to the discussion on RISING CORONA CASES IN CHINA AND IMPACT ON INDIA." China is witnessing an alarming surge in fatal COVID infections from a sub-variant of Omicron.

Epidemiologists predict at least three waves of the virus to hit the country during the following months and cause over a million fatalities. The virus has already wreaked havoc in China pushing its healthcare system into chaos reports suggest that there are no beds in hospitals, medicines are running out of stock and mortuaries have run out of space. Videos of the devastation caused by the pandemic are flooding social media and alarming people.

Expressing concern over detection of four cases of this new variant in India, Chadha said the seriousness of the situation, the Ministry of Health, Government of India has issued an advisory to the States, but stronger measures were needed. "The need of the hour is to immediately ban any connecting flights from China to India via Asian countries and consider a mandatory institutional quarantine for international passengers from affected countries," he said.

He stressed that managing a pandemic is the collective responsibility of the union and all state governments. Therefore, a discussion in the Parliament on the impending threat from the new variant and the Government's preparedness to tackle the same is highly needed.

NEW DELHI: NDTV founders Prannoy Roy and his wife Radhika Roy on Friday said they will sell 27.26% out of their remaining 32.26% shareholding in the news broadcaster to Adani Group.

This follows Adani Group becoming the single largest shareholder in New Delhi Television Ltd (NDTV) after first buying out a company backed by the founders and then acquiring more shares from the open market.

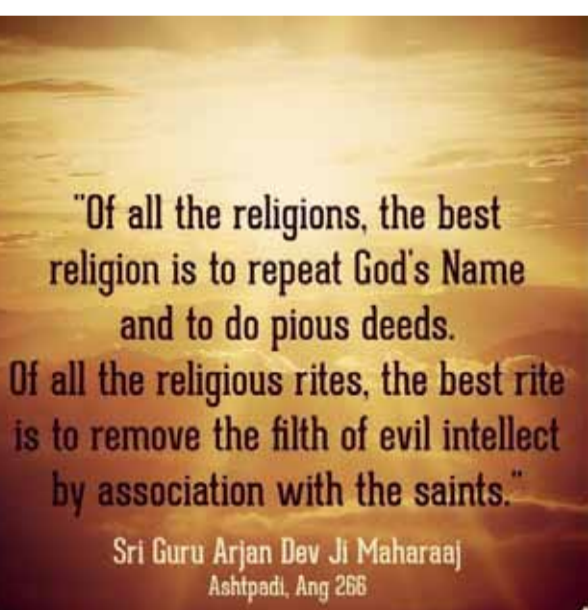

"Consequently, with mutual agreement we have decided to divest most of our shares in NDTV to (Adani Group firm) AMG Media Network," the founders said in a statement to stock exchanges.

New strain invites fresh strategy for Covid vaccination

The spurt in coronavirus cases reported out of China has triggered global alarm. India's Health Ministry has issued a directive to States to send positive samples to the Indian SARS-CoV-2 Genomics Consortium (INSACOG) to check for new, concerning strains. The Health Minister, too, has called for a review meeting of the coronavirus situation in India. India's official numbers suggest that, thus far, there is little to worry. There are only 3,408 active cases. Only one district has a test positivity rate of over 10% and only four between 5 and 10%, as per the latest available weekly data. India's COVID-19 vaccination coverage has exceeded 219.33 crore, and there are no signs of distress being reported out of hospitals. The prevalent opinion is that the lifting of curbs, after almost three years of some of the most restrictive containment measures, has now exposed a large swathe of people who lack 'natural immunity'. Some mathematical modelling projections calculate a million COVID-19 cases in the coming days in China. Given that much of the world has moved to normalcy in terms of travel, the concern is that this surge is likely to reverberate globally with many more infections, even in India, inevitable. There are two key lessons that can be derived from the Chinese experience: long lockdowns cannot eliminate the virus or prevent the development of new strains, and the only reasonable defence possible against severe disease is via vaccines. China has largely depended on home-grown vaccines such as CoronaVac and Sinopharm vaccines that rely on the inactivated virus technology. Despite 90% of the population receiving a single dose, and half, a second dose, the numbers in China suggest that waning immunity is a fait accompli. The big lesson for India is to not only establish the prevalent coronavirus variants but also whether the administered vaccines continue to be efficacious.

PRABHASH RANJAN EXPLAINS HOW THE US IS MOVING TOWARD GROWING PROTECTIONISM

Lawlessness in global trade

In a significant development in international trade law, four separate World Trade Organization (WTO) Panel reports have ruled that the tariffs of 25% and 10% on steel and aluminium, respectively, that the United States (U.S.) had imposed during the presidency of Donald Trump are inconsistent with WTO law. The cases were brought by China, Norway, Switzerland, and Turkey.

The WTO panellists held that these tariff rates breached the U.S.'s obligations under Article II.1 of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), which obligates countries not to impose tariffs beyond bound rates. Further, these tariffs breached Article I of GATT because they discriminated between some foreign producers of steel and aluminium over others. Importantly, the U.S. tried to justify its tariff hikes under Article XXI of GATT which allows countries to deviate from their trade obligations on grounds of national security. Specifically, Article XXI(b)(iii) of GATT allows a country to take any action 'which it considers' necessary for the protection of its essential security interests taken in time of war or other 'emergency in international relations'. Contrary to the U.S.'s flaccid assertion, the panel held that the national security rule in Article XXI is not entirely 'self-judging'. A panel can review the action of a state taken purportedly to protect its national security. The Panel's decision on this point is consistent with previous WTO jurisprudence laid down in the Russia-Transit and the Saudi Arabia- IPR cases.

The Panel rejected the U.S.'s argument that it increased the tariff rates due to global excess capacity, which could lead to excessive imports of these two commodities used in defence production, thus compromising the U.S.'s national security. The Panel held that the situation the U.S. referred to does not constitute an 'emergency in international relations' under Article XXI(b)(iii) because it lacked severity.

Neoliberal to geoeconomic order

For a deeper understanding, one needs to appreciate the larger political context in which this dispute arose. Anthea Roberts, Henrique Choer Moraes, and Victor Ferguson argue that the international economic order today is moving away from the post-Cold War neoliberal order toward a new geoeconomic order. In the neoliberal order, arguably, economic and security interests are relatively independent tracks. Neoliberalism is based on principles such as non-discrimination in international economic relations and a peaceful settlement of disputes through neutral international courts. It champions interdependence. These principles are achieved by legalising the neoliberal order through the creation of global institutions such as the WTO and a plethora of free trade and investment treaties. When the neoliberal order reigned supreme, the U.S. as the undisputed hegemon, supported free trade because it did not fear the growth of its strategic rivals such as China.

Although the neoliberal order is not dead, the avowedly independent economic and security tracks have started to converge, thus heralding the geoeconomic order. As the difference between the size of the Chinese and American economies began to shrink at a rapid pace, the U.S. seems to be giving up on championing free trade and swiftly embracing protectionism. The Trumpian tariffs wrapped in the cloth of national security, which the Joe Biden administration also backed, is a classic example of an American consensus on the geoeconomic order. The increasing use of the national security legalese to justify such economic nationalism is an attempt to blunt the possibility of international courts reviewing state action. This partly explains the U.S.'s erroneous argument that the national security defence is 'self-judging' and 'non justiciable'.

International trade lawlessness

The geoeconomic order will inevitably lead to what James Bacchus calls 'international trade lawlessness'. The Biden administration has rejected the WTO Panel's ruling calling it 'flawed'. Consequently, the U.S. will not remove the illegal tariff rates. Regrettably, the U.S. is using this ruling to double down on its unsound agenda of asking for reforms in the WTO's dispute settlement mechanism, which has been a shining star in the otherwise dull sky of international dispute settlement. The fear of being called out for economic nationalism by the WTO's dispute settlement mechanism has led the U.S. to block the appointment of judges to the Appellate Body — the highest court in the WTO — for the last several years.

The U.S. which always lectures countries such as Russia and China to steadfastly follow international law is turning its back to the rule-based order. This will only embolden other countries to brazenly pursue unilateralism and economic nationalism. In many ways, this unilateralism is reminiscent of the economic nationalism of the dark decades of the first part of the 20th century that led to the Great Depression and the Second World War. The days ahead will be trying times for the post-war liberal trade order because its most important chieftain seems to have lost interest in it.

LET'S MAKE A RESOLUTION NOT TO EAT JUNK FOOD FOR THE NEXT YEAR AND PLAN A TRIP TO NATURAL PLACES. YOU CAN START SAVING MONEY FOR YOUR FUTURE NEEDS AND EMERGENCIES. YOU CAN ALSO WORK ON A PLAN TO SPEND MORE TIME WITH YOUR FAMILY.

Best time to make resolutions for the New Year

NARVIJAY YADAV

The current year is coming to an end and the New Year is about to enter in our lives with a bang. It's the best time to press the reset button of our lives to get rid of bad habits and start something new and wonderful. By the way, the clock of time keeps on moving at its own pace. But as soon as the yearly calendar changes, everything seems to have changed. As if the previous train left the station and a new train is standing on the platform to take us to the new destination. It is the last fortnight of the passing year and what better time to move ahead with full enthusiasm with new resolutions. The best way to make your New Year's resolutions come true is to choose one goal at a time, work towards it patiently, reshape your working style, and always remember that «change isn't a one-night show». Change happens slowly and it takes a long time to mature things or thoughts. It is an ongoing process that happens every day.

Every New Year, people start thinking about creating a better edition of them. New Year is a time of new beginnings, new resolutions, and new dreams. With the passing of a year, the speed of the old resolutions gets down, everything seems decreasing, as if the engine is exhausted, or something is missing. In such a situation, the New Year comes like a reset button, a new beginning. Abraham Lincoln once said - "Always keep in mind that your own determination to be successful is more important than anything else." We can give direction to our great resolve by taking one small step every day. Keep noting down your everyday progress in a diary and give yourself some rewards when you reach a certain point. This keeps the excitement going and the engine doesn't go down.

The year 2022 has been comparatively better than the previous two years, i.e. 2020-21. This year also has reminded us of the importance of health, family, relations, saving money, and building a support system. The world has learned that one should live in the present moment only because life is very unpredictable and nothing is certain about the future. Everything in the world and in life is temporary. The bad time also taught people a lot about kindness, living together, helping each other, seeking help from each other, and being compassionate. In the time of the pandemic, even new-age kids who couldn't think ahead of pizza and burgers learned that natural living, Ayurveda, and centuries-old Indian food have the power to heal. We are aware now that to build immunity, one can rely on coarse grains, vegetables, and fruits. Vegetarian food is the main diet of human beings. Killing and eating animals is not real human behaviour. The bad time also explained the increasing pressure on the Earth's atmosphere and the importance of water, forest, land, and wild animals and birds. We are aware that health is the real wealth. Therefore, make a resolution not to eat junk food for the next year. You can plan a trip to natural places. You can start saving money for your future needs and emergencies. You can work on a plan to spend more time with your family.

BOOKS: REVIEW

Book recaps untold stories of freedom struggle in N-E

Did you know that a 12-year-old girl from Assam by the name of Tuleswari Barua is the youngest martyr of India's freedom struggle? Or that General Thangal of Manipur is the oldest martyr of India, having been hanged to death at the age of 80?

A new book titled 'Untold Stories of the Freedom Struggle from Northeast India' written by veteran Guwahati-based journalist and author Samudra Gupta Kashyap, has not only rediscovered these two stories, but has also brought together numerous other stories of patriotism, courage and sacrifice from across the northeastern region.

The book has been published recently by the Publications Division of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, as part of 'Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav'.

Divided into seven chapters each dealing with one of the seven states of the northeast, the book brings to the fore hitherto unrecognised battles that freedom-loving tribal communities of the region fought against the heavily-armed, repressive, exploitative British.

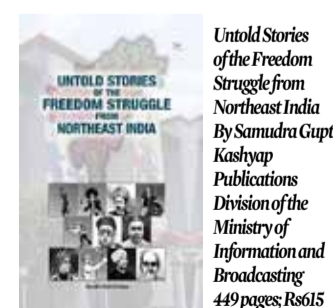

It begins with the story of the first revolt led by Gomdhar Konwar two years after the British annexed Assam in 1826, records the execution of Piyoli Phukan and Jiuram Duliya Barua in 1830 and then unfolds, in a chronological manner, a series of incidents of the anti-colonial resistance till 1947.

The Maniram Dewan story and massacre of over 185 Hindustani sepoys in 1857, which had so long remained neglected at the national level, the subcontinent's first peasants' uprising at Phulaguri

The book has been published recently by the Publications Division of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, as part of 'Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav'

(1861) against the British, the Patharughat massacre (1894), the role played by women (including attainment of martyrdom by over a dozen of them), the Dhekiajuli massacre (1942), -- all of Assam -- come together in this well-researched book.

Likewise, the amazing manner in which the Khanti, Singpho, Adi, Mishmi and Wanchoo communities of present-day Arunachal Pradesh, the Khasi, Jaintia and Garo tribals of present-day Meghalaya, the Angamis of the Naga Hills, the Lushais of present-day Mizoram and the Kuki and Zeliangrongs of Manipur were engaged in bloody battles to protect their respective homelands from British subjugation have been brilliantly described.

Yet another episode described in detail is the Anglo-Manipuri War of 1891. The full-scale war the British waged on Manipur, the armed resistance leading to the killing of five top British officers, the martyrdom of Bir Tikendrajit, General Thangal, Kajao Singh, Chirai Naga and Niranjan Singh, the Battle of Khongjom and the heroism of Paona Brajabasi, Nupi Lan or Manipur's women warriors, takes the reader back in time to the dark days of British expansionism in the northeast.

The author has also described in detail the Muslim League conspiracy to include Assam in its Pakistan plan by way of engineering a silent demographic invasion, and how the Assamese leaders under Lokapriya Gopinath Bardoloi stood up against the silence of the All India Congress Committee to this issue.

"Bringing out all these from across the northeast was a huge challenge, especially because of lack of proper documentation of most of the incidents. In fact, barring Assam, Manipur and partially Meghalaya, the anti-colonial resistance movements in the other states have been hardly researched and documented. In many cases, one had to take help of British documents and reports and then recreate the stories from the opposite angle," Kashyap, who is currently a State Information Commissioner in Assam.

Instacart cofounder Apoorva Mehta stole trade secrets, alleges lawsuit

NEW DELHI: Apoorva Mehta, the Indian-origin cofounder of grocery delivery company Instacart, has been accused of using stolen trade secrets to build a healthcare startup promoting weight loss.

Hello Logistics, which operates under the name NextMed, has sued Mehta, his business partner Tejasvi Singh, and their company Cloud Health Systems, reports The American Bazaar.

Indian-Canadian businessman Mehta, who announced to step down as executive chairman of Instacart in July this year, has been sued over allegations of misappropriation of trade secrets, copyright infringement and other claims.

According to the lawsuit, Singh collected some of NextMed's trade secrets under the guise of gathering the information as part of "due diligence for investors". Mehta and Singh then used the information to create a company that "does business as Sunrise, with a copycat website", according to the complaint. They also allegedly implemented NextMed's highly confidential customer acquisition and other strategies, "in mere weeks".

Mehta's new healthcare company has raised $30 million from two venture capital firms.

In July, the US-based Instacart's Founder and Executive Chairman Mehta announced to step down from the online grocery delivery service he founded nearly a decade ago. Instacart announced that

Private cryptos will trigger next financial crisis if allowed to grow: RBI Governor

NEW DELHI: As millions of investors face uncertainty in global crypto meltdown, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Shaktikanta Das said on Wednesday that the next financial crisis will come from crypto collapse if private digital coins are allowed to grow.

Addressing a group of banking sector leaders and lawmakers, Das emphasised that cryptocurrencies have no "underlying value" and pose great risks for global macro-economic and financial stability. "After the development of the last one year, including the latest episode surrounding FTX, I don't think we need to say anything more," Das said. "Crypto or private cryptocurrency is a fashionable way of describing what is otherwise a 100 per cent speculative activity," he added. After the collapse of crypto exchange FTX, US authorities have arrested its former CEO San Bankman-Fried in the Bahamas and officially charged him with defrauding equity investors.

According to the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) complaint, since 2019, FTX raised more than $1.8 billion from equity investors, including approximately $1.1 billion from approximately 90 US-based investors.

The RBI last month kick-started a pilot project to launch its own digital rupee in the wholesale segment and subsequently plans to roll out another one in the retail segment within a month, with an aim to enhance financial inclusion

Underlying economic activity continues to be strong, but external sector to dent growth: RBI

MUMBAI: Reserve Bank Governor Shaktikanta Das on Wednesday said underlying economic activity in India continues to be strong, but external factors will cause some "dent" to the economy.

Speaking at the BFSI Insight Summit 2022 organised by Business Standard, Das said the RBI tracks 70 fast moving indicators and most of them are in the "green box". It is the external sector, mired by a fear of recession or clear visibility about slowing growth in a large part of the world, where the challenges lie, he said, adding that the impact of external demand will "dent" the economy.

and move towards a less cash economy with its central bank digital currency (CBDC). The CBDCs can boost innovation in cross-border payments, making these transactions instantaneous and help overcome key challenges relating to time zone, exchange rate differences as well as legal and regulatory requirements across jurisdictions. Additionally, the interoperability of the CBDCs presents means to mitigate cross-border and cross-currency risks and frictions while reinforcing the role of central bank money as an anchor for the payment system.

Therefore, the potential use of the CBDC in alleviating challenges in cross-border payment is one of the major motivations for exploring its issuance. Meanwhile, the government's bill that seeks to prohibit all private cryptocurrencies in India is yet to be tabled in Parliament.

Bank of England unveils design of King Charles banknotes

LONDON: The Bank of England on Tuesday unveiled the design of banknotes featuring King Charles III.

In a statement, the central bank said the portrait of the King will appear on existing designs of all four polymer banknotes (5, 10, 20 and 50 pounds), with no other changes to the existing designs. The King's image will appear on the front of the banknotes, as well as in cameo in the see-through security window. The new notes are expected to enter circulation by mid-2024. All polymer banknotes carrying a portrait of the late Queen Elizabeth II remain legal tender, and the public can continue to use these as normal, the statement said.

"In line with guidance from the Royal Household, to minimise the environmental and financial impact of this change, new notes will only be printed to replace worn banknotes and to meet any overall increase in demand for banknotes. "Notes featuring Queen Elizabeth II and King Charles III will therefore co-circulate," it added.

Speaking ahead of the release, Bank of England Governor Andrew Bailey said: "I am very proud that the Bank is releasing the design of our new banknotes which will carry a portrait of King Charles III. This is a significant moment, as the King is only the second monarch to feature on our banknotes. People will be able to use these new notes as they start to enter circulation in 2024."

Queen Elizabeth was the first and only monarch to appear on circulating Bank of England banknotes, starting in 1960.

Notes issued by Scottish and Northern Irish banks do not depict the monarch.

Jio completes acquisition of Reliance Infratel, pays Rs 3,720 cr to lenders MUMBAI: Reliance Jio Thursday completed the acquisition of Reliance Communication Ltd.'s (RCOM) tower and fibre assets by paying Rs 3,720 crore to the lenders.

According to sources, the company has deposited Rs 3,720 crore in the escrow account of the State Bank of India (SBI).

In November, the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) had given its approval to Jio for the acquisition of Reliance Infratel (RITL), an RCOM subsidiary that houses the tower and fibre assets.

The tribunal had allowed Jio to deposit Rs 3,720 crore in the escrow account of SBI.

On November 6, Jio moved a petition in the NCLT Mumbai proposing to deposit Rs 3,720 crore in an escrow account of SBI to complete the acquisition of Reliance Infratel. In November 2019, Jio had placed a bid of Rs 3,720 crore to acquire the tower and fibre asset of RCOM.

The Committee of Creditors has already approved the resolution plan by Jio on March 4, 2020, with a 100 per cent vote, but the acquisition process could not reach finality due to the differences between the lenders over the distribution of funds.

According to an application moved by Reliance Projects and Property Management Services, a subsidiary of Jio, the company had said that due to the pendency of the proceedings over the distribution of the amount and issuance of the 'no dues' certificate, implementation of the resolution plan is delayed.

The petition said, "Such delay is causing severe harm to the interest of the corporate debtor as well as the resolution applicant, and such delay will deteriorate the value of assets."

RITL has fibre assets of around 1.78 lakh route kilometers and 43,540 mobile towers across the country.

According to the NCLT order, the funds will be distributed amongst the lenders once the inter-creditor dispute over the distribution of resolution funds is settled.

Six Indians charged in multimillion-dollar tech scam in US, Canada

NEW DELHI: Five Indian men and a woman have been charged in connection with a transnational technical support scam that targeted more than 20,000 victims, many of them elderly, in the US and Canada.

Gagan Lamba, 41, and Harshad Madaan, 34, from New Delhi; Jayant Bhatia, 33, from Ontario, Canada, and Vikash Gupta, 33, from Faridabad, were charged with conspiracy to commit wire fraud, computer fraud, and substantive violations of wire fraud and computer fraud, US Attorney Philip R Seller said.

Lamba, Madaan, Bhatia, and a fifth defendant, Kulwinder Singh, 34, of Richmond Hill, New York, are also charged with conspiracy to commit money laundering, money laundering, and engaging in monetary transactions in property derived from specified unlawful activity.

Bhatia has been charged with offences related to his participation in a high-tech fraud scheme. The sixth defendant, Meghna Kumar, 50, of Edison, New Jersey, pleaded guilty last week to information charging her with engaging in monetary transactions in property derived from specified unlawful activity, based on her role in the scheme.

"As alleged in the indictment, the defendants are charged with using access to personal computers to run a high-tech extortion scheme on a global scale," the US Attorney said in a Department of Justice statement.

Seller said that the scammers frequently targeted senior citizens and scared them into paying for unnecessary and useless computer repair services.

According to documents filed in this case and statements made in the court, the defendants and others were members of a criminal fraud ring that operated a technical support fraud scheme in the US, India, and Canada from 2012 through November 2022.

The scheme targeted victims across the US and Canada, including New Jersey, many of whom were elderly, the press statement read.

The primary objective was to trick victims into believing that their personal computers were infected with a virus or malware and then convince the victims to pay hundreds or thousands of dollars to the fraud ring for phony computer repair services.

Over the course of the conspiracy, the fraud ring generated more than $10 million in proceeds from at least 20,000 victims.

The fraud ring caused fraudulent pop-up windows to appear on victims' personal computers. The pop-ups were designed, at times, to "freeze" the victims' computers, which prevented the victims from using or accessing files on their computers.

The pop-ups also claimed, falsely, that the victims' computers were infected with a virus, or otherwise compromised, and directed the victims to call a telephone number to receive technical support. Sometimes the pop-ups warned victims to not shut down their computers.

In reality, the pop-ups were a hoax, designed to trick the victims into believing that their computers were infected with viruses that did not actually exist. Victims who called the technical support phone numbers appearing on the pop-ups were connected to one or more call centres in India associated with the fraud ring.

Fraud ring members at the call centres falsely repeated that the victims' computers were infected with viruses and offered to fix the purported issue for a fee.

The fraud ring members would then request permission

"The project has achieved 90.57 per cent physical progress as on 12th December 2022," Minister of State for External Affairs V Muraleedharan told Rajya Sabha in reply to a question on India's development cooperation with Central Asian countries.

Asian countries.

"The nature of our development partnership and economic cooperation are not comparable with any country in the region. India's investments and development projects are based on the development priorities of a recipient country and these stand firmly on their own merits," he stated.

In Uzbekistan, for instance, the Indian government-supported Line of Credit of USD 448 million for social infrastructure and other development projects, is helping in equipping secondary schools in Syrdarya region with computers and in the creation and getting equipment for a new reference laboratory at the Republican Scientific Specialized Allergological Centre.

India is also committed to a strong development partnership with strategic partner Uzbekistan, having assigned a Line of Credit of US$ 40 million for the procurement of defence equipment from India.

Last year, during his visit to Bishkek, EAM Jaishankar announced a USD 200 million Line of Credit to the government of Kyrgyzstan taking the historical and civilisational bond shared by the two countries to a new height.

India is providing similar LoCs to other Central Asian countries, including Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan. New Delhi is also battling extensively for improving the landlocked region's connectivity with the outside world through the Chabahar port in Iran and integrating it within the framework of the International North-South Transport Corridor (INSTC).

Covid-19 cases in the US surpass 100 million: Johns Hopkins University

WASHINGTON: The number of Covid-19 cases registered in the US since the start of the pandemic in early 2020 exceeded a staggering 100 million, Johns Hopkins University has said, amid a sharp spike in caseloads globally and the WHO making a strong pitch for vaccination. Japan, the US, the Republic of Korea, Brazil and China have witnessed a sudden spike in coronavirus cases over the last week. US-based Johns Hopkins University in its latest update said that 100,003,837 coronavirus cases were reported in the country so far. The virus has also claimed the lives of 1,088,236 people in the US, it added. Meanwhile, close to 8,000 and 10,000 people die of COVID-19 every week, said Maria Van Kerkhove, an infectious disease epidemiologist who serves as the technical lead for the COVID-19 response team at the World Health Organisation (WHO). She told 'Science in 5' that the WHO target of vaccinating 70 per cent of the population in every country has not been achieved so far. Vaccination against COVID-19 was "fundamental," she said. According to health officials in China, Chinese cities are currently hit by the highly transmissible Omicron strains, mainly BA.5.2 and BF.7.

The novel coronavirus first emerged in the Chinese city of Wuhan in December 2019.

Chinese aggression another reason to strengthen India-US ties: US lawmakers

WASHINGTON: The latest Chinese aggression against India is yet another reminder of strong India-US ties, top American lawmakers have said.

"China's most recent aggression in Arunachal Pradesh is yet another reminder of why a strong security partnership with India is crucial to the national security of the United States and our allies," India Caucus Co-Chairs said in a statement.

"This event marks yet another threat of the People's Republic of China (PRC) to the Indian territory, including China's premeditated aggression on the Line of Actual Control in 2020 which saw the death of approximately 20 Indian troops," the co-chairs said.

US condemns Taliban restrictions on women's education

WASHINGTON: The United States has condemned the recent decision of the Taliban with regard to imposing restrictions on education of women in Afghanistan. "The United States condemns the Taliban's indefensible decision to prevent Afghan women from receiving a university-level education," White House NSC spokesperson Adrienne Watson said on Tuesday. "This deplorable decision is the latest effort by Taliban leadership to impose additional restrictions on women and girls in Afghanistan and prevent them from exercising their human rights and fundamental freedoms," she said.

Now Sikhism to be part of school curriculum in two US states

NEW YORK: More than 24 million students in the US can now learn about Sikhs with two more states voting in favour of new social studies standards that will include Sikhi, or Sikh faith, in their school curriculum for the first time ever.

Utah and Mississippi became the 15th and 16th states in the US recently to include information about Sikhism, Sikh practices, and traditions in their social studies syllabi.

These new standards will give 606,000 students in Utah and approximately 457,000 students in Mississippi the opportunity to learn about the Sikh community.

"Thanks to these new educational standards, students across our state can learn about Sikhism -- which means safer schools for my children in Utah, and better cultural education for all," said Manjit Singh, a resident of Salt Lake City.

Sikhism is the fifth largest religion in the world and the community has contributed to American society for over 125 years in the fields of civil rights, politics, agriculture, engineering, and medicine.

In spite of that, Sikhs and their social and historical contributions are largely absent from the state educational standards and their associated materials, a Sikh Coalition statement noted.

"These new standards provide our growing Sikh community in Mississippi with an opportunity to educate our neighbours about the Sikh faith and better protect and recognise Sikh students in the state," said Sikh community member Amrik Singh of Jackson. According to Sikh students who continue to face bullying because of their religion and the articles of faith, the move is one of the best ways to educate their teachers and classmates about the religion in an accurate and constitutional way.

The move came after Sikh Coalition made the initial request for Sikhi to be included in the new standards at the State Board of Education Meeting in January this year.

"Inclusive and accurate standards are an important first step to combat bigotry and to reduce bullying, and they benefit all students by increasing baseline cultural competency and decreasing ignorance," Harman Singh, Sikh Coalition Senior Education Manager, said in a statement. Local adoption and implementation of the more inclusive standards will begin in the months and years to follow, a Sikh Coalition press note said.

The Sikh Coalition stated that it will continue to work closely with the Utah and Mississippi Department of Education during the process.

UN calls for restoration of university rights for Afghan women

UN Women Executive Director Sima Bahous has called for the restoration of Afghan women's right to higher education after the Taliban-run administration banned female students from university.

"It is as short-sighted as it is appalling," she said.

Bahous called on the Taliban-run administration to immediately restore the full rights of women and girls, which include the right to education, as well as to work and to participate in public life, reports Xinhua news agency.

Women have always played a key role in shaping Afghanistan's development, and in supporting its peace, security and resilience, said Bahous, adding that to end women's higher education is to ignore their historical contributions and sever them from their future potential and the potential of their country.

As UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres stated, the denial of education violates the equal rights of women and girls and will have a devastating impact on Afghanistan's future. It condemns the country to further economic hardship, suffering and international isolation, said Bahous.

Without education, a generation of Afghan women and girls will not have the skills they need to fully contribute to the development of their country. Without education, their pathways to participation and leadership are further constrained, leaving them vulnerable to discrimination and gender-based violence, she added.

On Tuesday, the Taliban regime's Education Ministry said the decision, which will further restrict women's access to formal education, was taken at a cabinet meeting and the indefinite ban would go into effect immediately.

After the country fell to the Taliban in August 2021, universities had introduced gender segregated classrooms and entrances.

Female students could only be taught by women professors or old men.

Finland cuts GDP growth forecasts for 2023, signalling recession

Finland's Ministry of Finance has marked down its economic prognosis for 2023. It now predicts a 0.2 per cent GDP decline. Back in September, it projected growth of 0.5 per cent.

"It is difficult to see a path on which growth does not slow in Finland. The risk of a recession is clear, but an even greater risk is remaining locked in old structures and the resulting underutilisation of resources," Mikko Spolander, Director of the Ministry's Stability Unit, said on Tuesday.

Finland's GDP is expected to grow by 1.9 per cent in 2022, decrease by 0.2 per cent in 2023 and increase again by 1.2 and 1.4 per cent in 2024 and 2025, respectively, Xinhua news agency reported.

The country's GDP began a slight decline in autumn, and weak economic performance is expected to continue over the winter, the Ministry said in a statement on Tuesday.

A broad rise in prices has cut households' purchasing power as incomes have not kept pace with prices. However, inflation will slow in 2023 and income growth will accelerate. The economy will recover in 2024 but will not return to the growth track that was previously forecast due to the conflict between Russia and Ukraine, it added.

According to the Ministry, the economic situation in the eurozone is very similar to that in Finland. However, most eurozone countries are suffering from the energy crisis more than Finland because natural gas plays a much greater role in their energy production.

Despite the slowdown in economic growth, the growth in world trade has been brisk and will accelerate after 2023. Finland's exports will also benefit from this growth. However, the loss of Russian markets will leave a permanent gap in exports.

The employment rate is at a record high at the end of 2022. The number of job vacancies is also quite high. In 2023, the number of employed people will decrease by about 12,000, and the unemployment rate will rise to 7 per cent. Despite the slump, the employment rate will remain strong and begin to grow again in 2024, it said.

The forecast assumes that economic sanctions and the effects of the Russia-Ukraine conflict will remain similar, the Ministry said. New developments in Ukraine may cause significant and rapidly spreading effects on the economy. Should this occur, economic employment growth would be weaker than estimated. On the other hand, the end of the conflict and the start of reconstruction would have significant positive effects on the economy.

MIDAo awarded Facilitation of DAO Registry Process by government of Marshall Islands

PACIFIC ISLAND NATION PASSES INTO LAW THE DECENTRALIZED AUTONOMOUS ORGANIZATION ACT OF 2022, LEGALLY RECOGNIZING DAOS AS DOMESTIC LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANIES UNDER THE COUNTRY'S EXISTING LAWS, UNDERSCORING INVESTMENT AND EXPLORATION INTO DECENTRALIZED LEDGER TECHNOLOGIES

MAJURO, MARSHALL ISLANDS: In a world-first, the Republic of the Marshall Islands (RMI) announced today that the government has passed into law the Decentralized Autonomous Organizations Act of 2022, which legally recognizes DAOs and enables legal entities registered in the country to formally adopt DAO structures and governance tools. This development marks the furthest any country has gone in legalizing and encouraging the growth of decentralized entities and their associated elements, representing a unique opportunity for MIDAo's facilitation of DAO Registry Process in the Marshall Islands.

The historic announcement comes amid growing calls for governments to introduce more regulatory oversight and scrutiny of blockchain and cryptocurrency. Following the collapse of the FTX centralized crypto exchange, many governments have announced plans for new legislation and beefed up enforcement from financial watchdog institutions. The government of the Republic of the Marshall Islands recognizes that a 'one-size-fits-all' approach will not work in this sector, and recognizes the benefits that decentralization can bring to its economy.

"The Republic of the Marshall Islands is proud to be at the forefront of tech jurisprudence and compliance globally. With this adoption of the DAO Act of 2022, The Marshall Islands commits its courts and its resources to the burgeoning world of decentralization, and recognizes the unique place that decentralized autonomous organizations can hold not just in the blockchain space, but in the broader economy as well. We believe that our island nation is well-suited based on our history of shipping registration and compliance to take this step forward and offer DAOs a place to domicile easily, efficiently, and in a cost-effective manner," said RMI Finance Minister Bransen Wase.

"We are in the midst of the blockchain revolution, and people all over the world are exploring new ways to organize and make decisions in a more efficient and egalitarian manner. Decentralized autonomous organizations present an enormous opportunity for people to organize in a more efficient and less hierarchical manner. We in the Marshall Islands recognize this unique moment to lead in this critical space," said Bobby Muller, former RMI Chief Secretary, and President and Co-Founder of MIDAo.

The Decentralized Autonomous Organization Act of 2022 in the RMI legally accomplishes:

- ◆ Allows DAOs to incorporate under the internationally recognized LLC structure, so long as they identify as a DAO LLC;
- ◆ Allows for-profit DAOs and not-for-profit DAOs to register;
- ◆ Recognizes DAO governance, voting processes, and framework, including tokenization;

- ◆ Creates an investment fund for the government of RMI to continue education and training around DAOs and how to integrate them further into the economy;
- ◆ Provides definitions and regulations for DAO formation, agreements, and use of smart contracts.
- ◆ In an effort to attract DAOs and Web3 pioneers, this newly passed legislation establishes a DAO registry process, to be facilitated by MIDAo, a local company with the expertise to attract and explain why the RMI legal system is more beneficial to DAO structures than other jurisdictions in the world.

Taliban regime's decision to ban women from university education in Afghanistan will come with 'consequences': Blinken

WASHINGTON: United States has strongly condemned the Taliban's "indefensible decision" to ban women from universities and keep secondary schools closed to girls, with Secretary of State Antony Blinken warning that this decision will come with "consequences" for the hardline Islamist regime in Afghanistan. The Taliban rulers on Tuesday banned university education for women nationwide, as they took decisive steps to crush their right to education and freedom. It was a far cry from their promise of a softer rule when they seized power last year, with the Taliban regime strongly implementing their strict interpretation of the Islamic law, or Sharia. "You all are informed to immediately implement the mentioned order of suspending education of females until further notice," according to a letter issued to all government and private universities, signed by Minister for Higher Education Neda Mohammad Nadeem. "The US condemns in the strongest terms the Taliban's indefensible decision to ban women from universities, keep secondary schools closed to girls, and continue to impose other restrictions on the ability of women and girls in Afghanistan to exercise their human rights and fundamental freedoms," Blinken said on Tuesday. The ban comes barely three months after scores of female students took university entrance exams across the country. "Education is a human right. It is also essential to Afghanistan's economic growth and stability. The Taliban cannot expect to be a legitimate member of the international community until they respect the rights of all in Afghanistan. This decision will come with consequences for the Taliban," Blinken warned. The move is almost certain to hurt efforts by the Taliban to win recognition from potential international donors at a time when the country is mired in a worsening humanitarian crisis.

"No other country in the world bars women and girls from receiving an education," Blinken noted. Afghanistan is already losing more than USD 1 billion per year in contributions that women could be making to the economy. No country can thrive when half of its population is held back, he explained. "The Taliban's latest announcement means that women and girls will continue to face enormous difficulties seeking employment to feed their families," he said. The ban notwithstanding, Blinken added that Washington will continue to provide robust support to the Afghans, including women and girls, seek to meet their humanitarian needs, and organise with allies to collectively advocate for their rights. The Taliban were ousted in 2001 by a US-led coalition for harbouring Al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden. They, however, returned to power following America's chaotic departure from the country in August 2021.

Kumar Reddy got a reprieve while batting at 40 when he was dropped in the deep. The batters did not give any chances to the bowling side as they continued to mint runs. Sunil Ramesh reached his hundred which is his third of the tournament with a boundary. Ajay reached his milestone in the final over of the innings. The batters put on a 248 run unbeaten partnership for the third wicket to take the run rate and added pressure to the Bangladesh batters especially after the power play overs which yielded very less output for Bangladesh. They lost their first wicket in the 9th over after Lalit Meena dismissed the Bangladesh captain for 21 after an opening wicket partnership of 56 runs. Salman on the other side was trying his best to accelerate the scoring but the Indian side were disciplined and restricted the batters.
